ROLL OF HONOUR.

IN MEMORIAM.

DEEVES—In fond and loving memory of John Henderson Deeves, 20th Canadians, killed in action in France, November 11th, 1917, aged 22 years, second son of Matthew and Margaret Deeves, Grange, Kilcooley, Thurles. "Severed only till He come."

KENNY—In ever-loving and ever-present memory of Cecil, K.S.L.I., precious son of Tom and Loo Stacpoole Kenny, of Moymore, County Clare, and Donore, Bray, lost at sea, on active service, 11th November, 1915. Jesus, mercy; Mary, help.

And when the one Great Scorer
Comes to write against your name,
He'll write, not that you won or lost,
But how you played the game."

SHERWOOD—In memory of my loved son, Sapper William Eaton Sherwood, Royal Engineers, died in France, Armistice Day, of wounds received in action. My beloved.—Mother.

WILMER—In memory of Major Harold Gordon Wilmer, 14th K.G.O. Sikhs, killed in action, 1915, while commanding his regiment at Gallipoli, elder son of the late Colonel J. R. Wilmer, R.A., aged 36.

17th DUBLIN COMPANY THE BOYS' BRIGADE.
Old Boys' Union, St. Matthew's, Irishtown.

"All they had hoped for,
All they had they gave
To save mankind,
Themselves they scorned to save."

ROYAL ARMY MEDICAL CORPS.
In memory of the six thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, of all ranks, who gave their lives for their country in the Great War of 1914-1919.
In arduis fidelis.

An impulsive hot-headed enthusiastic character somewhat "spoilt," accustomed to have her own way, and rather difficult when denied it, with a mind requiring constant occupation, a keen sense of humour, musical and artistic ability, and histrionic possibilities, but full of the modern spirit of unrest and discontent, and does not know her own mind, or what she wants. Generous to a fault, careless with money, frivolous and rather vain, but capable of deep and strong feeling, and jealous, exacting and possessive in disposition.

First Demonstrations in Ireland

GREAT INVENTIONS WHICH BANISH FOOT PAIN

You need not suffer any longer the slightest foot discomfort. We are now demonstrating the May Supinator—something entirely new in foot comfort service which is recommended by thousands of doctors for every type of metatarsalgia. These new elastic, springy arch-supports and cushions support the ankles, prevent the bones from spreading and relieve all the previous tension of over-strained muscles. They make walking a great joy again.

Every Degree of Foot Pain definitely overcome . . . . .

An examination in the May-Reflex-Mirror reveals the cause of every kind of foot complaint, and indicates the proper form of May Supinator or May Metatarsalgia Bandage necessary.

Millions use these ELASTIC Arch Supports

Medical clinics and panel doctors throughout the Continent prescribe the May Supinator. Millions have found great benefit. These supports are made of the same material as the frame of airships, are immeasurably strong and springy, but far lighter than steel. They are wonderfully made, with rubber pads just where pressure on ball or heel is greatest.

CALL AND SEE THE WONDERFUL
MAY SUPINATOR
(PATENTED)

Have your feet examined
FREE
on the new patented May-Reflex-Mirror. It reveals exactly the cause of any foot complaint.

Come and see the YOMA method of removing CORNS, CALLOSITIES, etc., without a KNIFE, without PAIN, without DANGER.

DEMONSTRATIONS ARE BEING HELD DAILY THIS WEEK

RHUBARB AND SEAKALE.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

Leaves can at once be cleared from the rhubarb stools to the end of free access to frost, for they never start so satisfactory without this refrigeration, and however short its duration, time is a forgotten circumstance, and the enforced rest, whether for lifting and forcing or yielding in situ, according to the covering employed that seems necessary. As for seakale, we do not care to strip the leaves until dead enough to part readily from the crowns, and for which at the moment demand a smell of frost. Until that occurs they will not be worried, and then all will be lifted, dividing up the roots and some we see neglected for years sadly need it, and this whether for forcing or replanting, the strongest-crowned roots being selected for a good crop, the weaker roots for growing on. In all cases the roots, after selection, will be tied in small bundles and soil-buried in some quiet corner, unless it be the strongest for forcing forthwith either in boxes or barrels, securely covered to exclude light and relegated to warm quarters.

WINTER TREATMENT OF HENS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

As winter conditions, whether mild or cold, dry or wet, require special treatment, it may be started at once, if not done before. This consists of comfortable roosting houses, warm and airy, but not draughty. Sometimes it is necessary to hang a curtain in front of the birds if the house is large and much glass in the front. The perches may be fully filled with pullets or hens, eight or nine inches to each, as they keep each other warm. No artificial heat should be given, as in a well-built house with plenty of birds the heat is quite sufficient. Then the scratching shed, which should have been thoroughly cleaned out, should be filled one or two feet deep with dry litter, and it should be arranged so that no rain or strong wind will reach the birds. Outside conditions, if there are enclosed runs, should be that the birds are perfectly dry underfoot. No pools of water or slushy mud should be allowed anywhere in the runs where they are confined.

THE ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

At the weekly meeting of the Board of Governors of the Royal Irish Academy of Music—Mr. Dermod O'Brien, vice-president, in the chair—Mr. Edwin Bradbury, M.R.I.A.I., C.E., was unanimously co-opted a governor representing the members, in the place of Mr. Lupton, who was recently elected a vice-president. Patronage was given to a concert to be given by the past and present pupils of the Academy in the Mansion House on Wednesday, 26th November.

DUBLIN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

THE PRICE OF PETROL.

At the monthly meeting of the Council of the Dublin Chamber of Commerce yesterday the secretary was directed to point out to the Commissioner of the Civic Guard that the regulations for preventing the overcrowding of motor omnibuses are being persistently ignored, and to request that the regulations be enforced; also to request the Commissioner to ensure that in the coming Road Traffic Bill proper provision is made for the prevention of joy riding in stolen cars, and for the punishment of the offenders.

The President, Mr. W. P. Sherriff, announced that there would be an International Commercial Fair at Brussels from the 5th to the 22nd April, 1931.

PETROL PRICES.

A letter dated 3rd November, 1930, was read from the associated oil companies stating that a reduction of one penny per gallon was made in the retail price of petrol in the Irish Free State on 1st November. This reduction does not apply to Great Britain or Northern Ireland.

The Dublin Chamber took this matter up some months ago, and pointed out to the associated companies that as there could be no difference in the cost of distribution of petrol in the City of Dublin and Belfast there should be no difference in the retail price. The Chamber requested the associated companies to reduce the price in Dublin by 2d., which would make the retail price the same in Dublin and Belfast, allowance being made for the tax in Northern Ireland.

The companies have now reduced the difference to 1d. As the retail price in the City of Dublin is still 1d. above the retail price in Belfast, allowance being made for tax, the Council adopted a recommendation from its Traffic and Transit Committee to press for a further reduction of 1d., as no satisfactory explanation has been given for the difference between the prices in Dublin City and Belfast.

IMPERIAL ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

Mr. G. N. Jacob, J.P., reported that he had represented the Associated Chambers of the Irish Free State on a deputation to delegates attending the Imperial Economic Conference, which deputation had put forward the views of the commercial community as represented by the Federation of Chambers of Commerce. A copy of the evidence submitted by the deputation had been given by him to the secretary for the information of any members of the Council who might be interested.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT (CRIMINAL) COURT SENTENCES.

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

The following sentences were imposed:—

Thomas Sweeny (glass-breaking)—A suspended sentence of six months' imprisonment and bound over for two years.

G. W. Holgate (obtaining cattle by means of worthless cheques in 1921)—Allowed to stand out until the next sitting of the Court, so that restitution would be made in the meantime.

John H. Fogarty, surveyor (alleged fraudulent conversion of Land Commission money)—Sentence postponed until next sitting and bail fixed at £300, in order that fresh evidence of receipts could be examined.

JUDGE AND CIVIC GUARDS.

At the conclusion of the business Judge Shannon expressed his high appreciation of the manner in which Inspector Curran and the Guards had discharged their duties during the sitting of the Court.

"From what I have seen of the Guards in this Court," said the Judge, "I believe that the day will never come when a Judge will have to express dissatisfaction at the way in which the Guards perform their duty."

He had much pleasure in conveying to Inspector Curran and the Guards his warmest thanks, and he expressed his desire that Inspector Curran and the Guards should, if it could be arranged, get a period of relaxation after their long term of duty at the Court.

Inspector Curran returned thanks.

The Court then adjourned until December 9th.

BOOKS OF THE WEEK

THOMAS CHATTERTON.

A Life of Thomas Chatterton. By E. H. W. Meyerstein. London: Ingpen and Grant. 30/- net.

THIS work reveals Chatterton in a fresh light, in that the author supplements extant works by appraising the Rowley poems as English poetry, and sees the poet as part of his environment, mainly through the medium of contemporary evidence. It was a tempting environment for a young poet of ambition and pride, bound for seven years to a scrivener's stool in the city of Bristol. As the author says:—

> Chatterton lived in a world of bustling, get-rich-quick tradesfolk and swaggering prentices, who preened themselves on their talents, spouting clubs and effusions in the Bristol newspapers and the London magazines.

Mr. Meyerstein leads us learnedly through a maze of documents—poems, letters and literary efforts—written by and about Chatterton from his eleventh year. He shows that Chatterton made three attempts to tell the truth about his antique verse, and actually avowed his, though not "Rowley's," imitations of Ossian. Unfortunately, the bent of his mind, a certain puerile love of mystery, remained till the end, which always gave the various sections of the world what he thought was wanted at the time. Chatterton was not content to wait for fame.

His pride, the subject of so much writing, was, as Sir Walter Scott saw, a consciousness of superior endowments. In Mr. Meyerstein's opinion, he might have been content to remain as the discoverer of Rowley, while achieving personal success in a journalistic, perhaps, even a political, sphere. "His model, as an impostor, was not so much Horace Walpole as James Macpherson." Besides the latter's remarkable rise to fame, a certain Harry Jones, known as the bricklayer poet of Drogheda had achieved some notoriety by his "Kew Garden."

Walpole's unsympathetic attitude towards a fellow-fabricator was, no doubt, due to his belief that the whole Rowley Collection was a fiction contrived by some literary wags who wished to impose on his credulity, and to laugh at him if they succeeded. Chatterton probably appeared to Walpole as only the instrument employed to introduce and recommend these old writings. Hence he returned the MSS. to Chatterton, who wrote the lines:

Who wrote Otranto? But I will not chide.
Scorn I will repay with Scorn, and Pride with Pride.
Still, Walpole, still, thy prosy chapters write,
And twaddling letters to some Fair indite.

His biographer maintains that Chatterton's idea went farther than the throwing back to the fifteenth century of a happy picture of a monkish poet and his patron —the patron whom he himself was not to find in Walpole. An eighteenth century poet had to have a purse, a patron, or thoughts of suicide. Chatterton paid for his overweening pride by the tragedy of his death. Too proud to admit the falsity of the Rowley poems, he was the victim of this secret which he kept so well. In the inquiry of Thomas Warton (1782) there is a well-balanced verdict, quoted in this volume, and illustrated eruditely throughout its pages: "To this secret of his bosom he had vowed eternal fidelity, and there is a degree of heroism in his obstinacy."

A STUDY FROM LIFE.

The Real Stanley Baldwin. By Wickham Steed. London: Nisbet. 7/6 net.

FEW men have had to face such an ordeal as that faced by Mr. Stanley Baldwin during the past few months. To the ordinary citizen, Mr. Baldwin may appear as one who prefers the simple life; to the politician he may seem to be as astute as the best of his immediate predecessors in the leadership of the Conservative Party; to the literary man his speeches have a quality seldom encountered in contemporary politics. This Stanley Baldwin, in fact, would seem to be a man of the most acute perceptions and highly cultivated attempts to masquerade as one of the plainest of "plain blunt men." Yet he is neither so plain nor so blunt as some of his admirers and nearly all his opponents would like the public to believe. He is one of the most interesting personalities in present-day British politics, and probably the key to his character will not be found until after his death.

In this extremely interesting book Mr. Wickham Steed, a journalist who is intimate with the statesmen of the world, writes of Mr. Baldwin as an enigma, and, after a prolonged glance at his career, an enigma he remains. Mr. Wickham Steed does not explain the enigma, although he offers sufficient material to aid the reader to an explanation, according to his prejudices or political affiliations. In the eight years, since the famous meeting at the Carlton Club, Mr. Baldwin has given more cause for embittered comment than probably any other living British statesman. He has been blamed for the terms of the American debt settlement, but Mr. Wickham Steed suggests that no better terms were to be had at the time. He was blamed for upsetting a Conservative Government by advocacy of all-round protective tariffs, as to-day he is being assailed for doing something much less. His dealings with miners and mine-owners, and his handling of the miners' and general strikes do not get full points from Mr. Wickham Steed. From the Red Letter election to the second coming of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald the years are not full of great achievement, and it is upon those years that Mr. Baldwin now is being both judged and condemned.

It has been said that if Mr. Baldwin had led the Labour Party and Mr. Ramsay Macdonald the Conservative Party in England during the past eight or ten years, the result upon the legislation of the period would hardly be noted. That he is a humanitarian, a believer in democracy, an idealist, no one will be found to deny. That he is a statesman or the potential leader of a great party in a time of national crisis few will be found to believe. Both sets of people will find considerable enjoyment from Mr. Wickham Steed's excellently-written and timely contribution to the discussion in this book.

THE OLD BANK OF ENGLAND.

The Old Bank of England. By H. Rooksby Steele and F. R. Yerbury. London: Benn. 42/- net.

THE historian, if to a less extent than the artist, is indebted to these two well-known architects, who, before the reconstruction necessitated by an expansion of business for which the premises were inadequate, conceived the happy idea of recording minutely by plan and photograph the glory that was the old Bank of England. A brief record of thirty pages completes the historical survey and the noble labours of Soane and Taylor, famous a century and a half ago, are preserved more indelibly than the stone they wrought with, in the seventy-five plates—marvels of the photographer's art—that follow. There are plans innumerable into which the professional may delve. The book is executed in appropriate sumptuousness by the publishers.

CHRISTINA ROSSETTI.

The Life of Christina Rossetti. By Mary F. Sandars. London: Hutchinson. 18/- net.

IT is now a hundred years since Christina Rossetti was born. Her father, Gabriel Rossetti, one of the most volatile of Italians, had settled in England, where he married a woman whose name was Polidori, but whose placid nature was essentially English.

As a very early age Christina began to write poetry, with little more effort than it costs many of us to breathe. Rather melancholy verse most of it was; for the poetess was a delicate girl and a suffering woman—a lover of the country, doomed to the cabined life of the town, and a woman of rigid principles who let a great love go by when it seemed to disagree with her religious views. Christina Rossetti loved her family devotedly, especially her mother. She read very little; she was a generous giver, and she dressed very badly. Max Beerbohm, in a caricature of the famous brother and sister, makes Dante Gabriel say: "Well, Christina, your heart may be 'like a singing bird,' but why do you dress like a pew-opener?" Throughout her life Christina Rossetti remembered how as a small child she had disturbed and alarmed a frog, and "it placed its two hands on its head." All the Rossettis loved animals, but she had a special affection for the ugly creatures that other people thought grotesque.

Verse-writing was very little trouble to her, and some of the sonnets written by her when a child, on given rhymes, are remarkably good. Swinburne admired her poetry immensely. There was very little of his poetry that she could bring herself to read, though she is said to have paved the way for his success. "The Jael who has led our host to victory," he called her. "Queen of the Pre-Raphaelites" was another title won by this girl with the spiritual, suffering face that has looked out for so long from Holman Hunt's famous picture of the Christ who knocks at a locked and ivied door.

"My brother would never have allowed 'born' to rhyme with 'dawn,' she wrote tactfully to an aspiring poet who had sought her advice. The present biographer gives us a pleasant pastel picture of the shy, strait-laced woman who was, so strangely, the pioneer of a romantic poetry. The first volume of Christina Rossetti's poems was published in 1862, and became extremely popular; it was followed by others in 1866 and in 1881; but, like most poets, she never waxed rich on her royalties. People who do not know her other verses are familiar with some of her beautiful little carols, one of which seems to breathe the hoary breath of an iron frost.

Christina Rossetti died in 1894, and one is glad to read the words she spoke not very long before. "I was a very melancholy girl," she said, "but now I am a very cheerful old woman."

Miss Sandars is to be congratulated upon her biography, which is sympathetic without being exaggerated, and ought to arouse fresh interest in this gentle, though obdurate, poetess. The book is illustrated by clever pencil drawings and by interesting reproductions of family photographs.

MEDICINE IN ANCIENT EGYPT.

The Papyrus Ebers. By Cyril P. Bryan. London: Geoffrey Bles. 10/6 net.

FOR over fifty years the Ebers Papyrus has been known to the world, not only for its wonderful preservation, unstained and complete in almost every detail as it left the hands that penned it nearly four thousand years ago, but also through the publications of its erudite German discoverer. Until now, strange to relate, no book about it has appeared in English, and thus Mr. Bryan's volume is the more welcome.

The whole great papyrus is a medical work—a compilation of remedies, drugs and magical incantations in use among the practitioners of ancient Egypt. Many of the prescriptions in use have been gathered from earlier sources, some of which go back two thousand years, causing Galen and Hippocrates to appear quite modern by comparison. The papyrus, which is written in the Hieratic script that was evolved in time from the hieroglyphics, offers tremendous difficulties to the translator by reason of the archaic phraseology of many of the prescriptions, copied from earlier works, and the enormous difficulties of correctly identifying many of the diseases.

Over 800 prescriptions are given in the papyrus, ranging from salves, plasters and poultices to fumigations and enemata. When these failed, as must have happened often, if we consider the ingredients employed, the gods were called in as a last resort. For this final resort, a large number of incantations are included.

Many of the recommended medicines were made from the most unpleasant ingredients, but, as the author says, "none of the 800 remedies to be found in the papyrus appear to have actually killed any one of those whom they were intended to benefit. This is strange." Nevertheless, these ancients possessed some sound knowledge, and were fully aware of the efficacy of castor oil, antiseptic qualities in onions; and their use of many substances is fully justified by modern science.

The witty comments and sound scholarship of the author are evident, and a valuable introduction by Professor Elliot Smith greatly enhances the utility and interest of the volume.

BIRD-LIFE IN SCOTLAND.

Hill Birds of Scotland. By Seton Gordon. London: Arnold. 7/6 net.

SO many books have been written about birds that it must be extremely difficult to find anything new to say about their habits. Mr. Gordon here deals exclusively with birds that are found in Scotland; not only does he give us their Latin names, but the Gaelic as well. Thus, we learn that in the Highlands the Jack Snipe is the "small kid of the air," just as to the Irishman he is the "little goat of the frost."

Mr. Gordon loves birds, and has watched them closely. The photographic illustrations are delightful.

RECENT FICTION.

NOVELS.

"Success" By Lion Feuchtwanger. Secker. 10/- net

Touchstone. By Ben Ames Williams. Stanley Paul and Co. 7/6 net.

A PERUSAL of "Success" leaves one in doubt whether Herr Feuchtwanger set out to tell a tale of injustice in modern Bavaria, or to fill seven hundred and forty pages with condensed psychology. As a masterly presentation of a multitudinously thronged canvas, "Success" is a remarkable feat; as a novel we found it tedious, since the story did not justify the author's prolixity. Moreover, with all due respect, Herr Feuchtwanger is no De Morgan, who could make the reader love his characters and enjoy their company even in their dullest moments. Herr Feuchtwanger's characters are almost uniformly unattractive; indeed, such people are necessary to a book that is designed—as we suppose—to pillory a country.

Nevertheless, "Success" has its truly great moments, while no single paragraph is poor. It shows society in provincial Munich with horrid clarity; every aspect and every type are described and re-described with an eerie skill, but at the end we are inclined to say, "Cui bono?" It is incredible that all Bavarians really are like the people in "Success," although Herr Feuchtwanger almost convinces us. The hero, an art-critic, is imprisoned on a trifling charge for political reasons, and finally dies as a result of his ill-treatment in prison. Every sort of intrigue, hatched in various quarters, and for various motives, impinges upon, or touches tangentically, this central theme. No doubt, Herr Feuchtwanger has proved his point by this monumental effort, but he left us so tired that we could not care whether it was proved or not.

* * * * *

In "The Lonely Years" Mr. Alan Thomas deserts the mystery story in favour of a novel dealing with character and post-war conditions. On his own return from the war Mr. Thomas evidently was impressed deeply by the inability of his generation to find a niche in the altered condition of things and by the lack of sympathy and understanding with which they were met by young and old alike. Around this conviction he has attempted to build up a tale, but his ability to infuse flesh and blood into the figures whom he selects to illustrate his theme is negligible. The book is amateurish and immature, and the hero, John Penrose, is as dull and uninteresting as the proverbial fish out of water.

The legacy of twenty thousand pounds, left to Miss Lily Brown, milliner, by a man of whom her friends and relatives had never heard, falls as a bombshell into the sluggish respectability of Berkham. Lily herself, stout, vulgar, and kindly, is reduced to a state of stupified bewilderment, inwardly sustained, however, by the secret possession of her "marriage lines"—a secret that she has sworn never to divulge—yet deeply affronted by the suspicious attitude of those whom she longs to help. Mrs. Reid writes with a rare understanding and sympathy, and it is with regret that we part with the little struggling community, whose reaction to the prospect of easier circumstances is so pathetically human.

* * * * *

"Touchstone" is the story of two children, one of whom was substituted at birth for the dead twin brother of the other. The story opens with the confession of the nurse who had carried out the substitution, but, as she confesses on her deathbed twenty years later, is unable to tell the parents which of the two boys is their own son. On this foundation Mr. Williams has built a novel that is as vivid as it is interesting. The characterisation of the two boys, the effect that the unanswered question has on the minds of the parents, and their reaction to their own doubts are all presented in inimitable fashion. Nina Buckle makes a delightful third in an unusual love triangle, while the book from start to finish holds not one dull moment.

"I PERSONALLY am convinced that the days of the old crime-puzzle pure and simple, relying entirely upon plot, without any added attractions of character . . . . are numbered," writes Mr. Anthony Berkeley in a foreward to his new book. "The Second Shot" opens on the next page as the tangible expression of Mr. Berkeley's not unsound thesis.

It is a pity that the author published his preamble; for his book, viewed solely—as he does not wish us to view it—as a detective story, is excellent, perhaps his best effort hitherto. As an apostle of "character-cum-crime" writing, however, that is intended to fit the ruminations of a Philo Vance, whose influence we detect, to the nice commission of a crime, it falls down all over the place. The Cyril Pinkerton of the earlier chapters could not, by any combination of actual circumstances, influences or moods, have become the piquantly noble character of the end of the book. Moreover, a house party consisting of the sort of people whom Mr. Berkeley describes never could have assembled, or, if it had assembled, could not have lasted for five minutes.

Yet, in spite of these failings, we prefer to take Mr. Berkeley as we know him from his previous books, and we recommend "The Second Shot" whole-heartedly to all who enjoy a first-class murder mystery.

* * * * *

In common with the majority of novelists, Mr. Stanley Guise cannot contrive a realistic newspaper extract. One of his chapters is supposed to consist of a report that filled two and half columns in a daily newspaper when, as a matter of fact, it would have occupied little more than a column. The alleged newspaper headlines which he quotes would have earned instant dismissal for the sub-editor who wrote them. For the rest, his story is quite good, if somewhat conventional in the matter of the amateur detective and his faithful Watson. The identity of the murderer will come as a complete surprise to ninety-nine per cent. of Mr. Guise's readers—a fact which, after all, is one of the principal requisites in a modern detective story.

"Corpse in Canonicals," by G. D. H. and M. Cole, is a new detective story which will enhance considerably the reputation of these very able and ingenious writers. The Coles undoubtedly rank in the first half-dozen writers of detective fiction, and the notable increase in this branch of fiction only strengthens the position of those who are tried and trusty favourites.

Superintendent Wilson handles the mystery with his usual skill and perspicacity. A novel feature of the tale is the confusion brought about by a superfluity of deliberately laid clues.

"Uncle William" is the first of four short stories, and contains the promise fulfilled by the other three. They are of varied plot, ranging from murders in the twentieth century to political intrigues and smuggling in the eighteenth. Their improbable nature in no way derogates from their interest; for the reader is transported to a world of thrilling action and strange coincidences, which prove a pleasing diversion from the uneventful common-places of the "daily round."

The language is apt, and would eke out less ingenious plots. The lack of over-emphasis is pleasing. Even the "horror" element has a certain casual air about it, while sex happily is left in the background. The stories do not introduce or attempt to solve any problems. They are pure narrative, and, as such, can be recommended.

AN INTERNATIONAL SPORTS COUNCIL.

Under the presidency of M. Fernand David, Minister of Agriculture in France, the "International Council of the Chase" was successfully inaugurated in Paris last Friday. The movement is largely due to the [illegible] and perseverance of the well-known sportsman, M. Maxime Ducrocq, Vice-[illegible] of the St. Hubert Club of [illegible]. Already delegates from twenty-[illegible] have been appointed. Lord Lovat, Sir Alexander Gordon-Cumming, Bart., M.C., and Mr. J. J. O'Leary are representing Great Britain and Ireland; King Carol of Rumania has nominated his brother, Prince Nicholas, and the Spanish members of the Council have been nominated by King Alfonso. The number of members from each country is limited to eight, and they will act for three consecutive years.

The harmonising and standardising of the laws and customs of sport, especially hunting, in the different countries of the world, is the primary object of the Council.

There was a large attendance at the inaugural meeting, which was held in the Ministry of Agriculture, and on its conclusion M. and Madame Maxime Ducrocq entertained a large company at afternoon tea, many members of the Diplomatique Corps in Paris and well-known French sportsmen being among their guests.

YESTERDAY'S CASES IN THE COURTS.

DEATH FROM REVOLVER SHOT.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE AND A JURY).

An action brought by Edmond Rohan, a farmer, of Farranakilla, Cloghane, Castlegregory, County Kerry, against John E. Fitzpatrick, described as a member of the Civic Guard, Tralee, was listed for consideration of damages.

The plaintiff claimed damages for the death of his son Edmond, aged 21 years, which was caused, he alleged, by the negligence of the defendant, who, he stated, fired shots from a revolver in the direction of the deceased boy and others who were about to fish on the River Owenmore at Lisnamovang, Cloghane, on the morning of the 17th July, 1929, one of the shots hitting the deceased boy and causing his death.

The defendant denied that the plaintiff had lost any portion of his means or suffered the injury or loss alleged by him by reason of the death of the deceased Edmond Rohan.

Mr. Michael Comyn, K.C., who, with Mr. Thomas O'Donnell (instructed by Mr. John J. O'Donnell), appeared for the plaintiff, said that it was admitted that the defendant negligently and wrongfully discharged the revolver which killed Edmond Rohan, and the only question which the jury would have to consider was the question of the amount of damages that the deceased boy's father and mother were entitled to for their loss.

The plaintiff, having been examined on the subject of the loss which he alleged that he and his wife had sustained by the death of their son, the case for the palintiff closed.

Mr. McGuckin (instructed by Mr. D. J. Browne) called the defendant, and the case for the defendant closed.

The jury found that the parents of the deceased Edmond Rohan had suffered loss by reason of his death, and they assessed damages at £500, which they apportioned equally between the father and mother.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne gave judgment for the plaintiff accordingly.

ACTION ABOUT A PATENT

SECURITY FOR COSTS.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.

In a case of the Automatic Candle and General Trust, Ltd., against Elizabeth A. Kerr and John L. Kerr, Apsley House, Charleston road, Rathmines, County Dublin, which was an action to enforce an agreement and to obtain an injunction to restrain the defendants from disposing of a patent, an application was made by the defendants that the plaintiffs should give security for additional costs.

Mr. Dickie, K.C., who with Mr. A. O'Connor (instructed by Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.) appeared for the defendants, said that the company had been wound up and sufficient security for costs should be given. On a previous occasion an application had been made, and the Court granted an order to give security for costs to the amount of £100.

Mr. Newett (instructed by Mr. Norman Potterton) opposed the application on behalf of the plaintiffs.

Mr. Justice Meredith ordered that security for an additional £50 for costs should be lodged.

SALES OF BUTTER.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

In a case of the Irish Associated Creameries, Ltd., 9 Leinster street, Dublin, against the Ballymacelligot Co-operative and Dairy Society, Ltd., Co. Kerry, the defendants applied for an order to stay proceedings in the suit on the ground that there was no reason why the matters in dispute ought not to be referred to arbitration in accordance with the terms of the agreement between the parties. In the alternative they asked to have the trial of the action transferred for hearing to the Co. Kerry Circuit Court Judge at Tralee.

The action was one for an injunction to restrain the defendants from preventing the agents of the plaintiffs from having access to the books, documents and the accounts of the defendants in relation to the purchases, production, sales and consignments of butter by the defendants with the object of taking entries from those sources in connection with the sales of butter to persons or societies other than the plaintiffs.

Mr. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. Marnan (instructed by Mr. Arthur Cox) appeared for the plaintiffs, and Mr. Conor Maguire (instructed by Mr. D. J. Browne) for the defendants.

Mr. Maguire, moving the application, said that his clients were not, as alleged, concealing anything in breach of the agreement between the parties. The agreement was very wide and the matter in dispute came within the clauses that stipulated for arbitration.

Mr. Lavery, resisting the application, said that the dispute in this case was unsuitable for abitration, and he would ask the Court to give power to the plaintiffs to enforce the terms of the agreement to which they were parties with the defendants. The case, in his opinion, should, on principle, be retained in the High Court.

Mr. Maguire, in reply, suggested that if the matter was sent to the local tribunal the judge or the arbitrators could decide if the defendants were humbugging in connection with the concealment of the books.

Mr. Justice Meredith, refusing the application to stay the proceedings, decided to retain the hearing of the case in the High Court and reserve the question of costs.

BOY CYCLISTS INJURED.

ACTIONS AGAINST LORRY OWNER.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

The hearing of two actions against John Patrick O'Connor, of Barnhall, Leixlip, was begun. The plaintiffs were Osborne Walsh and John Edward Walsh, minors, suing by their father, John Joseph Walsh, of 28 Stephen's road, Kilmainham, Dublin, and they claimed damages for personal injuries and damage to property caused through the alleged negligence of the defendant, his servants and agents in the management of a motor lorry at Conyngham road, Dublin, on the 21st September, 1929.

It appeared that the plaintiffs were riding on a bicycle, plaintiff John Edward pedalling and the plaintiff Osborne sitting on the crossbar, and had come through the Island Bridge gate of the Phœnix Park on to the Conyngham road on their way home when the defendant's lorry was driven against them. The plaintiff, Osborne, stated that he was thrown over the lorry and hurled against the road and injured, and his apparel was torn. The plaintiff, John Edward, stated that he was hurled over the bonnet of the lorry and struck the milk churns in the lorry. He was injured and his apparel was torn.

Mr. Wood, K.C.; Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. Art O'Connor (instructed by Mr. Thomas Early) appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C.; Mr. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. McGuckin (instructed by Messrs. Corrigan and Corrigan) for the defendant.

The hearing had not concluded when the Court rose, antd the further hearing was adjourned until to-day.

POSSESSION OF DUBLIN LANDS.

(BEFORE THE CHIEF JUSTICE, MR. JUSTICE FITZGIBBON AND MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

The hearing of the application by way of appeal on behalf of the defendant in the case of Francis Lynham, Londonbridge road, Dublin, against the Very Rev. Michael Butler, Roundwood, Co. Wicklow, was continued. The appeal relates to an order of the High Court in an action brought by the plaintiff against the defendant, claiming damages for alleged trespass, and for mesne rates payable by the defendant in respect of the occupation by him of lands at Mountseskin, Co. Dublin. The plaintiff claimed to be entitled to the fee-simple in possession in the lands, and this claim the defendant disputed, stating that he was entitled to possession under the Lands Acts of 1923, 1926 and 1927. The defendant further said that by orders and judgments of the High Court and of the Supreme Court in a certain action in which the plaintiff in this action was plaintiff, and the defendant in this action was defendant, the claim of the plaintiff in this action was dismissed with costs. In his rejoinder to the plaintiff's reply to his defence the defendant, in paragraphs 2 and 3, denied that he was not the occupier, in respect of the lands, of tenanted land within the meaning of the Land Acts, 1923, 1926 and 1927, and that the contract of tenancy in the respect of the lands was a letting for temporary convenience within the meaning of Sub-Section (2) of Section 73 of the Land Act, 1923; and submitted that the plaintiff cannot rely on the order made by the Judicial Commissioner of the Irish Land Commission, declaring that the tenancy was a letting for temporary convenience, and the order of the Supreme Court on appeal by the defendant, confirming the order of the Judicial Commissioner, because the orders were had in proceedings misconceived and taken without warrant of appeal (whereas no appeal lay) from a pretended adjudication made wholly without jurisdiction and in violation of the Constitution by the Commissioners (other than the Judicial Commissioner) of the Irish Land Commission, purporting to sit as a court and to exercise judicial power and administer justice in the Irish Free State, though not duly constituted for any such purposes.

The present application is one by way of appeal from the order of the High Court, dated 16th December, 1929, and perfected on the 24th January, 1930, applying for an order that so much of the order that decrees that paragraph 2 and paragraph 3 of the rejoinder, delivered pursuant to leave, be struck out, may be reversed, and that the defendant be allowed to reinstate these paragraphs, the costs of the plaintiff's motion on that behalf to be reserved for further or other order.

Mr. Fitzgerald, K.C.; Mr. G. Gavan Duffy, K.C., and Mr. B. McGuckin (instructed by Messrs. D. D. MacDonald and Co.) appeared for the appellant; Mr. Leonard, K.C.; Mr. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. T. P. McCarthy (instructed by Messrs. Daniel Purcell and Son) for the respondent; and Mr. Vincent Rice, K.C.; Mr. E. J. Kelly, K.C., and Mr. Joseph Healy (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) for the Attorney-General.

Mr. Duffy, resuming his argument in support of the appeal, dealt with the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, as compared with that of the subordinate courts and the chief officials, citing some cases of long standing on the subject, and submitting that none of the superior ministerial officials could exercise judicial power. He also submitted that no judge had any power to transfer judicial authority to them.

He submitted, in conclusion, that this Court and Judge Wylie were both misled into exercising an appellate jurisdiction, which they were not empowered to exercise, and under the circumstances he asked the Court to find for the appellant.

Mr. Leonard, for the respondent, referring to the pleadings in the original action, pointed out that two questions arose on the hearing of this appeal. The first was whether, under Section 40, Sub-section 3 of the Land Act of 1923 was ultra vires the constitution; and the second was, did the defendant and appellant make that case in these proceedings, having regard to the order made by this Court on the 8th of February, 1928? He hoped, he added, to confine himself to these questions, and to show their lordships that under Article 64 of the Constitution there should be no judicial determination except by judges.

Counsel cited several cases and authorities bearing upon the questions, and stated that the questions that arose in this case were different from those that arose in any of the cases cited on the other side. He submitted that the defendant was bound by the order already made when he did not raise the questions referred to before, and that the order made by their lordships affirming the order of Mr. Justice Wylie was not invalid or ineffective.

The further hearing was adjourned until to-day.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

TAXI-CAB FARE.

(BEFORE MR. LITTLE.)

John P. Jacknell, of Mount Pleasant avenue, was charged with refusing to pay the sum of 6s. 3d. to Patrick Tallon for the use of his taxicab on last Saturday night from the Plaza Ballroom to Mount Pleasant avenue.

Defendant said that he had made the same journey before and paid only 3s. 6d. for it. He objected to pay 6s. 3d., which he considered exorbitant.

The taxi-driver said that when he reached Mount Pleasant avenue he shut off the clock, and when defendant raised an objection he drove him to Rathmines Police Station. At the station the clock registered 1s. 9d.

The Justice—Then you cut off your most vital piece of evidence, and I cannot make any order.

Defendant said that he would pay him 3s. 6d., which he believed was the proper amount.

BAD LANGUAGE.

Fines of 40s. or the alternative of a month's imprisonment were imposed on three men for using obscene language on last Saturday night, and for a similar offence a woman was sent to jail for two months. She was not present when the case was called and a warrant had to be issued for her arrest.

ASSAULT ON GUARD.

Charles Byrne, a slater with an address at McCall's Cottages, was sent to jail for two months with hard labour for assaulting Guard 62A.

The evidence of the Guard was to the effect that on last Saturday evening he had occasion to order the defendant away from Camden street. The defendant moved away, and subsequently in South Richmond street the defendant called the witness into a hallway and attacked him with his fists, head and feet. Witness had to get the assistance of another Guard to take him to the station. "He fought every inch of the way," said the Guard, and at the station he said that it was a good fight, but that the Guards had won. Witness added that he had to be treated in hospital for the injuries he received.

Guard E96, giving corroborative evidence, said that when a crowd had gathered the defendant shouted: "Is there anyone there with a revolver to settle these two Black-and-Tans?"

Defendant said that he did not remember what had happened, as he was drunk at the time.

The Justice, in sending the accused to prison, said that he was a very violent man when he took drink.

RETURNED FOR TRIAL.

Martin Coughlan, of no fixed address, who was charged on remand with the larceny of a gold watch and a motor cycle, was returned for trial.

OVERCROWDED 'BUSES.

(BEFORE MR. HANNAN.)

For permitting their 'buses to be overcrowded on six different occasions the Dublin United Tramways Company were fined sums ranging from 5s. to 25s.

Mr. E. H. Burne, solicitor for the defendant company, said that the judge would appreciate the difficulties that the 'bus conductors were up against. It was really the fault of the public, as the conductors tried to do their best. There was nothing to be gained by overcrowding, because all the fares were never collected.

The proprietors of the following lines of 'buses—The Carmel, St. Jude, Paragon, The Favourite, M. and B., St. Teresa, Lally, and Silver Lines—were also fined in sums varying from 8s. to 40s. for like offences.

"A FLUTTER OF WINGS."

FIRST PRODUCTION AT GATE THEATRE.

John Luttrell (Clerk of Rossallen Union)	Gearoid O'Lochlainn
Anne Luttrell (his Wife)	Dorothy Casey
George, Helen and Tess (their Children)	H. A. McCullagh, Florence Lynch and Betty Chancellor
Minnie (their Servant)	Sydney Jameson
Brian Dalton (Anne Luttrell's Brother)	William Denis
Marion Dalton (his Wife)	Coralie Carmichael
Stella Field (his Sister-in-law)	Meriel Moore
Frank Harmon (Dalton's Partner)	Wm. Van Craen
Doctor Harold	William Sherwood
Flossie (Dalton's Maid)	Kay Scannell

If the enthusiastic applause of a packed audience be the measure of a play's success, Mr. T. C. Murray's new play, "A Flutter of Wings," may be hailed at once as such a success. At the Gate Theatre last night an expectant audience gave it such a welcome that the author had to respond to repeated requests for a speech; and then he thanked the players and the audience for the interpretation and the reception given to his play.

For many weeks "A Flutter of Wings" has been the topic of conversation and the subject for discussion in all literary and theatrical gatherings in Dublin. Almost everyone was familiar with its text, and with the fact that it had been rejected by the Directors of the Abbey Theatre; and that familiarity certainly assisted in filling the Gate Theatre with an audience which was at the same time forewarned and expectant.

The central character is a young girl, Tess Luttrell, who fails to relish a life of teaching which her father has destined. She deliberately "fluffed" her examination, and when the result became known told her managing parent that she would manage her own life and do her own thinking. All this was done very mildly, but John Luttrell was one of those petty tyrants who, having spent their lives managing the lives of the dependent poor, find it difficult to believe that anyone else may have a mind or a will. So he decides that his mildly rebellious daughter shall be the family drudge, pushes her from him, and she vows her eternal remembrance of the act. She goes to Dublin, to the home of her uncle, and there meets some supercilious people who talk vapidly about Bernard Shaw, the fascination of golf, the thrills of motor-speeding, and the up-to-dateness of bridge. But she also succeeds in securing a post in the solicitor's office over which her uncle has control. Having met her uncle's partner at his house, and gone to the theatre as a member of a party of which Frank Harmon was the leader, she came to know him as her chief in the office. Through the superb strategy of Marion Dalton Harmon found himself engaged to the vapid Stella Fields, but in a moment of infatuated madness he had kissed Tess in the office.

NOT A TAXICAB ACCIDENT.

Tess, the rebel of the first act, was so much shocked by this that she feigned having been run down by a taxicab. The family had by this time removed to Dublin, and it is in the drawingroom of their new home that the affair is detailed to her uncle. Tess had lost her faith in human nature; Brian Dalton had found himself deceived in his partner; so both had suffered loss and had something to grieve about. Into this room all the characters of the play come in turn. Harmon comes to offer his love and marriage; Dr. Harold to offer his medical skill and his heart, and the other relations come to offer sympathy in affliction. Tess rejects the middle-aged doctor, but in the end she accepts him, finding that "all men are not beasts." She had found Harmon, the disciple of Bernard Shaw, too much for her freedom, and her "flutter of wings" never became a sustained flight.

A SPANKING.

Tess was just a minx, bored with the petty round of life at Rossallen, tired of her father's domineering ways, and completely untouched by the mediocre successes of her family. A gentle spanking would probably have stopped the fluttering of her wings; or it might have made her an effective and whole-hearted rebel. As she is now she fails to be of interest to a generation that is forty years behind Nora Helmer's famous door-slam. It is exceedingly doubtful, to say the least, whether any girl accustomed to the "pictures" and the other manifestations of what is called liberty to-day would have made such a to-do about a stolen kiss; as it is also doubtful whether any business man would have regarded the kiss as sufficient reason for breaking a promising partnership. The moralist in Mr. Murray has in this case got the upper hand of the dramatist. And the construction of his play suggests that here his well-known and often demonstrated skill in technique has deserted him.

It is in his dialogue that Mr. Murray has suffered the greatest lapse. In almost every one of his plays it is his dialogue that carries the conviction and the charm; here the dialogue is pedestrian, often barely lively enough to crawl. It is enlivened occasionally by flashes that bring ready laughter, but reflection will make the laughter more than questionable.

The casting and the acting were unequal to the strain of the play, but some members of the cast deserve especial recognition. The John Luttrell of Mr. Gearoid O Lochlainn was masterly in every sense; he got just the right note from the beginning, and sustained it to the end. Brian Dalton found an ideal impersonator in Mr. William Denis, and the Shavian Frank Harmon in Mr. William Van Craen. Miss Meriel Moore was just a shade too supercilious as Stella Field, but such a lady might easily be caricatured without any distortion of her character. The haughty Marion Dalton gave Miss Coralie Carmichael full scope, and here she scored an undoubted success. As Tess Miss Betty Chancellor was at her best in the pathetic scenes in the third act; she failed completely to be convincing as the rebel in the first, although she atoned somewhat as the prospective clerk, with a sharp wit in her encounter with Marion in the second.

The production by Mr. Hilton Edwards, and the settings designed by Mr. Micheal MacLiammoir gave the play a pleasing environment.

"MULDOON'S PICNIC" IN NEW GARB.

An amended version of "Muldoon's Picnic" by Dick Forbes, is presented at the Olympia Theatre, Dublin, this week, and is one of the most enjoyable shows of its kind. Music, both vocal and instrumental, and of a very pleasing standard; dancing that is graceful and picturesque; and humour that invites hearty laughter, all go to make a performance that is clever and amusing. Mike Nono and Dick Forbes were responsible for excellent comedy and some clever repartee; the Clare Colleens introduced several pretty dances, while John Moody, Christine Manning and John Browner appeared with distinct success in a vocal scena, in which they introduced two very acceptable duets. A musical speciality by Tommy Titherington and Partner was much appreciated.

"MONASTICISM."

COLLEGE THEOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

Lecturing on "Monasticism," at a meeting of the Trinity College Theological Society last night, Mr. J. J. Auchmuty said that as Christianity triumphed Christian monasticism was born. For eighteen hundred years it had flourished, producing many saints and more sinners, but ever satisfying a manifest human need.

The real founder of Christian monasticism, Saint Anthony, was born about 240 A.D. He sold his family property for the benefit of the poor, and retired into the wilderness, where he prayed, fasted and taught. St. Basil was the great patriarch of Greek monasticism, and comes next in point of time to St. Anthony. The early monasteries of the West were governed after Eastern examples. The rule of St. Columbanus, the Irishman, was a reversion to the older and severer Egyptian type.

With the 12th century came the Franciscans and Capuchins. Nearly all of the 12th century Orders were still flourishing in the Roman branch of the Catholic Church. The Jesuit Order, founded in 1491 by St. Ignatius Loyola, proved the great salvation of the Roman Church after the Reformation. It was only in recent years that Protestantism, and more especially the Anglican branch of the universal Church, had begun to recognise the abiding importance of the monastic principle. (Applause.)

Dr. White presided, and there was a large attendance.

St. Martin of Tours.

To-day is the feast of St. Martin, Patron of France, and surely it was more than a coincidence that the end of the Great War—the war that meant more to France even than to ourselves—should have been brought about on his feast-day. For almost thirteen centuries has St. Martin been honoured as the faithful Protector and Patron of France, and for just as long has his feast (November 11th) been the occasion not only of imposing religious observance, but of great feasting and revelry among the French people. In our own country it is celebrated in less measure, perhaps, as Martinmas or Martlemas. St. Martin was born in Hungary in A.D. 316, and did not become Bishop of Tours till nearly sixty years later. Tradition has it that a niece of his was the mother of St. Patrick.

A Rival to Michaelmas Day.

By all accounts it is to St. Martin, not to St. Michael, that we should pay annual tribute in eating of goose at dinner. Certainly these birds should be in better condition for table on St. Martin's Day than at Michaelmas, when they would be only "green geese," without much meat on them. In remembrance of the custom, an old chronicler tells us that a medal was struck in France, bearing on one side the figure of a goose, and on the other the inscription, "Martinalia."

In St. Martin, too, we find the origin of that strange, old-fashioned saying, "All my eye and Betty Martin!" It is said to be a corruption of "Mihi beate Martine," a Latin invocation of the Saint.

The King of Italy.

The King of Italy, who is sixty-one to-day, is a monarch of many parts, honoured by his people as a wise ruler, a gallant soldier, and a fine sportsman. When his duties of State permit, King Victor devotes himself to science and numismatics. His collection of coins is one of the finest in the world, and he has published a number of bulky volumes on his hobby. He is also probably the best qualified electrician among Royalty, and has conducted many interesting experiments in radiation in his own private laboratory.

Reflections.

Glendalough is a famous place for reflections of every kind. There one may reflect upon the beauties of nature and upon the ecclesiastic life of the past; one may reflect upon the ability of the saints of old to choose a really lovely place in which to settle. There are the other reflections, too, in the dark placid waters of the two loughs. I have stood, in the depth of winter, high on the slope of Camaderry Mountain, to gaze down at the perfect picture in the mirror-like surface of the smaller lake; the picture of leafless trees growing close to the water's edge; of the sweep of hillside just behind them. On a lovely sunlit day in this present month the big lake seemed to be ablaze with colour, bronze and gold, so that just at first I wondered what had happened. Then I saw the reflection of the steep hillside that rises from the water, and is clothed in the splendour of faded bracken; it was lighted up by the then bright sunshine.

"Sneezing Salt."

Tobacco must have come into general use in Dublin shortly after its introduction from America; for as early as the year 1619 the free citizens of Dublin complained of "the wrong daily offered to them by the intruders and other unfreemen . . . . retailers of beer and tobacco," and petitioned the Mayor to set the law in motion against the "intruders." Forty-two years later a similar grievance was expressed that "certain persons sell sneezing salt and tobacco, which tends much to the impoverishment of the freemen shopkeepers." It was ordered, therefore, "that such as sell sneezing salt or tobacco be restrained for the future unless they be free of the city."

Captain Boycott.

Only a small proportion of people alive to-day will have recollections of the wild disorders which broke out on the estate of Charles Cunningham Boycott at Lough Mask exactly fifty years ago, when a campaign was waged against him with such intensity as to make his cognomen a synonym for the deprivation of all that life, domestic and public, needs. No word of sinister significance ever gained currency so rapidly. It was first used by a brilliant Irish-American journalist, Mr. James Redpath, who was in Ireland representing one of the leading New York "dailies" in November, 1880, and acquired a usage among speakers of English, French, German and Italian, comparable only to the war-born verb "camouflage." In the first week of November, 1880, the tenantry on Lord Erne's estate, for which Captain Boycott was agent, demanded reductions which would have brought the rents under "Griffith's valuation." Boycott's reply was a refusal, and his own, as well as Lord Erne's, tenantry forthwith put into effect the advice which Mr. Parnell had given a few weeks before in a speech delivered at Ennis. Immediately Boycott was virtually ostracised, socially and commercially.

Exciting Times.

Wild excitement broke out all over the West of Ireland, especially in Co. Mayo. Notices threatening the life of Boycott were posted up, and from November 1st he could only go about under the protection of armed police. No local trader would serve him with provisions, which had to be conveyed to him from a distance by steamer, and as the days passed his crops were seen rotting in the fields. By the 12th of November a relief expedition came from Co. Cavan to save such of the harvest as had escaped decay. Grave fears were entertained that they would be ambushed en route, but a strong protecting force of soldiers averted any collision. For years afterwards Lough Mask House had to be defended day and night. Boycotting henceforth became the popular weapon against the Irish landlords, their agents and employés; and Mr. John Dillon, in a speech at Cashel on 19th November, gave it the benediction of his party when he told his hearers: "You have yet to study a branch of the new land law, known as boycotting." Two years later men of letters gave the word their sanction, and Sir Leslie Stephen, in his life of Swift, when dealing with the "Drapier's Letters," wrote: "Briefly, the halfpence [Wood's] were to be boycotted."

The Linen Hall.

The other day, as I passed along Bolton street, my attention was drawn to the Linen Hall, and, since I knew little of its history, I went away, and thereafter consulted an ancient tome which tells the story of the architectural remains of Dublin's commercial prosperity. In 1711, I learned, Parliament passed an Act appointing a board of trustees for linen and hempen manufactures, and granted £20,000 per annum to encourage the trade. In 1726 the Linen Hall was opened for business, and became the centre of the linen trade. Here manufacturers brought their finished works for sale, and English merchants came to purchase them. For a century it remained the centre for distribution of the Irish linen trade. Indeed, the value of the business done in the Linen Hall during the years 1812 to 1816 was £5,250,000. In 1826 Parliament reduced its subsidy to £10,000, and finally abolished it altogether. Thereafter the trade gradually deserted Dublin and centred in Belfast.

A Forgotten Irishman.

This year there was unveiled at Canterbury a memorial to R. H. Barham, the author of the Ingoldsby Legends. This should serve as a reminder to Irishmen that a similar honour was paid to William Maginn. Professor Saintsbury has classed him with Theodore Hook and Barham as one of the three great humorists of the early nineteenth century. Thackeray has immortalised him as the brilliant and versatile "Captain Shandon" in "Pendennis." A man of immense learning, his writings cover a multitude of topics, and his Homeric Ballads have been a source of contention among critics from the days of Matthew Arnold down to the present time.

An Adventurous Career.

The Earl of Dundonald, who has just celebrated his seventy-ninth year, comes of an adventurous family. The twelfth of his line, he himself has had many adventures. His grandfather was responsible for the liberation of Chile from Spanish rule, and his father also had a career of adventure. The present Earl went straight from Eton into the Army, and during his early service he carried the despatches telling of the death of General Gordon. He was also one of the force sent to the relief of Ladysmith in 1900, and was a member of the Nile Expeditionary Force. During the War he succeeded, after an exasperating delay of two years, in persuading the Government to make use of the smoke screen, an idea invented by his father and perfected by himself.

A Pennyworth.

The other day I came across an old pamphlet, issued over two hundred and fifty years ago and sold for a penny, which set forth the many privileges which could then be obtained and the many articles which could then be purchased for a penny. In those far-off days:—

"For a penny you may see any Monster, Jackanapes, or those roaring boys, the Lions."

"For a penny you may buy Time, which is precious; yea, and Thrift, too, if you be a bad husband."

"For a penny you may buy a dish of coffee to quicken your stomach and refresh your spirits."

"For a penny you may buy the hardest book in the World, and which at some time or other has posed the greatest clerks in the land, namely, a Horn-Book."

November Lectures.

The Hon. Evan Morgan, son and heir of Lord Tredegar, who, it is announced, will lecture in Dublin in the near future, is a man of many interests. Born in 1893, he was educated at Eton, Oxford and in Paris, and on the outbreak of the Great War he followed in his father's footsteps and joined the Welsh Guards. Thus there was the curious case of a father and a son serving in the same regiment. After the War, when Lord Tredegar became Aide-de-Camp to the King, his son went to Geneva. Since then he has done many things: he has been secretary to a Labour Minister, contested a constituency as a Conservative, and published a novel and several volumes of poetry. He is also a member of the Imperial Air League and an enthusiastic pilot.

The Hon. Evan Morgan.

Then and Now.

In these days of highly scientific and hygienic hospital service it is salutary to cast our minds back to the late eighteenth century, when The House of Industry in Dublin (from which were evolved the Richmond, Hardwicke and Whitworth Hospitals) housed "a seething mass of young and old, poor and wicked, sane and mad." The institution, indeed, was a mixture of workhouse, lunatic asylum and hospital, but with no separation of age, or sex, or kind. In an account of some of the wards we find that in 24 single beds were 48 females, all lunatics; yet the ward was not considered crowded at that time. At the same period 24 mendicant cells were used by 4,000 beggars annually, all of these licensed to beg—in fact, punished for going without a badge. These unhappy details are in sharp contrast to the fine work done by the Dublin hospitals to-day.

A Dangerous Corner.

Standing in conversation with a friend the other day at the junction of Dawson street and Nassau street I was vividly and forcefully reminded of the dangerous nature of the corner nearest to Grafton street. At this point the tramway rails come almost within a yard of the footpath.

In the course of less than ten minutes I saw three bicycles skid very badly, the rider of one of them being thrown violently against me where I stood.

The skidding was apparently caused by the necessity for a very sharp turn to avoid the tram rails, and it was obvious that on a wet day, when the road is greasy, the turn must be particularly dangerous. Probably the policeman on point duty there could tell of many narrow escapes, and of many spills.

IRISH PEASANTS' WORK.

EXHIBITION OF EMBROIDERY.

Exquisite lace and embroidery made by Irish peasants in their cottage homes in Donegal are being shown by the Gaelic League at their offices, 11 Red Lion square, London. The organiser, Mrs. M. Kiersey, said that much of the embroidery represented old Celtic designs, and the work had generations of tradition behind it. She had talked to Irish girls, who told her that they never learned how to do the embroidery—it just came to them naturally.

Among those who have already visited the exhibiton, which remains open until November 15, are the wives of the Australian delegates to the Imperial Conference.

CAPTIVE HARE COURSING.

ACTION BY THE CHURCHES.

Canon T. J. McEndoo, the Rev. Stanley W. Thompson and the Rev. R. M. Gilliland, of Dungannon, write—Many people have been asking what steps the Churches are taking to remove the evil of coursing captive hares. The Lord Primate, the Moderator of the General Assembly and the President of the Methodist Church in Ireland are keenly alive to the cruelty and the debasing consequences of this so-called "sport," and have denounced it in the strongest terms.

With their approval and whole-hearted support, a committee has been formed in the Dungannon district with the object of bringing about the abolition of captive hare coursing.

A memorial has been drawn up, addressed to the members of Parliament for this constituency, urging them to use their utmost endeavours to have a bill promoted in the Parliament of Northern Ireland making it an offence for any person "to promote, arrange, conduct, assist, or take part in the hunting or coursing of a hare which is, or has to his knowledge been, kept in captivity or confinement." They trust that other committees will be formed throughout Northern Ireland for the same purpose.

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY RECITALS.

MOISEIWITSCH, PIANIST.

The great crowds which thronged the spacious Members' Hall of the Royal Dublin Society's premises, Ballsbridge, yesterday afternoon and evening were eloquent tribute of the high esteem in which these lovers of music held Moiseiwitsch, the pianist, who was the performer at both recitals.

In his programme Moiseiwitsch ranged over works from Beethoven and Brahms to Chopin, Debussy, and the present day composers, Stravinsky, Medtner and Ravel. In his opening group in the afternoon he began with the lovely Beethoven "Andante Favori," in which he at once revealed something of that wonderful vertuosity which has placed him in the foremost flight of pianists. The technique was well-night perfect, and the interpretation was of that delightfully intimate character that brought out all the inner meaning of the work, with its infinite little changes of shape and shadow. The Beethoven piece, however, served but as a prelude to his handling of the Brahms Sonata in F Minor. Here, as he developed first one movement and then another, one felt that here was reached the pinnacle of achievement. One was swept along in the sheer beauty of the music; first, of the opening movement, delivered with a noble breadth of vision and touch, then through the exquisite phrases of the Andante, until one was whirled away into the spiritland of the scherzo, where, in fancy, one followed the dancing sprites in their merry tripping along the keyboard.

The retrospective mood of the intermezzo was wonderfully caught, and then the pianist moved on to a beautifully-paced rendering of the final movement, with its fascinating treatment of a homely little theme. The whole effort was consummate art.

In a later group M. Moiseiwitsch played Ravel's familiar "Jeux d'Eau," with its tumbling musical cascades, and Debussy's "Four Preludes." Here, again, one marvelled at the artistry of the player, who brushed lightly through the technical difficulties of Debussy and brought out all the meaning of the works.

One almost felt the atmospheric upheaval in "Le Vent dans la Plaine," whilst the lovely melodic line of "La Fille aux Cheveux de Lin" was drawn in pure liquid tone.

The Chopin-Liszt group with which the afternoon recital concluded, afforded the pianist opportunity for a full display of his gifts He caught all the romantic spirit of Chopin expressed in the beautiful Barcarolle, and in the contrasting Preludes in E minor and G sharp minor, and swept on to a triumphant conclusion in his superb treatment of "La Campanella" of Liszt.

In the evening M. Moiseiwitsch included in his recital the Liszt arrangement of Bach's organ fantasia and fugue in G minor, three Chopin Etudes and a Nocturne and Ballade, and pieces by Travinsky, Medtner and Balakirew.

CARL ROSA OPERA COMPANY.

"SAMSON AND DELILAH."

Delilah	Rispah Goodacre
Samson	William Boland
The High Priest of Dagon	Frederic Collier
Abimelech (Satrap of Gaza)	Ronald Stear
An Aged Hebrew	Harry Metcalfe
Philistine Messenger	Robert Mawdsley
First Philistine	Reginald Mitchell
Second Philistine	John Morgan

The Carl Rosa Opera Company opened the third, and concluding, week of their present season at the Gaiety Theatre with the production of Saint-Saëns's "Samson and Delilah." The theatre was well filled, and again Mrs. McNeill, wife of the Governor-General, was present with a party, including M. Goor, the Belgian Consul, and Mdme. Goor; Judge Murnaghan and Mrs. Murnaghan, Miss McNeill and Captain O'Sullivan, A.D.C.

Saint-Saëns's work is always acceptable to opera lovers. A product of the romantic French period of the Third Empire, when Saint-Saëns, Bizet and others were, contrary to the advice and comments of musical critics of the age, departing from the school of the old masters, the work owes its first production to the good offices of Liszt, who had it presented at Weimar, then the seat of culture on the Continent. The opera overflows with tuneful melodies, and its orchestration places it amongst the great operas of the modern French school.

In the hands of Mr. Richard Austen, who conducted, last night's performance was on a fine level. The work of the orchestra was delightful, especially in the delicate arrangement of strings and woodwind for the accompaniment of the beautiful arias of Delilah. The second act was wonderfully well handled by Mr. Austen.

The principals were well chosen. Samson is a part which affords Mr. William Boland free scope for his big voice, and he revelled in the singing. Rispah Goodacre showed a fine understanding of the character of Delilah, and acted and sang the part well. Her rendering of the "Song of Spring" in the opening act was very artistic. The two arias, "Love from thy power" and "Softly awakes my heart," were also sung with expressive interpretation. The orchestral accompaniment of the latter was exquisite.

Mr. Frederic Collier was a commanding figure as the High Priest; his fine range and power were splendidly used in the last act.

The chorus, though light, performed excellent work, especially in the last scene in the Temple of Dagon.

To-night—"Tannhauser" (Paris version), at 7.30.

WELL-BALANCED VARIETY PROGRAMME.

The Theatre Royal has this week reverted to the variety programme, and last night the audience was treated to a very satisfactory entertainment. Jack Powell, who has achieved distinction in Mr. Cochrane's 1930 revue, amused his audience with his remarkably clever performance as a trap drummer. Mona Vivian, an old favourite here, was given an enthusiastic reception for her versatile turn in song and dance and her imitations of other stage celebrities. The Auklands (Sam and Betty) give an admirable performance on their concertinas. They dance very artistically, but the most interesting feature of their show is the singing of their canary. This little bird has been on the stage in London and other places for the past nine years. Terry Wilson contributes several songs in light and merry vein, while a nice dancing interlude is given by Al and Val Reno, as the Gold Diggers of Broadway. T. J. Anderson gives a marvellous exhibition of his sleight-of-hand powers. The Golden Wonders are two excellent contortionists. Ethel Colyer's Eight Dancing Girls go through some novel acrobat tricks. The programme winds up with an interesting series of British Movietone talkie films.

THE ABBEY THEATRE.

"LOOK AT THE HEFFERNANS!"

Continuous laughter marked the progress of Brinsley Macnamara's comedy, "Look at the Heffernans!" at the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, last night. As played by Eileen Crowe, the character of Marcella Molloy is given extraordinary vividness, and the way in which she arranges marriages and ultimately "fixes up" the Heffernans is a tribute to the talents and cleverness of her type. Michael J. Dolan, as the worried father, James Heffernan, and Peter Nolan, as his brother Paul, are capital studies of types that are not unknown in the country; while F. J. McCormick as Mrs. Molloy's confidential man, Festus Darby, is, as usual, excellent. P. J. Carolan as Marks, May Craig, as Alice, and Denis O'Dea as Sydney, provided the characters necessary for the good background of the plot. Arthur Shields as Ignatius Crinnion is typical of the cautious, far-seeing farmer, while the other parts were well sustained by Shelah Richards, Maureen Delany, and Gertrude Quinn.

The Council of the Salvation Army last night held, at the Mildmay Hall, Newington Green, London, the first of a series of meetings to discuss big constitutional changes in the organisation, including the establishment of a more democratic form of government. General Higgins presided.

IN THE NORTHERN CAPITAL

Minority and Public Appointments : Rent Restricti Removal : The School-Leaving Age : A Popular Minister : Comedy of Economy : Protest Against "Profiteering."

From Our Special Correspondent.

BELFAST, Monday.

Widespread interest is being shown in two questions which Mr. Campbell, K.C., the Nationalist leader in the Senate, intends to ask when the Upper House assembles to-morrow. One of the principal complaints of the Roman Catholic community is that, although they form one-third of the population of the Six Counties, they are virtually ignored in the conferring of official honours or appointments to public positions. Mr. Campbell wishes to know the total number of persons who have been made Justices of the Peace since 1921 in every county and county borough in Northern Ireland, and how many in the respective areas were Roman Catholics.

It will be recalled that in recent years the Government has severely restricted the powers of Justices of the Peace, transferring the jurisdiction in quite a number of offences, such as licensing and motoring cases, to the Resident Magistrates, who are much in the same position as District Justices in the Free State. Protests have been made against curtailing the power of the ordinary magistrates, and the Ministry of Home Affairs has promised not to clip their judicial wings further.

The Leader of the Senate has also been asked to state the number of district inspectors, head constables, sergeants, and constables who have been appointed to the Royal Ulster Constabulary, and how many of them are Roman Catholics.

In this connection it may be of interest to note that when the force was constituted it was virtually boycotted by the Roman Catholics themselves, and the numbers of that faith who joined it in the beginning were very few. The arrangement made when the force was set up was that a third of its personnel should be of the Roman Catholic persuasion, but as this quota was not reached, the vacancies were filled by others.

The Constabulary is highly paid, sergeants getting up to about £350 per annum, with other ranks in proportion, so that there are naturally plenty of recruits for the force. The total cost is somewhere in the region of a million pounds a year.

NOT FOLLOWING WESTMINSTER.

In two important matters the Northern Government has got out of step with the Imperial Administration. These are rent restriction and education. It will be recalled that the rents on houses in Ulster with a valuation of between £26 and £52 were de-controlled, although continued in Great Britain, with the result that rents soared at the earliest possible moment in the Six Counties, causing discontent among the householders affected, as they were placed in an inferior position to people "across the water."

With regard to education, Ulster has its own laws, beginning with the Londonderry Act of 1923, which has been amended so much that it has lost its original character.

The proposal of the Labour Government at Westminster to raise the school-leaving age to fifteen years has not met with the approval of the Belfast Government, and Lord Craigavon has now declared that the age for leaving school throughout the Six Counties will not be raised above fourteen years, as it is thought that the extra cost would be out of all proportion to the educational advantages—if any—which might accrue. The Premier also said that the present system suited the conditions of the province, while their commitment with regard to accommodation for the present school population was the utmost their limited financial resources could bear.

Many months ago it was stated that farmers were opposed to raising the age, as they required their boys in the field, and even at present there is difficulty in getting pupils to attend regularly at school. The extra cost is probably the most important consideration.

BONDS OF EMPIRE.

Most people up here have a warm regard for Mr. Andrews, the Minister of Labour, and take a deep interest in what he has to say, even though his predictions with reference to an improvement in the industrial situation have not been realised. Sometimes Mr. Andrews has not been quite fair to those Unionists who have opposed the official policy, nor has he even been kindly disposed towards a system of migration from the Free State; but, no doubt, all that was done for the purpose of consolidating the Unionist ranks and securing the Six Counties for the Ulster people.

In a review of the political situation during the week-end Mr. Andrews said that he felt strongly that it was of the greatest importance that throughout the Empire it should continue to be known that, no matter what happened in the Free State, and no matter what decisions might be come to at the Imperial Conference tending towards the weakening of those bonds which united the Empire, the people of Ulster were determined to maintain unimpaired their place in the Uni Kingdom.

PAY FOR COUNCILLORS.

The Government's call for economy do not seem to be taken too seriously in so quarters. Probably this is because Government has not itself given any insp ing lead in the reduction of expenditu and has even raised secretarial salar while advising other bodies to be cautio and to conserve the public funds. T duties of parliamentarians in Northe Ireland are not very arduous, and ma people think that the big salaries of t leaders and the £200 a year allowed to ea of the rank and file are very easily earn A motion to reduce these salaries by per cent., made by Mr. Crawford, M. a Unionist back-bencher, was, howev turned down. Some members of coun councils now want a financial innings, an no doubt, the ambition will also be shar by other important bodies in the S Counties.

The question was discussed at the la meeting of the Fermanagh County Counc but it appears that salaries cannot be giv to members without legislation. M Thomas Rogers brought the matter up, a after some debate he handed in a notice motion for next meeting to the effect th as members both of the Imperial a Northern Parliaments receive salaries f discharging duties little more arduous a responsible than those performed county councillors, it is the opinion of t Council that its members have an equ claim to remuneration for their labou The Government is further urged to brin in legislation to that effect. There a many humorous interludes in the develo ment of Northern politics.

ALLEGED "PROFITEERING."

Numerous complaints have been mad regarding the high cost of living in Belfas and in this connection the Minister Commerce has been asked to receive deputation representing the Belfast Trad Council and the local branch of the Shi building and Engineering Trades Feder tion.

At a meeting of the Joint Committee these organisations held during the wee end, the opinion was unanimously e pressed that "profiteering" existed in th district, and it was decided to call upo the Government to set up an authorit with powers to investigate and decide on fair and just price, and to have procee ings taken against any person found guil of exploiting the public.

It is also urged that the proper author ties should insist upon a special ma being put upon all foreign produ indicating the country of origin, especial in the case of pork, and that there shoul be severe penalties for adulteration milk.

Some illuminating figures were giv by Mr. H. C. Spiers, Secretary to th Federation, who pointed out that duri the summer farmers received from si pence to eightpence per gallon for the milk, while it was retailed to the co sumer at 1s. 8d. per gallon, the prices winter time being from eightpence hal penny to tenpence halfpenny per gallo to the farmer and two shillings to th consumer.

It was also alleged that coal was bein sold at ten shillings more per ton tha was right. Best English coal, said M Spiers, could be bought at the pithea for thirty shillings per ton, and for thre shillings less when large quantities we ordered, but the retail price in Belfa was £2 12s. per ton. Another class English coal procured at eighteen shi lings was retailed at thirty shillings, a Scotch coal purchased at fourte shillings and threepence was retailed from thirty-three shillings to thirty-seve shillings per ton. Belfast Gas Wor pay 22s. 6d. and Belfast Electricity Wor 18s. 6d. per ton for their coal.

CITY HALL FOUNDATIONS.

The City of Belfast having arisen out marshy land, there is frequent troub with the foundations of its more imposin buildings. A few years ago the Custo House was seriously affected and had t be underpinned all along one of its sides the Municipal Technical College was th next to suffer, and its foundations had be strengthened. It is now the turn the City Hall, and it is stated that co siderable work will have to be undertake if subsidence is to be avoided.

As a matter of fact, work in repairin the foundations has been going on fo the past two years. The trouble is sa to be caused by the gradual decay of th old wooden piles; they are becomin unable to carry the weight they we originally intended to support.

Over £12,000 has already been expende on the work of renewal by replacing th defective piles with steel beams and rei forced concrete, but much still requires be done. The new Law Courts, which a now approaching completion, are bui upon foundations supported by hundred of reinforced concrete piles, some of whic are as much as sixty feet in length, an this modern method of construction now being applied to all new buildings importance.

THE RIVER LEE.

BIG RECLAMATION SCHEME.

From Our Own Correspondent.
CORK, Monday.

Thousands of pounds are being spent on a big scheme for the reclamation of mud flats bordering on the River Lee at Tivoli, a suburb of Cork. Within a few years an extensive area, now useless, since it is mostly covered by water, will have been made into solid ground, where it is proposed to build wharves, and railway tracks will be laid down for the full extent of the new quays. Merchandise landed here will be provided with fast transport to all parts of Southern Ireland.

It is the most important development that the Cork Harbour Board has yet undertaken. Even the recent proposal to erect a deep-water quay at Queenstown for the berthing of Atlantic liners does not take precedence, though that in its own way will make Cork the most important port in Ireland for trans-Atlantic traffic.

A YEAR'S WORK.

The work of reclaiming this area has been in progress for some years, but it is only now that progress can be recognised. Great quantities of gravel and silt gathered from the river bed during the process of deepening the channel have been pumped by special machinery on to the mud flats, raising the general level, and making the area so high that it cannot be affected by tides. To increase the over-all height of the flats by one foot represents roughly the work of one year. This will give some idea of the gigantic task undertaken by the Harbour Board some years ago, having first considered the enormous benefits that such a scheme would confer on the port.

The appearance of the river is changing as the work on the undertaking progresses. The wide stretch of water is being narrowed, and in the course of another year only the navigable channel will remain. A substantial quay wall has been built from the existing quays down as far as a point opposite the Blackrock Castle, nearly a mile long. On this tract of land there will be a battery of electric cranes to transfer goods from ships into the warehouses that will grow up when the reclamation scheme has been finished.

RAILWAY CONNECTION.

The Harbour Board has opened up negotiations with the Great Southern Railways Company regarding the laying of railway tracks along the front of the new wharfs connecting with the Cork-Queenstown line, which runs on that side of the river. Perishable merchandise forwarded from Irish towns for export to England and abroad will be run alongside the waiting ships. In the same way goods incoming will be distributed to the provinces immediately, and with less risk of damage or delay.

So well has the scheme developed within the last year that the Harbour Board has had some offers for the leasing of sites to shipping and other companies.

I understand that Russian Oil Products have sent inquiries to the Board with a view to leasing a large wharf, on which they propose to establish a main dépôt for the South of Ireland.

CITIZENS' FEARS.

Some people profess to see danger in this new scheme, and fear that the normal shipping activities in the centre of the city may be transferred to Tivoli, which would result in loss to a certain section of the business community.

It is too early yet to anticipate the developments of the next few years, but it is believed that if industries are attracted here Cork City will extend in the direction of Tivoli.

POPPY-SNATCHING.

BATON CHARGE IN SACKVILLE STREET.

The eve of Armistice Day was marked in Dublin by poppy-snatching, which in several cases led to exchanges of blows, and to some ugly scenes in Upper Sackville street.

At about eleven o'clock last night, after the dispersal of a crowd that was accompanying a band, several persons who wore Flanders poppies were assaulted in Upper Sackville street. The excitement was increased by the sound of explosions resembling the discharge of revolvers. Some of the molested persons were pursued into shops and other premises. During the stone-throwing the glass in a tramcar was broken.

Police, under Superintendent O'Connor and Inspector Maher, dispersed the crowd with batons. No arrests were made.

Patrick Ellis (20), of Walsh road, was treated at Jervis Street Hospital for injury to the neck, said to have been caused by a blow of a baton. He was discharged.

A young man who had been assaulted outside the Savoy Cinema was treated by members of the St. John Ambulance Corps.

FLAGS SEIZED.

Four men entered the bookshop of Mr. Morisy, at 28A Upper Ormond Quay, Dublin, at about 11.30 a.m. yesterday, and seized two Union Jacks, which were afterwards, it appears, burned on the street in the centre of the city. The bookseller, his wife and his niece were held by the raiders while the flags were being secured in the shop.

It is stated that one of the men possessed a revolver. No arrests have been made.

COLLEGE GREEN DEMONSTRATION.

UNION JACKS BURNED.

A meeting was held in College Green, Dublin, last night, under the auspices of the Irish section of the League Against Imperialism and for National Independence.

Traffic through College Green was blocked for over two hours, and at the conclusion of the meeting a bonfire of Union Jacks was lit in Foster place. Owing to the size of the crowd it was found necessary to address the meeting from two platforms. At the beginning there was a torchlight procession headed by a pipers' band through the streets.

Mr. Eamonn de Valera, who was the principal speaker, said that on that platform that night they had all sections of Republican opinion united in a protest against British imperialism. He was sorry that a demonstration of that kind was necessary, but it proved that they were not yet free, because if they were free, there would be no such thing as that they were going to see the next day—a demonstration by a section of Irishmen flouting the feelings of their fellow-citizens by the flaunting of a foreign flag in their midst. They were not unmindful of the feelings of those who wished to honour the memory of their dead, but it was because the imperialists in this country had abused that demonstration and tried to turn it into a political demonstration for the British Empire that they had to protest.

A resolution of protest was passed by the meeting.

JACK DIAMOND WORSE.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Monday.

Jack Diamond, the leader of criminals, who was shot and seriously wounded by rival gunmen on October 12th, is now lying at death's door. A desperate fight for his life is going on, but his recovery is doubtful. Complications have set in, and Diamond is suffering from septic conditions with a high temperature. His strength is failing steadily.

FARMERS' PROTECTION ASSOCITION

A meeting of the Provisional Committee of the Farmers' Protection Association was held at 3 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, yesterday, Mr. T. MacKeogh presiding. Final arrangements were made for the Convention on Wednesday next, and a sub-committee was appointed to carry out details. Members of committee are requested to be in attendance at Mansion House at 10.30 on morning of Convention.

NEOPHYTE DEBATING SOCIETY.

"That Armistice Day in Ireland is not observed in a fitting manner," was the motion debated by the Neophyte Debating Society in Trinity College, Dublin, last night. Mr. R. O'Doherty presided, and several speakers spoke for and against the motion. The motion was lost by a large majority.

THE MATHEMATICAL STUDENT.

Henry George Yates was educated at the High School, Dublin, and afterwards at the Methodist College, Belfast. He entered Trinity in Michaelmas Term, 1926, with an entrance prize in Greek Prose Composition and first place at the examination for junior and school exhibitions. His undergraduate career has been a most brilliant one. He obtained numerous first of first class honours in Mathematics and in Experimental Science, as well as the Townsend Memorial Prize, the Michael Roberts Prize, the Lloyd Exhibition, a Mathematical Scholarship as a Junior Freshman, a first class "Little-Go," and the FitzGerald Memorial Scholarship. He has just graduated with a double Gold Medal in Mathematics and Experimental Science, thus becoming the Mathematical Student of his year. The Philosophical Society has honoured him by electing him President for the ensuing year.

THE CLASSICAL STUDENT.

Arthur William Humphrey Breakey was educated at the High School, Dublin, and matriculated in Dublin University in midsummer, 1926, with first Classical sizarship and entrance prizes in Greek and Latin Prose Composition, and Greek and Latin Verse Composition. During a distinguished career in College he gained first of first class honours in Classics on many occasions, and an honour in Mathematics. Among his successes may be mentioned the William Roberts Prize, the Mullins Classical Exhibition, first Classical Scholarship, a first class "Little-Go," and Classical Term Composition prizes. He now graduated with a Gold Medal in Classics, and is awarded the Classical Studentship of his year.

The following have been awarded Exhibitions of £15 a year, tenable for two years:—Nunan, Sydney Herbert; Price, Ethel Aileen; Hammond, Charles Kemble.

DIED FROM INJURIES.

INQUEST ON WOMAN ADJOURNED.

Dr. L. A. Byrne, City Coroner, and a jury opened an inquest at Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital, Dublin, on the body of Mrs. Susan M. Ebrill (61), the widow of Professor George Ebrill, of 58 Grosvenor road, Rathgar, Dublin, who died in the hospital on Sunday as the result of injuries sustained in a collision between the motor car in which she was riding and a 'bus at Lower Mount street on the 31st of October. The motor car was driven by Dr. Murphy, of 23 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, and there were two other ladies in the car at the time of the collision.

Edward Ebrill, son, of 58 Grosvenor road, gave evidence of identification.

Dr. Beare, house surgeon of Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital, said that when the dead woman was admitted to the hospital she was suffering from extensive injuries, including burns, and died at 6.30 p.m. on Sunday last. In his opinion, death was due to toxic absorption from the burns, and the secondary cause was shock.

Mr. Bacon (instructed by Messrs. Collins and Sons) appeared for Dr. Murphy, the driver of the private car, and Mr. Proud, of the firm of Messrs. Little, O hUadhaigh and Proud, solicitors, appeared for the driver of the 'bus.

Superintendent O'Callaghan, who represented the Guards, asked for an adjournment pending further inquiries.

Dr. Byrne granted the request.

SEQUEL TO RUN ON NEW YORK BANK.

RECEIVER APPOINTED AS A PRECAUTION.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Monday.

The Irving Trust Company was to-day appointed receiver in equity for Messrs. John Munroe and Company, commercial and foreign exchange bankers, of New York (Broadway), Paris, Cannes and Pau. The liabilities are listed at £1,182,000, and assets approximately at £1,420,000.

The petitioner, Mr. Charles W. Greenenough, of Massachusetts, to whom £854 is owing, states that the assets are sufficient to warrant confidence in the outcome of the receivership, which is said to be necessitated only because of the possibility of forced liquidation, due to runs on the Paris and New York branches.

A Reuter message from Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, states that the Governor has commuted to ten years' imprisonment the death sentence passed on Mrs. Beatrice Williams for the murder of her husband by administering arsenic. The jury had recommended her to mercy on account of her low mentality.

TRAFFIC IN OLD HORSES.

At a meeting of the WATERFORD Branch of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals a resolution was passed calling on the Free State Government to bring in legislation prohibiting the export of aged and worn-out horses to the Continent.

THE LATE CANON GODFREY.

The Most Rev. Dr. Harty, Archbishop of Cashel, was the celebrant at the Requiem High Mass for the late Very Rev. Canon Patrick Godfrey, P.P., CAPPAMORE, at Cappamore Church yesterday. There was a large attendance of clergy and laity at the interment in the grounds adjoining the church.

NEW TYRONE M.P.

Mr. James F. Gamble, J.P., Bridgehill, CASTLEDERG, was yesterday returned unopposed for North Tyrone in the Northern Ireland Parliament. Mr. Gamble was the nominee of the North Tyrone Unionist Association, and the seat became vacant through the death of Mr. William T. Miller, M.P.

LIMERICK DOCK EXTENSION.

The LIMERICK Harbour Board yesterday, the Mayor presiding, adopted unanimously the recommendation of the Sub-Committee, that the Bank of Ireland, as treasurers, should be approached as to the loan for the new dock extension and rail connection, and the preparation of prospectus as to the sale of harbour script. The Harbour Engineer (Mr. Sullivan) said that he expected the bill in reference to the railway connection would be before the Dail next week.

THE O'MAHONY.

KELLS (County Meath) Urban District Council, at their monthly meeting, passed a resolution, proposed and seconded by Messrs. J. Sweeney and P. Collins, recording the deep regret of the Council "at the passing of a distinguished Irishman in the person of The O'Mahony, of Kerry, who, as Pierce Mahony, had an intimate and honourable association with this town and county at large in the days of the Parnell movement." The resolution added that the members of the Council tendered their sympathy to the relatives of The O'Mahony in their bereavement.

PORTS AND HARBOURS TRIBUNAL.

When the report of the Free State Ports and Harbours Tribunal was read at the meeting of the ARKLOW Harbour Board Mr. L. O'Toole said that the report was considered by most of the harbour boards throughout the country, and a great deal of controversy had arisen in connection with it, but the amount of criticism it had received was practically negligible, because the work of the Tribunal was so well done that nobody could convert anything that was in it. It was the most concise, exhaustive and comprehensive work ever published by any Government commission.

THE VANISHED WOMAN.

The woman who on Saturday night eluded the Civic Guards at FAUGHART, after being left in a fainting fit, is still at large. The Guards have at Bridge street Barracks about £50 worth of new millinery, lingerie, and general drapery, a fast trotting pony, and trap. These goods have not yet been claimed. If the woman is, as is generally believed, a resident and a citizen of Northern Ireland, the Free State police authorities cannot cross the border and arrest her, presuming that they find her. It is now known that directly the Guards left to attend to the injured pony the woman was given a drink of whiskey to revive her. Three minutes later the Guards returned with their suspicions on finding bundles of drapery goods, and then the woman had vanished.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE IN THE NORTH

Speaking at a National League meeting at SIXMILECROSS last Sunday, Mr. H. K. McAleer, M.P., said that it was rumoured that English statesmen, in their desire to effect economies, were anxious to get rid of the financial incubus of the six counties, and that a sort of National Assembly was suggested as a solution for the unification of the country, with the Northern Government, as now constituted, having equal voting power with the Free State. The Catholics and Nationalists of the six counties, even if they had to continue to suffer their present disabilities, would never agree to the North-Eastern area having a "fifty-fifty" power in a National Parliament, as they knew too well what effect such a solution would have throughout all Ireland, while the unfortunate minority in the North would be relentlessly persecuted without being afforded even a ray of hope for justice and fair play. They in the North warned the Government of the Free State to be no party to any settlement without consulting the leaders of national thought in the six counties.

MOTORIST'S LICENCE SUSPENDED.

William Carr, Rahenarran, was fined £2 and his licence suspended by District Justice McCabe, at KILMOGANNY Court, for recklessly driving a motor car on the day of the Blackbog coursing meeting. Guard Brennan said that he had to jump on to the footpath or defendant would have driven over him.

CRUELTY TO A COW.

At the RATHKEALE District Court yesterday, before District Justice Kenny, Timothy Scanlan, Ballyhahill, was fined £3 and £1 11s. costs for cruelty to a cow by leaving it in a dying condition on the roadside for some thirty hours. Defendant did not appear in Court.

HEALTH OF MOUNTMELLICK.

Reporting to the Queen's County Board of Health, in regard to recent outbreaks of diphtheria, influenza and scarlatina in MOUNTMELLICK and district, the dispensary officer, Dr. M. J. O'Brien, states: "The main cause in the town is the absence of pure water. On visiting the national schools at Clonaghadoo, Rosenallis, Derrynamogul and the Commons, I found them kept in an up-to-date condition, but the sanitary conditions are entirely unfit for children."

DAMAGE TO TREE.

The ENNISKILLEN Urban Council planted a number of ornamental trees in the streets. At Enniskillen Petty Sessions, yesterday, two boys, Thomas Boyd and Thomas Houston, were prosecuted for maliciously damaging a tree and the iron guard. The case against Houston was dismissed, but Boyd was ordered to pay in all £2 6s. compensation, 5s. fine and 8s. costs.

RAIL VERSUS ROAD.

A resolution, forwarded by LONGFORD Urban Council, was adopted by the Longford County Board of Health, calling on the Free State Government to restrict the use of motor lorries operating on the public roads to the detriment of the railway system. The Chairman (Mr. Doris)—The railway is a more accommodating service to the farmers than the lorries or 'buses, because without the railway it would be difficult to get our cattle to the markets in Dublin. Mr. Power said that there appeared to be an erroneous impression among ratepayers that the roads were being entirely maintained through grants from the Road Fund. The fact was that for every £100 expended on them the ratepayers contributed £60 and the fund £40.

ARMAGH HOUSEBREAKING CHARGE.

At a special Court yesterday in Russell street Barracks, ARMAGH, before Mr. Wm. Pinkerton, J.P., two young men named William Curry, Moy road, Armagh, and James Grimes, Banbrook Hill, Armagh, were charged with breaking and entering the premises of Messrs. Thomas Moore and Co., Ltd., Market street, Armagh, on the 9th inst., and stealing therefrom a quantity of liquor. Grimes was also charged with having housebreaking implements in his possession. Police witnesses gave evidence of arrest, and stated that on Curry was found four gallons of rum, two bottles of brandy, two bottles of port wine, and two jars, value in all £19. On Grimes was found two gallons of whiskey, two gallons of rum, a bottle of brandy and two jars, value in all £17 11s. Both of the accused men were returned for trial in custody to next Assizes.

DONEGAL WOMAN SENTENCED.

Arrested with three flasks, each containing a quart of poteen, in her possession, Rose Grant, a widow, from BALLYMAGAN, Co. Donegal, was at Derry yesterday, before Mr. R. W. Glass, R.M., and Mr. P. S. Bell, R.M., charged with being in possession of a quantity of spirits, the full duty on which had not been paid. Defendant, in reply to Mr. Glass, said that she had no explanation to make. Mr. Glass—What led you to bring this stuff into the city?—I was trying to make a living. Mr. Glass said that the magistrates were very unwilling to be harsh with the woman, but as the people in the district had got warning of the seriousness of the offence the least they could do was to send her to jail for three months from the date of arrest (November 1).

LIMERICK DOCK SITE.

At the LIMERICK Harbour Board yesterday Mr. Roycroft proposed and Mr. P. Bourke seconded the adoption of the minutes of the Sub-Committee granting a site at the eastern end of the docks to Messrs. Goodbody for the erection of a new silo extension in connection with their stores, to hold 3,500 tons of grain, in addition to the present storage capacity. Alderman McInerney moved a direct negative. Councillor Moore, in seconding, said that he did so because the matter was rushed. The amendment was defeated by nine votes to three. Councillor Moore then handed in notice of motion to rescind, and the matter stands adjourned to the next meeting of the Board.

GIANT FLYING BOAT IN ENGLAND.

JOURNEY TO BE RESUMED ON THURSDAY.

Escorted by a fleet of fifty aeroplanes and seaplanes, the giant German flying boat, the Do X, arrived at Calshot yesterday with a crew of fifteen and more than twenty passengers. The machine, which is to fly to the United States, had left the Zuider Zee at 10.30 a.m., and reached Calshot just after 3.30 p.m.

Mr. Dornier, the designer, and Captain Christiansen, the commander, were welcomed, on behalf of the Air Ministry, by Air Vice-Marshal Lamb, other officials, and representatives from the German Embassy.

Dr. Tilgenkamp, who acted as liaison officer, told a reporter that after leaving Amsterdam something went slightly wrong with the oil-cooler, and, rather than take any risks, it was decided to come down in the Zuider Zee and carry out repairs.

"We had on board three women—Lady Drummond Hay, Mrs. Dornier, wife of Dr. Dornier, and Mrs. Burgerhaut, wife of the Director of Aviation in Holland. The machine was so steady that there was scarcely any movement of glasses on the table."

Dr. Tilgenkamp said that their present intention was to stay at Calshot until Thursday, when they hoped to leave for Bordeaux and make another stage from there to Lisbon. "We are determined," he said, "to complete the flight to the United States, provided that the weather conditions are at all favourable."

Dr. Dornier, designer of Do.-X, motored to London with the Master of Sempill. In a statement issued to a reporter last night he said that he was returning to Calshot to-day, when he would show the machine to the Air Minister, officials and others.

INDIAN SITUATION IMPROVING.

CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE ON THE WANE.

SPORADIC CLASHES WITH POLICE.

The report of the Government of India on the situation in that country down to November 8th states that in internal India the reports do not show any great change in the situation.

In Madras the number of prosecutions is now normal, and there is a steady flow of apologies from those previously convicted.

In Bengal the civil disobedience movement shows diminished signs of life, except for sporadic manifestations of lawlessness in a few areas.

Discipline in jails is rather better than it was, but is still unsatisfactory.

Two local Governments report unwillingness on the part of house-owners to lease their premises to Congress organisations.

There is little to record regarding the civil disobedience movement in the Bombay Presidency. During the past week there has been further defiance of orders of authorities in Bombay City, resulting in clashes with the police.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Mr. Wedgwood-Benn, Secretary for India, in reply to Colonel Nicholson (Conservative), said that the casualties among the British troops on the Northern frontier of India during the recent unrest were, according to the reports so far received, one private of the Seaforth Highlanders and one non-commissioned officer of the Shropshire Light Infantry wounded.

THE FRENCH BANKING SITUATION.

LEGISLATION TO PROTECT INVESTORS.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
PARIS, Monday.

The situation on the Stock Market formed the principal subject of discussion at this morning's Council of Ministers. The Minister of Finance, M. Paul Renaud, informed his colleagues of the steps that were being taken in favour of the depositors of the Banque Adam, and also submitted the text of two bills designed to protect investors, to which the Council gave its approval.

The two bills approved by this morning's Council of Ministers with a view to the protection of the banking system are intended (1) to facilitate and regulate the creation of investment companies so as to allow the small investor the maximum of security, and (2) to increase the guarantees of bondholders by organising their representation in respect of companies to whose issues they have subscribed.

ANOTHER FAILURE.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

ARMISTICE DAY.

LETTER FROM EARL JELLICOE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—On the twelfth anniversary of Armistice Day our minds go back instinctively to the War days, and foremost in our thoughts will be the million of our kinsmen and our friends who gave their lives in defence of our national honour. Once again we shall take part in a common act of homage and remembrance—perhaps, the most moving the world has ever known—the Two Minutes' Silence. In the stillness and quiet of those two minutes our minds will be filled with a host of thoughts and emotions—pride in the memories of unexampled heroism, sadness at the loss of near and loved ones, the realisation of a million ever empty places in our homes; but, above all, a feeling of intense thankfulness to those who brought peace and security to a war-ridden world.

Let us not forget in those two minutes those whom I feel so sure our dead would have us remember—their comrades who returned, but are now in such dire need. It is to help these men and their families, and the widows and children of those who fell in the War, that we observe this anniversary, in a second and most practical way, by buying and wearing Flanders poppies. This annual sale of poppies, now almost a national institution, provides the income necessary for the continuance of the British Legion's work for the distressed ex-Service community. The need at the present time is a very pressing one, perhaps greater than at any other period since the War. The country is ravaged by unemployment, and undoubtedly the principal sufferer is the ex-Service man, handicapped as he is by war disabilities, advancing age or lost opportunities.

The British Legion, as far as funds permit, helps these men to the utmost of its power. There are over 3,000 voluntary relief committees at work the whole year round. The Legion, too, helps ex-Service families to emigrate, assists them in their pensions difficulties, maintains a fine sanatorium for the tuberculous, and helps blinded men through St. Dunstan's, which receives an annual grant from the Poppy Day collections. The Legion helps in numerous other ways, but the volume and consequently the value of its work is governed by the amount contributed to the Poppy Day appeal. Last year the fine total of £598,000 was contributed by a generous-hearted British public, but, as the need is so much greater this year, may I very earnestly beg of everyone to pay even more generously for their poppies this year, so that, if possible, the income from this year's Poppy Day appeal may equal the need?

I earnestly hope there may be many who, in addition, will be willing to forward a donation direct to the fund, and contributions sent to Captain W. G. Willcox, M.B.E., Organising Secretary, Earl Haig's British Legion Appeal Fund, at 26 Eccleston square, London, S.W.1, will be gratefully acknowledged.—Yours, etc.,

JELLICOE.

18 South street, Park Lane, London, W.1,
November 10th, 1930.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—One cannot help being struck that in the various accounts of Armistice Services there is no mention of the old V.A.D.'s. The Boy Scouts, Church Lads' Brigade, Girl Guides, are all given a place in the annual Service. Might I ask those who observe the two minutes' silence to-morrow to spare a kindly thought of remembrance for the old V.A.D.'s? Many of them lost their lives; others were in constant danger whilst nursing in France and Serbia, and others left comfortable and safe homes to work in hospitals and canteens in London and elsewhere. Surely the V.A.D.'s deserved, as much as any, the places of honour in all cathedrals and churches at the Memorial Services—Yours, etc., "Lest We Forget."

THE AMERICAN ELECTIONS AND PROHIBITION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—The far-flung declarations in the world Press that the anti-drys won the elections in the United States and that prohibition is doomed are, of course, far-fetched. The defeat of a number of Republicans and the election of certain Democrats is no indication that prohibition has been defeated. In a large number of cases dry Democrats take the place of dry Republicans.

Again, the statement that the Democratic Party is the Wet Party and the Republican Party the Dry Party is also quite incorrect. There have always been drys and wets in both parties, and the question of prohibition, from first to last, has been a non-party one. When the Prohibition Amendment was finally passed by Congress there voted in the Senate for prohibition 36 Democrats and 29 Republicans, as against 8 Democrats and 12 Republicans. In the House of Representatives the vote was—for prohibition 141 Democrats and 137 Republicans, as against 64 Democrats and 62 Republicans. The returns to hand show the wets to have secured (and this with a number of recounts in the offing) in the Senate 18 votes (two less than before), and in the House of Representatives 135, which is only nine more than previously. The drys are thus left with an overwhelming majority in both Houses of Congress.

The result of the elections is also stated to be a defeat for Mr. Hoover, and a comparison is made with the defeat of President Wilson on the peace question; but it must be admitted that the League of Nations is a lasting memorial to the clear-sightedness and determination of Mr. Wilson. So the stabilisation and enforcement of national prohibition in the United States, which destroyed Rum Row, gave protection from the rum-runners on the frontiers of Canada and Mexico, and have brought increased benefits to the citizens of that great country (releasing millions of dollars from waste to more worthy purposes), stand at least to the credit of Mr. Hoover and his administration, irrespective of the recent election results, about which the wets cannot be too gratified.—Yours, etc.,

GUY HAYLER, Honorary President,
World Prohibition Federation.

THE CARRYING TRADE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Writing on the subject of protection in to-day's issue, you ask: "What would the Free State offer in return for a butter quota?" As your question implies that the Free State enjoys a completely free trade with Great Britain, I suggest that the monopoly of the carrying trade to and from this country and Great Britain forms a tariff which is a considerable set-off against the freedom of her market. What it appears to lose in free trade, Great Britain makes up in sea trade. Until recently her mercantile marine trade was so valuable that she could afford to dispense with Customs-houses on land. Her Customs houses were afloat.

Everything that leaves the Free State for Great Britain is carried in a British ship. From the North Wall alone 800,000 head of cattle leave annually. All these go in British ships, and at about three times the pre-war rate. The figures for the carrying trade of everything that enters the Free State are not obtainable, because the shipping companies refuse to give them; but the money paid for freight charges to Great Britain by the Free State annually amounts to millions—enough, anyway, to pay for a butter quota.

For one year's purchase of the sum spent on cattle freights alone a Free State line of ships could be built. I should be the last to recommend it, because there must be give and take between customers, and one cannot sell without buying; but we must not forget that we are paying somewhat through her sea trade for England's free trade.—Yours, etc.,

OLIVER ST. J. GOGARTY.

LINGERING VISITORS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Seven or eight house martins and two or three swallows were flying round here all to-day. It was almost uncanny so late in the year. They must find it hard to get a living in these short and often stormy days. However, the air was full of insects this morning, and there were many other birds—seagulls and starlings especially—hawking flies. One could hear the snap of their beaks as one sometimes does on calm summer days.—Yours, etc.,

JOHN GOING.

BRIGHTER—More ENERGETIC

(Miss A. Griffiths writes:—)

All Day STRENGTH & FRESHNESS after a few doses of PHOSFERINE which banished dreadful Nervous Headaches, Depression, Fatigue, and assured Sound Sleep and New Vitality

MISS MOLLY WRIGHT,
"Phosferine keeps me splendidly fit and in good health."

"THE improvement in my health is remarkable after a few doses of Phosferine. I feel more myself, now, after only a short trial; in fact, people have remarked on the wonderful change in my condition. I have had entire relief from the dreadful, nervous headaches and I sleep and eat better; in fact, it seems like a new life. My appetite is greatly improved and I feel as fresh at the end of a day as at the beginning. I was always tired, worn out and dreadfully depressed. I suffered untold misery. My father, who is a clergyman, found Phosferine very valuable in his strenuous duties, and he felt sure it would benefit me also. Where everything was a burden it is now a pleasure, for I am so much brighter and more energetic since I found Phosferine, my real friend in need. One could hardly believe there would be such a difference, but it is the truth and I can say I have absolute faith in Phosferine, as I found it so genuine and saved me from much suffering."

THE BARE INGREDIENTS OF ANY CAKE

Why risk wasting these precious ingredients when less than a pennyworth of Royal means success!

THRIFTY housewives everywhere recommend Royal Baking Powder—for they know there is no saving in using a cheap raising agent. Those expensive ingredients that go to the mixing are not wasted if you use Royal—for less than a pennyworth of this reliable baking powder makes success certain.

FUNERAL OF MR. M. NOLAN, BRAY.

The funeral of the late Mr. M. Nolan, Bray, who had been for fifty years connected with the engineering department of the Great Southern Railways, was very largely attended by the people of the town. The interment took place at St. Peter's Cemetery, and the chief mourners were:—Mrs. Nolan (widow), D. I. S. and M. I. Nolan (sons), Mrs. McGarry and Mrs. McLoughlin (daughters), John and Patrick Nolan (brothers), Mrs. Kinch and Mrs. G. McLoughlin (sisters), J. McGarry and P. McLoughlin (sons-in-law), J. Kinch (brother-in-law), Mrs. J. and P. Nolan, and Mrs. Kerr. Tributes to Mr. Nolan's work for the parish were paid by the Rev. Father Gleeson, in the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer, and the Rev. Father Brady in St. Peter's, Little Bray.

HITLERITE NEWSPAPER SUPPRESSED.

From Reuter's Correspondent.
BERLIN, Monday.

The "Nazi" (National Socialist) newspaper, Angriff, has been suppressed for a week, by Order of the Minister of the Interior, for the same reason that the Communist newspaper, Red Flag, was suppressed for a similar period—namely, for glorifying the action of the Communist workman who struck Herr Zoergiebel, the former Police President, twice in the face while he was giving evidence in Court.

An intimation from the Home Office was received yesterday by Mr. E. W. Marshall Harvey, of Bournemouth, solicitor for John Richard Holmes, who was sentenced to death at Dorchester Assizes on October 22 for the murder of Florence May Baker at Poole, Dorset, on June 28, stating that, under all the circumstances, the Home Secretary has felt warranted in advising the King to respite the capital punishment in this case.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND.

According to Mr. Charles H. Murphy, a secretary of the Automobile Association, the amount of money that will be garnered in by people of the Free State from tourist traffic will in a few years equal many millions.—(Page 11.)

Summonses against thirty-three members of the Dungannon (Co. Tyrone) Coursing Club, alleging that they permitted cruelty to hares at a recent Dungannon meeting, were dismissed by the Dungannon magistrates yesterday.—(Page 13.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

The King, who will be accompanied by the Prince of Wales, will lay a wreath of poppies on the Cenotaph in London to-day.—(Page 7.)

No recommendation of any sort, it is understood, will be made by the Imperial delegates on the question of Privy Council appeals.—(Page 7.)

It was stated yesterday in London that the British Post Office authorities have decided to stop the delivery of all letters addressed to the Hospitals' Trust in Dublin, who are conducting a sweepstake on the November Handicap.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At Leicester yesterday Gay Guy won the Atherstone Handicap Plate.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were easier, especially for British Funds and International Industrials.—(Page 12.)

Loan and discount rates were firmer, with overnight money up to 2½ per cent. The Bank received £500,000 from South Africa and sold £325,185 in bar gold to France and exported £5,000 in sovereigns.—(Page 12.)

Armistice Day.

To-day, for the twelfth time since the Great War ended, the two minutes' silence will hush the world. Twelve years have changed the throngs which will pay the punctual service at innumerable cenotaphs. Many have been reunited with their dead; in most time has dulled the bitterness of bereavement; many, who were children then, have acquired in manhood the new outlook of a new age. Yet the spirit of Armistice Day has not changed. It remains a solemn celebration of one of the most tremendous events in history; a national tribute, profoundly moving, to those by whose valour the nation survives; a renewed expression of love and pride by millions of individuals; an annual stirring of the guarded perfume that awakens, fragrant and poignant, a thousand memories. As Sunday's Services showed, and as to-day will show in Dublin and throughout the five Continents, Armistice Day is strengthening rather than losing its hold upon the peoples of the British Empire. Of the day itself, as of those whom it honours, we may say that "age shall not weary it nor the years condemn." The appeal of its undying sentiment throws, like the speech of Pericles, a confident challenge at time. Perhaps, we may acquit the present British Government of any intentional slight upon the dead, but the moment and manner of its decree that formal courtesies to tombs and cenotaphs might cease were unfortunate; and the country's anger was significant. Now or hereafter no Government may dare to tamper with a trust so sacred and so gracious. Even if love should fail—and it will not fail—the nations could not afford to forget Armistice Day. Its annual observance provides a golden link between them, and is a majestic sermon—preached from one pulpit to all the world—against the crime of future wars. Soon for a new generation the only material traces of the Great War will be the graves and visible records of the dead. These, preserved for all time, and visited in annual piety, will be for mankind a common heritage and a common warning. Furthermore—a purpose that will pass, but is vital now—our tribute to the dead recalls our duty to the living. In Dublin to-day, and throughout Ireland, men will march to once familiar music whose existence since they came, unscathed or blasted, through the furnace of war has been a desperate struggle for bare food and shelter. Armistice Day reminds us—and, if we shut our thoughts upon that reminder, can we honour the Day with a clear conscience?—of our debt not only to these men's valour in war, but to their even grimmer valour in peace.

How sleep the brave, who sink to rest,
By all their country's wishes blest.

Yes; but the brave who have survived to fight a losing battle with hunger and sickness—will mere wishes help them?

Germany and World Trade.

Germany is girding her loins for a struggle to regain her old place among the commercial nations. Such an ambition calls for tremendous effort, since the Fatherland is oppressed with an unemployment roll that is already huge and is expected to become huger still within the next few months. During October the dismal roll increased by 250,000 to 3,250,000, of whom more than two million persons receive either a full-time unemployment allowance or "crisis support." Moreover, the Reich Labour Office estimates that by next February the number of recipients of the "dole" will have increased to 2,600,000, while "crisis support" will be allowed to 750,000, and 900,000 will be dependent on the various welfare organisations. When the half million who receive no public assistance at all are taken into account it seems that Germany will open the new year with a host of unemployed persons amounting to 4,750,000. The difficulty is complicated by the abnormally high price of food, particularly in Berlin and the great cities, where the distress due to lack of work is most manifest. According to the Berlin Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, workmen in the capital must pay for potatoes, their staple article of diet, between four and five times the price received for them by the peasant cultivators in the surrounding country. The object of Germany's new venture is to annihilate both unemployment and high prices by a bold stroke of artifice.

Last June the masters of German industry and the trade union leaders entered into a pact to secure a general and simultaneous lowering of prices and wages. Difficulties arose, but, largely as a result of Government intervention, a section of the German iron trade gave expression to the pact. In the case of the Berlin metalworkers a reduction of wages was refused by the men, and a committee of arbitrators was appointed to decide the quarrel. That committee has cast judgment for a reduction—apparently with the consent of the men, since both sides bound themselves in advance to accept its finding. The award is hailed as the first step in a general lowering of the costs of production in German industries. It was dictated, as the arbitrators admit, by "the knowledge of certain steps for the lowering of food prices which already have been inaugurated, and in the confident expectation that a general cheapening of industrial products, as well as of comestibles, will be prosecuted further with the utmost energy in all responsible quarters." Evidently, therefore, the Government proposes to take drastic measures to secure cheaper food for the worker, so that the effect of the wage-cut may be annulled. If autocratic action does not throw the entire economic system out of joint, costs of production will be brought far below the level that prevails elsewhere throughout Europe, and Germany will become a formidable competitor in the world's markets.

Germany's re-entrance to the commercial ring will be a heavy blow to nations whose prosperity is confronted with similar, if less insistent, handicaps. Britain's steel industry is bound to suffer unless, under a more enlightened and less concessive Government than her present Administration, she can take decisive and manly steps to meet the added competition. The United States, whose troubles are manifold, will find increased difficulty in the recovery of their European markets. To France and Italy, perhaps, the consequences will be less serious, but no less perturbing. Actually, Germany's decision is an example to every Power; for it reveals a strength of purpose, a high patriotism and a willingness to revert to common-sense as a substitute for unprogressive disputation. The modern world is top-heavy with social and economic theory. When all has been said, the science of trade is based on the principles that governed it three hundred years ago—principles which no amount of ratiocination can occlude. If Germany chooses to unwrap these venerable principles from their twentieth-century shroudings, and to put them into practice, she will earn the congratulation of every man who sees straightly. It may be that political difficulties will retard the success of her experiment. Otherwise, in the vulgar phrase, she will deserve all that she gets. Her action, perhaps, will be more than an example to the nations; it may be a lesson.

Control of Oil.

From time to time a struggle between the large oil groups allows the public to buy petrol cheaply. One of these conflicts has arisen to-day in the United States, and its sphere of operations, according to the New York Correspondent of The Times, is likely to be extended into Asia. For about two years the Shell Union Oil Corporation, acting as the agent of the Royal Dutch-Shell group, has been conducting an intensive competition against local interests in the eastern States of the American Republic. This campaign has received much help from the development of an economic source of supply in Venezuela, and now the American companies, who are feeling the pinch acutely, have decided to retaliate. The Export Petroleum Association, Incorporated, whose function is to co-ordinate prices of American oil in foreign markets, has cancelled its price-list to enable American exporters to carry the war into the enemy's country—in this case India, the Straits Settlements and the Far East. A definite victory to either side is not immediately probable, but we believe that ultimately the Americans will be the losers in the war of the world's oil supply. Even now their resources do not permit them to present a wholly united front. Several companies have demanded a tariff of a dollar a barrel on foreign oil, but the Senate, under pressure from American importers, has rejected the demand. The whole situation is of vital consequence; for in another ten or twenty years the nation that can control the world's oil will possess all the advantages which, at the beginning of the industrial era, Britain derived from the South Wales coalfields. Britain again is fortunate, since her holdings in the Anglo-Persian oil concessions will give her a predominant place. It is no exaggeration to say that the Zagros range must be numbered with Gibraltar and the Suez Canal as a key-point of empire which may never be abandoned.

Number 13.

There is something magnificent in the determination of the London County Council to purge its boroughs of superstition. For hundreds of years the baleful number 13 has been allowed to blight our happiest moments, and there must be few who cannot remember an occasion in early youth when they have been hounded into a corner to eat a solitary meal that their elders' decorous revelry might not be abated by a consciousness of "thirteen at table." How many hotels dare number their rooms in proper sequence? How many urban landlords have not bewailed the fact that one of their houses is depreciated by that horrid number on its portal? Chelsea, Finsbury, Hammersmith and Paddington, servile to the superstition, besought leave to burke the hated figures and to use 11a or 12a instead. The County Council, however, would not hear of this subterfuge, and leave to tell pious lies on front doors has been refused. The thirteenth house in every street will be numbered 13. We admire the County Council, since there are few enemies harder to overcome than a deep-seated superstition. Indeed, if we required to take a house in London, we should be tempted to select wilfully a No. 13 as a tribute to that august body's sanity. Society, even in this enlightened age, carries its superstitions to ridiculous lengths. During the War, when a match often represented an aiming point, there may have been a reason why three cigarettes ought not to be ignited from one flame. To-day there is no such reason. Manifestations of this sort of folly exist in every branch of daily life, and others may be inspired by the London County Council's example to cure mankind of such relics of primæval paganism.

THE WAR MEMORIAL.

In Cloonagh Church a plate of brass,
Set closely in the sombre wall,
Gleams golden where the sunbeams fall
Down through the panes of tinted glass.

The dear familiar names are there
Of those who trod the leaf-strewn way
On such a still November day,
Between the hedgerows that were bare.

A wreath of poppies hangs below,
Like those that made a carpet red
Where once they wandered, who are dead,
In the big corn-field long ago.

They loved the painted autumn wood,
The autumn morning calm and still;
They loved the golden autumn hill,
Where all the fading larches stood.

In Cloonagh Church their names abide,
Set closely in the sombre wall;
But clearer where the brown leaves fall
Upon the wind-swept road, outside.

IMPORTED BUTTER.

THE CASE FOR NATIVE PRODUCE.

FROM A CORRESPONDENT.

Some months ago a remonstrance was recorded in the Press of Northern Ireland against a free advertisement on behalf of Australasian butter, issued by the Empire Marketing Board, being displayed on the hoardings of Belfast, while Northern farming was hard beset. The hint was taken, the advertisement disappeared, and the Board—whose energies have been so fruitfully employed alike in the interests of Northern Ireland and the Irish Free State, as well as of other Dominion agricultural products—have evolved the common-sense slogan, "Empire buying begins at home." I commend this policy just now to the housewives of Dublin and other cities. I am informed that a very large importation of Australian butter came into Dublin last week, when 3,000 boxes arrived. Butter is one of those commodities in respect of which Ireland should be easily able to do without importation.

In the absence of winter dairying there is, of course, a dearth of Irish creamery butter in the later winter months—a dearth which might be averted by foresight with the aid of cold storage and a settled policy of home consumption. Yet I cannot see, even under existing conditions, that the invasion of the Irish market by overseas butter early in November is either necessary or desirable. Our dairy farmers are passing through a critical time. A "collapse" in prices has occurred on the English market, and dairying, our most important agricultural asset, is in sore straits. At such a time the underselling of Irish by Australian butter would be little short of a calamity if, as is bound to happen, it depresses the price for winter butter, and so discourages still further winter dairying, which—or so the farmer believes—has failed at recent prices to pay costs of production. Without winter dairying it is more than doubtful whether Irish butter can keep even its present place on the market—a place inferior to that which, if quality were the only test of precedence, it is entitled to occupy.

What, it may be asked, can be done about it? Perhaps, the answer lies with the housewives of our cities. If the importation referred to is but the advance guard of a larger invading army, it would be advisable for Irish consumers to consider the situation carefully. It is too early in the winter season for our buyers to cry off home supplies. To that extent the remedy lies in their own hands, and, if they realise the importance of the dairying industry to the prosperity of the country, they will ask for it when they make their family purchases.

Here is a case where Dublin may well vie with Belfast in patriotism. In the Northern capital there is now a scheme in operation through which the Belfast Butter Merchants' Association obtain half their supplies, and the Belfast Co-operative Society all of its purchases of butter, from Northern creameries. Dairying is even more important to the Irish Free State than to Northern Ireland, and any further losses in it will certainly be reflected in a set-back to national prosperity. No question as to the quality of our best creamery butter arises. It is quoted at several shillings a hundredweight above "finest Australian" in last week's English market reports. Even at that price the Irish farmer can scarcely hope to make his small dairy farm pay. If he and his co-operative societies are to suffer further from imports, the country, willingly or not, will suffer with him. Here is an opportunity for practical patriotism.

THREE HUNTING MISHAPS.

SIR JOHN LEIGH'S DAUGHTER THROWN.

Three mishaps occurred with the Quorn Hounds yesterday. Miss Marjorie Leigh, daughter of Sir John Leigh, was thrown when her horse was attempting to negotiate some timber in the course of a run from Cradocks Ashes. She was conveyed to her residence, Warwick Lodge, Melton Mowbray, where it was found that she had escaped with bruises.

Colonel R. D. Alexander, of Whissendine, was also thrown when his horse fell at a gate and he received a shaking.

Major Rouse, a veterinary surgeon at the Army Remount Dépôt, Melton Mowbray, had his horse badly injured as the result of a fall, but he escaped unhurt.

OBITUARY.

MR. FRANCIS GUBBINS.

The death took place yesterday at his residence, Knocklong, of Mr. Francis J. B. Gubbins, formerly Justice of the Peace and Deputy Lieutenant for the County of Limerick. He was an extensive land holder, a large employer of labour, and a well-known breeder of pedigree cattle. He was in recent years the winner of many prizes at the principal Irish shows.

MR. THOMAS R. LANPHIER.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Thomas R. Lanphier, which took place on Sunday last at his residence, Trafalgar, Knapton road, Kingstown. A son of the late Mr. William Lanphier, Clonmel, he was for fifty years in the service of the Bank of Ireland, during ten of which he acted as Secretary. He belonged to a well-known family of bankers, two of his brothers having also been employed in the Bank of Ireland, while another was engaged in the Ulster Bank. All of these are now retired. The late Mr. Lanphier was much esteemed by everyone who knew him, and will be missed by a large circle of friends.

KILLED WHILE HUNTING.

Colonel Abel Henry Smith, Conservative Member of Parliament for East Herts from 1900 to 1910, was killed yesterday while out with the Hertfordshire Hunt. He was thrown while crossing a field.

LORD DICKINSON JOINS LABOUR PARTY.

Lord Dickinson has become a member of the Labour Party in the House of Lords, and will shortly take his seat on the Labour benches. Lord Dickinson was formerly Sir Willoughby Dickinson, and received his peerage in the last New Year's List of Honours. He is seventy-one years of age, and has had a long political career as a Liberal. He sat in the House of Commons as Liberal M.P. for St. Pancras, N., from 1906 to 1918, and was for many years Chairman of the London Liberal Federation. Since the war he has been actively associated with the peace movement, and is well known as a strong supporter of the League of Nations. His younger daughter is the wife of Mr. J. C. C. Davidson, M.P., formerly Chairman of the Conservative Party Organisation.

LONDON LETTER

THE IRISH HOSPITALS' SWEEPSTAKES.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

Surprise is expressed by many people to-day at the British Government's sudden decision, through the medium of the Home Secretary, to stop all letters addressed to 13 Earlsfort terrace, Dublin, containing money with requests for tickets for the Hospitals' Sweepstake. At the General Post Office to-day it was stated that such packets sent through the Post Office were being stopped and returned to the senders on the authority of the Home Office, and that no more such packets would be forwarded by the Post Office to the promoters of the sweepstake. Interest in the sweepstake has been growing here of late, and to-day many people have been complaining of the Post Office's attitude, and asking how they may get their letters forwarded to Dublin. The Post Office is not to blame in any way in this particular case; for it cannot disregard definite instructions from the Government, and it seems that these have been peremptory and urgent Resentment.

At the Home Office to-day the officials were somewhat aloof, refusing to make a statement on any particular case, and remarking that they merely could refer inquirers to the Home Secretary's frequent announcements in the House of Commons on the subject of sweepstakes and lotteries. The sending of lottery tickets through the post is illegal in this country, and the Post Office could not be expected to take part in an illegal proceeding. There is a belief that Mr. Clynes will take an early opportunity to make a full statement in the House of Commons. Resentment is expressed at the opening of letters by the postal officials, and few people appreciate the fact that the Postmaster-General has a legal right to take such a step if he deems it necessary.

The Cenotaph.

The usual pilgrimage to the Cenotaph began to-day, and when, during the afternoon, a queue formed, it was estimated that people were passing at the rate of something like six hundred an hour. Many wreaths were placed in position, as well as numberless bunches of flowers. Everything points to a greater and more imposing commemoration to-morrow than there has been for some time, and the police are making preparations to deal with enormous crowds in the neighbourhood of Whitehall and Westminster. It would appear that interest in Armistice Day tends to increase rather than to decline.

Dissension in the Cabinet.

In the Lobby of the House of Commons to-day there was some discussion about the denial of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and Mr. Philip Snowden that there were serious differences in opinion between them. I found that there was an inclination to take these denials with something more than the proverbial pinch of salt; for there is a suspicion among members that all is not well with the Cabinet. In this connection it is curious that Mr. Thomas, Mr. Lansbury and Miss Susan Lawrence recognise a necessity to shout from the housetops that the Government is safe for a long time to come.

The Conservative Party.

The interests of the Conservative Party are being maintained by the Primrose League, one of the most powerful organisations in the party. In response to an invitation of the Grand Council of the League, staunch allegiance is being expressed to Mr. Baldwin and his policy recently approved at the Caxton Hall, and the branches are working loyally to secure the early return of a Conservative Administration. There are signs that the party in the country is determined to exert its best efforts to maintain unity and so to improve its machinery that it will not be found wanting when the next appeal to the country is made.

Mr. Lloyd George.

Rumour says to-day that Mr. David Lloyd George soon may attempt to emulate his great namesake as a giant-killer; for some members of his party are anxious to demonstrate that they recognise the failure of the Government to deal with unemployment. The suggestion is that a motion of censure shall be placed on the Order Paper, and there is a growing consensus of opinion among Liberals in the House of Commons that such a course ought to be followed at the earliest moment, in view of the importance of the subject and its relation to the remedies proposed by Mr. Lloyd George.

Election Gambles.

Apparently with no reason dealings opened to-day on the Stock Exchange in "election futures," or party chances at the general election, whenever that may come. The dealings are called "majorities," and Labour is given 240-250 seats, Conservatives 310-320 seats, and Liberals 40-60 seats. A buyer of one "Conservative" at 310 would receive one pound for every Conservative in excess of that number elected, and he would have to pay the same sum for every Conservative less than that number.

The Lord Mayor's Show.

The Lord Mayor's Show to-day was unusually splendid; in fact, it was a pageant of remarkable charm and picturesque effect. In addition to all the time-honoured accessories—the wonderful gold coach, the gorgeously attired footmen, sailors, soldiers, Boy Scouts and numerous bands—St. Bartholomew's Hospital provided a spectacle which appealed to every member of the vast crowds lining the streets. These crowds were greater than they have been for a number of years, partly owing to the magnificent weather, and partly because the Lord Mayor had secured a holiday for one hundred and fifty thousand school children. Dick Whittington and his Cat, with Cinderella in her coach, heralded the approach of an Empire Pageant, consisting of a number of cars laden with Dominion produce. Canada was represented by an ox wagon used one hundred years ago, which was escorted by Red Indians; and four great elephants, as representatives of India, took part.

Britain's Railways.

The conference to be opened here on Thursday between the representatives of the railway companies and the three railway trade unions promises to be both important and protracted. The railway companies, it is understood, have prepared a number of proposals, which are not demands, for consideration by the gathering; while, on the other hand, the trade unions have prepared statements which are rather more than proposals, and quite reasonably may be termed demands. The keynote is shorter hours and more money.

The Colonial Fleets.

The text was issued to-day of a bill presented in the House of Lords by Lord Passfield, the Colonial Secretary, to amend and consolidate the Colonial Naval Defence Acts of 1865 and 1909. The bill will empower the Legislature of any colony, with the approval of the King in Council, to make provision at the expense of the colony for the maintenance and use of vessels of war. Any such vessels, together with their officers and men, may be placed at the King's disposal for general service in the Royal Navy.

General Sir Desmond O'Callaghan, who had an accident on Friday, is making satisfactory progress and had a good night. Sir Desmond is suffering from shock and a broken rib consequent on being knocked down by a 'bus while crossing Kensington High street.

"THE GLORIOUS DEAD."

KING'S TRIBUTE TO THE FALLEN.

TO-DAY'S CEREMONY IN LONDON.

PRINCE'S APPEAL FOR THE LIVING.

"In memory of the glorious dead, 1914-1918.—George R.I. and Mary."

This is the simple inscription on the wreath of poppies which the King will lay on the Cenotaph to-day. The wreath is one of twenty-six thousand made by disabled ex-Service men.

Wreaths of poppies have also been ordered for the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and the Queen of Spain.

The King will drive from Buckingham Palace to the Cenotaph in a closed motor car to attend the Armistice Day Service this morning. With him will be the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York.

The Queen and other members of the Royal Family will sit at Home Office windows overlooking Whitehall. It is expected that the Duchess of York will be with the Queen. This will be her first public appearance since the birth of Princess Margaret Rose.

AT THE CENOTAPH.

Detachments from the Household Cavalry, Royal Artillery, the Brigade of Guards and the Territorial Army will be formed up round the Cenotaph, while the Royal Navy, Royal Marines, Royal Naval Reserves, Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, Royal Air Force, Mercantile Marine and fishing fleets will also be represented.

Dominion and Indian delegates will be present, and will help to make the Service a great Empire-wide tribute.

The Bishop of London will conduct the short Service, which will include the hymn, "O God, our help in ages past." After the Service there will be a great march past of ex-Service men and deputations carrying wreaths.

Among the ex-Service men will be representatives of the Overseas Forces.

THE DEBT TO THE LIVING.

PRINCE'S BROADCAST APPEAL.

The Prince of Wales, broadcasting a talk on Poppy Day last night, said that twelve years was a long space of time, and if there was a feeling nowadays that the time had come to forget the War, with its agonising recollections, it was, perhaps, not entirely unnatural.

"There is, however, one aspect of the War which to thinking people should prevent its lapse into the limbo of things past and forgotten, and that is our debt of honour to the survivors," he said.

LORD HAIG'S GREAT WORK.

In a tribute to Lord Haig's work for ex-Service men, the Prince said: "Can you think that in 1918 there was in England a man with a more fatigued brain and body than Haig. Personally, I cannot, but Haig loved the men with whom he had fought, and quite oblivious of his own need for rest, spared no effort to make their lot a better one right up to the very moment of his untimely death in 1928.

"To his sympathy and clear foresightedness we owe Poppy Day. He realised, of course, that while we must ever remember the dead, we should never forget the men who came back. The need of thousands of the men who came back was a very terrible one, deserving of all our sympathy. The country was beset with unemployment, and ex-Service men, because of war disabilities, advancing age or lost opportunities, were fighting a losing battle in the struggle for existence."

WORLD PEACE.

MR. SCULLIN'S MESSAGE.

Mr. Scullin, in an Armistice Day message, says:—"All of us who at the solemn observance to-day reflect upon the terror and tragedy of the War of 1914-1918 must stand appalled at even the thought of any future war.

"If we want peace we must be prepared to work for peace, and earnestly support the cause of disarmament. Our patriotism must be merged into the wider ideal of world peace."

THE DAY IN DUBLIN.

PHŒNIX PARK CEREMONY.

The Dublin and district contingents of the British Legion and unorganised ex-Service men from North and South Dublin areas will assemble for the Remembrance Day parade in contingents 200 strong at Beresford place at 9.15 a.m. to-day. The parade will move off for the Phœnix Park at 9.30 via Eden quay and the Northern line of quays. Inchicore contingents will proceed separately to the Phœnix Park.

The ceremony in the enclosure near the Wellington monument will commence with the band of the Central Branch of the Legion playing a funeral march. The "Last Post" will be sounded at 10.59, and the two minutes' silence will then be observed. The Réveille will be sounded at 11.2, and the ceremony of laying wreaths will follow.

The contingents will then march past the Cenotaph, and will move out of the Park by the Wellington road towards Island Bridge Gate.

ROYAL HIBERNIANS' OLD COMRADES.

At the request of Captain James S. McMahon, and by permission of the Commissioners of Public Works, Admiral Craig Waller will lay the wreath from the Royal Hibernians' Old Comrades Association on the Cenotaph in their old School in the Phœnix Park to-day.

IRISH VALOUR.

TRIBUTES BY FRENCH GENERALS.

From a Special Correspondent.

PARIS, Monday.

In special Armistice Day messages Marshal Pétain and General Gouraud pay striking tribute to the part of the Irish troops in the World War.

Marshal Pétain, whose organisation of the defence of Verdun ranks him one of the great figures of the World War, says: "I am glad to associate myself with the homage you are paying to-day to the memory of the men of the Irish race who gave their lives for the common cause on the different fronts.

"What we experienced during the four years of conflict only tended to strengthen our confidence in the loyalty as allies and the high courage of the Irish. The names of Irish regiments are imperishably associated with some of the greatest deeds of the world conflict, and you can be sure that the French people will never cease to honour the memory of your heroic dead who came among us to risk their lives for the common cause.

DID R101 START TOO SOON?

VIEWS OF EXPERT AIRMEN.

When the inquiry into the R101 disaster was resumed in London yesterday, Squadron-Leader Booth, Commander of R100, suggested that, in agreeing to the last flight of R101, her officers were "biassed by the fact of the Imperial Conference and because it was the psychological moment for the airship to carry the Secretary of State to India and back."

The President (Sir John Simon) stated several possible causes of the disaster. He suggested that one might be set down as foolish navigation—though it was improbable—such as putting the elevator down when it ought to be up—if one could be so foolish as to do that. Another possible cause was that she broke in the air. Another cause, possibly, was meteorological—such as meeting a meteor.

In announcing the date of the adjournment—till December 3rd—Sir John Simon said—We shall want all the help we can get to bring us to the best explanation of the disaster. Up to the present, we have been trying to find the facts.

A FRENCH WITNESS.

M. Louis Alphonse Maillet, a French witness, who was reported to have seen R101 flying over Poix Aerodrome, was examined at the outset. He said that he was sleeping in the aerodrome and was roused by the noise of the airship's motors. He saw the lights of the ship, which was about 200 metres from the aerodrome, and he formed the impression that she was struggling very hard against the wind. When he first saw her she was not more than 120 to 150 metres above the ground.

With the aid of a model, M. Maillet demonstrated the height of the airship as it appeared to him.

Sir John Simon—Referring to the demonstration—The distance from the ground is less than the length of the dirigible.

M. Maillet—O, yes.

Sir John Simon observed that M. Maillet saw only the lights, and not the outline of the ship, and, therefore, it would be rash to draw any confident deduction.

Colonel Outram, Director of Aeronautical Inspection, told how Major Bishop came to be on R101. "He had been very anxious to go on the flight," said Colonel Outram. "As a matter of fact, it was a question of whether he or I should go: I agreed that he should go."

MR. McWADE'S EVIDENCE.

Sir John Simon referred to a bundle of inspection "chits," and said that it was due to everyone to say that they were in admirable order. He questioned Mr. F. McWade, who is in charge of the Inspection Department at Cardington in regard to the "chits."

Letters that had passed between Mr. McWade and Colonel Richmond, designer of the airship, showed that Mr. McWade had asked that valves should be treated with hydrogen gas, and that Colonel Richmond did not accept the suggestion.

In reply to Sir John Simon, Mr. McWade said that after he had sent his letter of warning about the airship, which was read to the Court on Friday last, he took no further part in the discussion that followed on it. He added that the report had never been brought to his notice, that in riding at the mast in a storm the ship rolled, and the valve of a gas bag was found to be opening. He would have regarded that as a serious thing of which notice should have been taken.

WHY THE START WAS MADE.

Squadron-Leader Booth, after having spoken of his experience on the trial flight of R101, on June 27th, said that the ship appeared to be bumping rather a lot, which he attributed to the slow speed. In the afternoon it was difficult to keep her at 1,000 or 1,200 feet, and Flight-Lieutenant Irwin seemed to think that the gas valves were giving trouble.

Sir John Simon—Do you think the trial of the modified R101 before she started to India was adequate?

The Witness—I think that the officers concerned, with more experience of that ship than I have, and Major Scott, with more experience of airships generally, were quite satisfied with the ship, and were confident in her and in her crew. At the same time, I feel that their agreement to leave was biassed by the fact of the Imperial Conference, and because it was the psychological moment for the airship to carry the Secretary of State to India and back. This biassed their judgment in agreeing to fly. If the Imperial Conference had not been on, I feel confident that they would have insisted on more trials, as was done in the case of R100 before she went to Canada.

The witness added that he remembered the ship's being pulled out of a steep dive at the rehearsal over Hendon.

In reply to further questions, he said that the degree and rate of loss of gas was quite abnormal. Under the conditions in which R101 was flying on the Friday and Saturday it would have been impossible to get to India.

Mr. George Ritson Raisbeck, an examiner in the Inspection Department at Cardington, said that Flight-Lieutenant Irwin, when he wished him good luck at the foot of the mast before the start of the last flight, agreed that everything was satisfactory. He (Raisbeck) could not remember having used the expression, "You have a ship of gold." He possibly did.

Captain Meager, first officer of R100, said that during the Hendon flight R101 must have lost some gas. The assistant coxswain said, "It is as much as I can do to keep her up."

A rigger on R101 gave evidence to the effect that the ship was sluggish, and he spoke of valve-chattering.

The inquiry was adjourned.

LENA GOLDFIELDS.

THE RECENT ARBITRATION.

Mr. I. J. Albery (Conservative, Gravesend), in the House of Commons yesterday, asked the Foreign Secretary whether he had received any reply to the representations made by His Majesty's Ambassador at Moscow concerning the recent arbitration proceedings with the Lena Goldfields Company.

Mr. Henderson replied that His Majesty's Ambassador had made representations on November 2nd, immediately on his return to Moscow. No reply had yet been received.

Mr. Albery—Does the right honourable gentleman not agree that this matter has a direct bearing on trade relations with Russia?

Mr. Henderson—We will do what we can to get a reply, but I am afraid that we cannot do more than we are doing.

Sir William Davison—Does the right hon. gentleman realise that every day's delay involves a loss of £1,700 to British shareholders?

Mr. Henderson—Yes; but I do not know what hon. members desire us to do to force an answer.

SEVEN THOUSAND CARPENTERS ON STRIKE.

VALENCIA, Monday.

Seven thousand carpenters have come out on strike in this district. It is also feared that the newspaper compositors will come out.

THE HOSPITALS SWEEPSTAKE.

BRITISH POST OFFICE ACTION.

DUBLIN COMMITTEE'S REPLY.

A GOOD deal of surprise was expressed in Dublin yesterday when it became known that the Post Office authorities in London had decided not to forward letters addressed to the Dublin Hosptials Trust, Ltd., who are promoting a sweepstake on the Manchester November Handicap in aid of a number of hospitals in Dublin.

All letters so addressed will be stopped by the British Post Office and returned to the senders.

This eleventh hour action on the part of the Post Office can have little effect on the holding of the sweepstake, since by far the greater part of the money has been already received in Dublin.

£300,000 IN PRIZES.

SWEEPSTAKE TO GO ON.

Last night the Hospitals' Trust, Ltd., issued the following statement regarding the new situation which has been created: "In regard to the reported action of the British Post Office not transmitting mails addressed to Hospitals' Trust, Ltd., Dublin, the Hospitals' Committee desire it to be known that this action will not interfere with carrying on the sweepstake.

"The prize money is actually in excess of £300,000, and the draw will take place at the Mansion House on November 17th, as announced.

"People in Great Britain who have subscribed to the sweepstake have exercised their own initiative in obtaining tickets, and the Hospitals' Committee have studiously refrained from any solicitation of prospective subscribers or the encouragement of any organised selling of tickets. There has been no circularising campaign in England, and thousands of offers by provincial and metropolitan organisers to sell large quantities of tickets have been rejected.

"Without the exercise of this restraint a very much larger subscription would have been obtained, but it may be said that the principal object of the Hospitals' Committee throughout the conduct of the sweepstake has been to comply with the spirit of the Home Secretary's interpretation of the legal situation in England."

STATEMENT BY A TRUSTEE.

"NOT A MATTER OF DEEP CONCERN."

Sir William Taylor, a trustee of the Irish Hospitals' Trust, Ltd., in an interview yesterday in Dublin, said that the stoppage made little difference in the "sweep" arrangements.

"On the back of every ticket," he said, "it is stated that a person may purchase tickets through a bank or a private individual. This can be done by those desiring to get tickets. The actual refusal of the postal authorities to forward sweepstake letters is not a matter of deep concern."

POSITION IN BELFAST.

SOME LETTERS HELD UP.

From Our Correspondent.

BELFAST, Monday.

Many thousands of Dublin Hospital Sweepstake tickets have been purchased in Belfast and the North of Ireland, and the announcement that the General Post Office authorities in London have decided to hold up all letters addressed to the promoters of the "sweep" has come as a surprise.

From inquiries which I made to-day at the General Post Office, Belfast, it appears that no special instructions have been issued in connection with the sweepstake, but that the matter is being dealt with under the usual regulations against the use of the Post Office for lotteries and sweepstakes.

FEW LETTERS RETURNED.

I understand that while many thousands of tickets have passed through the post, a number have been held up under this general regulation, which applies to the whole British Post Office. The regulations in regard to lotteries were made applicable to the Northern Ireland Post Office several years ago by warrant of the Governor, as the Northern Post Office is still a reserved service, and connected with the British postal service.

When asked how many letters in connection with the Dublin "sweep" had been held up, an official would not give any information, but it was obvious that only a very small proportion of the total amount of tickets which have been sent through the post have been returned.

When asked: "What will you do with such letters in future?" the official replied that this was a matter for the Northern Home Office, to whom all such difficulties are referred.

HOME OFFICE STATEMENT.

When I inquired at the Northern Home Office I was informed that no special instructions had been issued to the postal authorities who were dealing with the matter under the ordinary regulations, which were adopted principally in connection with foreign lotteries. Many hundreds of letters concerning lotteries and money prizes backed by the Danish and Spanish Governments pass through the post every year, and I understand that all letters of the kind containing money are returned to the senders.

While the official would not admit that any communication had passed between the postal authorities and the Home Office in regard to the Dublin "sweep," he indicated that probably a similar course would be adopted in regard to any letters which were held up by the postal authorities in Belfast.

THE PURCHASE OF TICKETS.

"It is illegal to promote sweepstakes or to use the post for the sale of sweepstake tickets in Northern Ireland," he declared, "but so far as I am aware there is no law to prevent a person from buying a sweepstake ticket if he can obtain one. That exactly is what has happened in this case. Many people have been able to buy tickets. On the other hand, some letters have been stopped in the post under the general regulations, and in those cases, I presume, the letters and other contents will be returned to the senders.

"It is not legal," he added, "to organise a ballot or sweepstake, even on behalf of the hospitals in Belfast," and he pointed out that about a year ago a ballot of the kind was organised, but owing to the intervention of the police authorities the ballot was stopped and the money returned to the subscribers.

A "SWEEP" WINNER.

"Would anything happen if a Northern Ireland man or woman were lucky enough to win one of the prizes in the Dublin Sweepstake?"

"I sincerely hope that nothing will happen in that case; for as a matter of fact many civil servants have purchased tickets in this particular 'sweep,'" was the reply.

He added that he was not aware that

RE-ORGANISING INDUSTRY.

PRIME MINISTER'S DECISION.

CHIEF ADVISER APPOINTED.

The following statement was issued from 10 Downing street last night:—"The Prime Minister has had under renewed consideration the extent to which the efforts being made in the country to develop and re-organise industry, both for production and marketing, might be further assisted by more active co-operation on the part of His Majesty's Government. It has been decided that the work initiated by Mr. J. H. Thomas, as Lord Privy Seal, should be continued and intensified under the direction of the President of the Board of Trade.

"Sir Horace Wilson, K.C.B., Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Labour, has been appointed Chief Industrial Adviser to His Majesty's Government in order that he may devote the whole of his time to this work. The office of which he will be in charge will work side by side with the Board of Trade, under the direction of the President, and will be closely associated with the Industries and Manufacturers Department of the Board of Trade, the Department of Overseas Trade, and the Employment and Training Department of the Ministry of Labour, and also with the Board of Trade Advisory Council and the Overseas Trade Development Council.

"The address of the office of the Chief Industrial Adviser is Treasury Chambers, Whitehall, London, S.W. 1.

"The Minister of Labour, with the approval of the Prime Minister, has appointed Sir Francis Floud, K.C.B., at present Chairman of the Board of Customs and Excise, to be Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Labour, in succession to Sir Horace Wilson.

"The King has approved the appointment of Mr. P. J. Grigg, an assistant secretary in H.M. Treasury, to be Chairman of the Board of Customs and Excise."

TRADE DISPUTES.

Sir Horace Wilson is best known to the public for his work as Permanent Secretary to the Ministry of Labour in the settlement of trade disputes. In the cotton stoppage of August, 1929, he succeeded in bringing the two parties together, and ending the deadlock after the strike had been in progress for three weeks.

Twenty-seven years ago he began his work at the Board of Trade at the modest salary of £80 a year. He now receives £3,000 a year. Sir George Askwith, now Lord Askwith, first discovered his skill in dealing with strikes, and when the Ministry of Labour was formed in 1916 Lord Askwith advised Mr. John Hodges, the first Minister of the Department, to use Mr. Wilson as one of his principal advisers.

SCOPE OF THE SCHEME.

The following authoritative statement on the scope of the Government's new scheme was made to a reporter last night:—"The new appointments are a recognition by the Government of the importance of co-operation between the departments concerned in the work of reorganising industry. Mr. Thomas initiated this work when he co-ordinated the efforts which were being made. The Prime Minister has now set up permanent machinery for this purpose. Each department will still make its individual contribution, but the work of co-ordinating the efforts made will be simplified."

The Press Association says:—Explanations of the official announcement given in authoritative quarters indicate that it would be a mistake to suppose that Mr. Graham, President of the Board of Trade, is to take over all the duties formerly discharged by Mr. J. H. Thomas as Minister of Unemployment. Nothing of this kind is in contemplation. The task assigned to Mr. Graham and his department is much more circumscribed. He is to assume responsibility, so far as the Government is concerned, for the reorganisation of particular industries, such as cotton, iron and steel, and certain minor industries. Mr. Graham has already been active in relation to the troubles of the cotton industry, and in the course of the next few days he will again visit Manchester in the hope of being able to help the cotton industry. It is to promote governmental action of this kind that the new machinery is being created. Mr. Graham will have no general responsibility for unemployment, but he will be in charge of special administrative efforts directed towards the reorganisation of particular industries.

INCOME TAX FRAUDS.

£1,050,000 ACCEPTED IN SETTLEMENT.

Sir Ernest Gowers, Chairman of the Board of Inland Revenue, giving evidence before the Select Committee of Public Accounts early this year—the report of which was published yesterday—referred to two cases of "deliberate fraud" regarding income tax.

In the first case the amount of income which had escaped assessment was £857,000, and the duty owing was £384,000. This was settled for £550,000 as duty and penalties. In the second case the fraud amounted to £536,000 of income omitted to be returned, and the liability was £381,000. The sum accepted in settlement was £500,000.

anything ever happened to any person in Great Britain or Ireland who had won either the Calcutta Sweepstake or any other of the large "sweeps" on the Derby.

STATEMENT IN THE COMMONS.

NO ISSUE OF PREMIUM BONDS.

Sir William Davison (Conservative, Kensington), in the House of Commons yesterday, asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether his attention has been called to the sums of money which are leaving England for investment in the Irish Free State Sweepstake, and whether he has in contemplation the issue of premium bonds, or any other similar device to secure the retention of such moneys in England.

Mr. Pethick Lawrence (Financial Secretary to the Treasury)—The answer to both parts of the question is in the negative.

Sir William Davison—Is the hon. gentleman not aware that hundreds of thousands of pounds—(an Hon. Member: "Millions")—are leaving this country for the Irish Free State, and that a much larger sweepstake is in contemplation, and will he not do something in the way of meeting the sporting instincts of the country by means of premium bonds, or some other device which will form both an investment and a lottery?

Mr. Pethick-Lawrence—The answer I have given on behalf of my right hon. friend deals with both these points.

THE MOTOR CYCLE SHOW.

MEDIUM - POWERED MACHINES.

HISTORIC EXHIBITS.

From Our Correspondent.

LONDON, Monday.

Every one of the 308 stands at the Motor Cycle Show which opened to-day at Olympia contains something of interest in the form of a new model or a definite improvement upon a machine formerly produced.

The exhibition includes the actual machine upon which Mr. J. S. Wright beat the world's "record" with a speed of over 150 miles per hour in the Irish Free State last week, and thereby wrested the "record" from Germany. This notable achievement has regained for Britain a laurel in the motor cycling world that has been held for many years, with the exception of brief periods.

Tendencies in the matter of design of the past few years have been developed further, so that frames are lower and inclined to slope to a more acute angle, and stream-lining has been carried on a stage, so that all possible surfaces presented to the wind are shaped instead of being flat. Beauty of outline is not the only result attained by these improvements, for the machines become faster by presenting less surface to the direction of travel and safer by having a lower centre of gravity.

THE BACKBONE.

Mechanical changes are of a sweeping character, and some of the new models are of such a character as to make the Show of 1930 stand out as a noteworthy event. The three and a-half horse-power machine of pre-war years was the backbone of motor cycling, not only in Britain and in Europe, but throughout the world. British manufacturers excelled in that type of machine, which had a world-wide reputation when certain other countries were making either larger or smaller machines. Results have proved that British makers were right; for though they produce excellent large and small machines, the popularity of the medium-powered models has not diminished to the slightest extent.

The medium-powered category includes singles and twins of 350 c.c. to about 500 c.c., and for every-day use, where reliability and economy of operation are the prime requisites, consists of a single or twin-engined machine with side-by-side valves.

As a solo mount or with a sidecar it is equally efficient, but where an extra touch of speed is required overhead valves are specified, for in most cases valves of this type are associated with machines designed for speed.

OTHER CLASSES.

The smaller class consists of two-strokes of 150 c.c., 200 c.c. and 250 c.c. or over. Speed is not the main consideration where two-strokes are concerned, but on account of their few working parts they are wonderfully reliable and are thoroughly useful mounts. The lower-weight four-strokes range up to 250 c.c., and for all-round usefulness they are only eclipsed by the medium-powered division ranging from 350 c.c. upwards.

The class above the medium consists of anything on three wheels ranging up to a ten horse-power vehicle, and includes large combinations, powerful solo machines and the four-cylindered motor cycles.

Machines with four cylinders are by no means new. They were quite extensively in use twenty years ago, while the collection of historic machines now at Olympia includes a four-cylindered model thirty-three years old. No machines previously produced bear comparison with the "fours" now exhibited. One specification includes "V" four-cylinder engine, bore 50.8 mm., stroke 73 mm., total capacity 597 mm., cylinders cast en bloc, bevel-driven overhead camshaft operating eight valves, four-speed gear-box, detachable cylinder heads, and induction passages so arranged that the mixture has an equal distance to travel to each cylinder.

The importance of the last-mentioned feature will be realised by all who have had previous experience with engines of this type; for it provides a remedy to the trouble caused by inequality of distribution of the mixture to the cylinders whereby the even torque which should be associated with four cylinders was not felt to its full extent.

IMPROVED SUSPENSION.

Most models provide improved suspension and means to adjust the degree of play of the front fork springs, and easy starting has been ensured by several means. Several contain more pressed steel than formerly, and a German production at Olympia has pressed steel, which gives it a somewhat unconventional appearance. On other machines pressed steel is used either in the frame or for the purpose of providing shields to protect the mechanism.

The 1931 machines present a more colourful appearance than before, and in this respect they follow the lead provided by the exhibits at the Car Show. Ivory, green and buff are seen frequently, and two-colour schemes embodying light and dark shades are very effective.

FROM 1894.

The section of Olympia devoted to a display of historic machines illustrating the development of the motor cycle from the earliest days dates back to 1894. A machine produced in that year has a two-cylinder water-cooled engine placed horizontally in the frame, with connecting rods attached directly to the back axle. A somewhat similar machine, dated 1897, has a four-cylinder air-cooled engine, while a distinct novelty is provided by a steam motor cycle, believed to date back to 1895. It is of French origin, and has a coke-fired boiler. A machine dated 1902 has the engine in much the same position as in present-day models, and it has detachable cylinder head, but it would compare very badly with the power output of a modern unit, as the inlet valve is of the automatic description.

Other exhibits reveal the gradual development of design down to 1922, and show the introduction of the spray carburetter, magneto ignition and the mechanically-operated inlet valve.

Mr. Gillett, who opened the exhibition, in the absence of Mr. J. H. Thomas, who was detained on Imperial Conference duties, said that the older generation of cyclists were apt to look down on the younger generation, who needed a motor to propel them along. "Motor cycling," he added, "probably inflicts a certain amount of suffering and worry on the fathers and mothers of the young men who ride motor cycles. I remember that one of my sons arrived home with a suspicious bandage around his head. He assured me that he was not going fast. His brother, who was riding behind, said that his speedometer registered fifty. Probably we older folks look at these matters differently from these younger people."

Referring to the British motor cycle trade, Mr. Gillett said that he understood the latest export figures were not so good as those of recent years, but both our competitors and ourselves were suffering in the same way. Up to 1929 exports had steadily increased, and he was confident that the drop was temporary and that there would be a steady improvement.

INVALIDS.

The following reports on the condition of those named were received late last night:—

Viscount Bridport—Good day.
Hon. Meriel Lyttelton—No change.
Lord Southampton—Comfortable.
Dean of Chester—Progressing satisfactorily.
Dean of Rochester—Condition satisfactory.

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

ARMISTICE DAY.

FROM PAST TO FUTURE.

The Times to-day observes in a leading article:—The dawn of this, the twelfth anniversary of the Day of Armistice, will be all the clearer for the two small clouds of doubt which have gone before it. The recent proposal of the present Government, that official visitors from abroad should no longer be expected to pay formal homage at the Cenotaph or the tomb of the Unknown Warrior, has been interpreted in some minds as a piece of sanctimonious impertinence and a deliberate attempt to forget the dead. Even had it been so in intention—and it is better to take a more charitable view—the result would still have been to purify with the clear air of sincerity all such observances as shall be paid in future by our friends from foreign countries. Henceforth no true mourner need fear that his sorrow and his pride are being aped by lay figures of international etiquette.

The other cloud is that to which the Bishop of Durham has lately pointed. There are some who fear less the form of the celebration should outlive the spirit, either that Armistice Day should fall into general neglect and be kept up in appearance only or that it should be degraded into a public show, attended only through curiosity by those who neither knew nor cared what was its origin and whom it honoured. Better a thousand times a swift ending than such contamination as that, and from end to end of the Empire not an honest heart but would rather have to keep the day in secret than join in a merely formal or an idly curious observance. But at present it is happily certain that neither danger is more than a fancy, a scrupulous anxiety.

THE PUBLIC MEMORY.

There is assuredly no sign yet, adds The Times, that the people is losing its love for its dead nor its memory of what they did for England and for the world. Yet the time must come when those who remember have all passed away, when the tradition and the honour of the glorious dead will lie in the hands of those who never knew. If the effect of the sacrifice was but temporary, if that for which they died has been lost or betrayed or frittered away, then, indeed, it will be well to stop commemorating them, for truth's sake and for very shame. But Armistice Day itself might be made a means of preventing any such disgrace. Now is the moment, pointed out as if by design, for giving to Armistice Day a character and a meaning which no time can wither, no custom stale, no change efface.

To-day, probably the one occasion in its history, the ceremony at the Cenotaph will be attended, not only by the members of the Imperial Conference, which is nearing its close, but by the ruling Princes and other delegates to the Round Table Conference, which is to be opened by the King-Emperor to-morrow. Both these groups will look with a noble sorrow and a just pride upon the Cenotaph, which is the memorial of their dead as much as it is of ours. Indeed, it was chiefly through her service to freedom and to civilisation in the War that India claimed, and was accorded, that advance in self-government ten years ago which led the way by successive stages to the coming Conference. Both these assemblies are called together to take counsel for the future.

THE FUTURE.

It is a future founded upon common experience, among which the War was the fiercest of all furnaces for the forging of links. It is a future which closely concerns every man, woman and child in the Empire; and there could be no fitter day than this Armistice Day, no fitter moment than the two minutes' silence, for carrying thoughts and prayers forward from the past to the future, and for forming, each and all, a resolution that the future shall be worthy, and more than worthy, of all that was noblest in the past.

DEATH OF MR. C. J. B. MACDONALD.

The Times announces with deep regret that Mr. C. J. B. MacDonald, for many years its agricultural correspondent, died suddenly early yesterday morning at Cheddington, Bucks., in his sixty-seventh year. In the course of an obituary notice The Times says:—For a good many years past Mr. MacDonald's professional position, and still more his ability and personal qualities, had given him the highest place among agricultural journalists. He was indeed a kind of doyen in that branch of his profession, and his death will be regretted in every part of the country, and by many in the Dominions and in America.

FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE.

OUTBREAK IN YORKSHIRE.

The Department of Agriculture in Dublin were officially informed by the British Ministry of Agriculture, London, last night, that an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease had been confirmed at Lockwood, Huddersfield, Yorkshire.

The Ministry have taken the usual precautions to prevent the spread of the disease, and have issued an Order, with immediate effect, prohibiting the movement of animals over a large area surrounding the infected place.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN THE FREE STATE.

FIANNA FAIL MEMBER'S QUESTION.

Mr. Sean Lemass (Fianna Fail, Dublin City, South) will ask the Free State Minister for Industry and Commerce when the Dail assembles to-morrow week if the Government proposes to publish at an early date the numbers of unemployed in the Free State as revealed by the 1926 census.

In answer to a question put by Mr. Lemass some months ago, the Minister said that he proposed to publish these figures in a Census volume dealing with other subjects.

BELFAST HORSE WINS AGAIN.

FINE PERFORMANCE AT NEW YORK SHOW.

Special Telegram.

NEW YORK, Monday.

Horse-lovers seated in the great Madison Square Garden this afternoon were keenly interested in the beautiful English pony Ranger, owned by Mrs. A. C. King, which made its début at the National Horse Show here. Competing in single harness in the ponies event against a strong field, the British horse captured the red ribbon (second place), and just failed to beat King of the Plain (owned by Mr. John R. Thompson, of Chicago), which secured first prize.

Roxanna, the pride of the Warwick stable, gave a perfect exhibition, defeating a large field in leisurely fashion. Ridden by John McConnell (13.8 stone), the manager and chief rider of the Warwick stable, the giant horse cleared the bars faultlessly the first time round the course, tieing with Harrisburger, owned by Mr. Ray Shoemaker, of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Taking off again, Roxanna again put up a leisurely performance, but jumped well enough to defeat Harrisburger, who proved over-bold at the fourth fence.

PRIVY COUNCIL APPEALS.

MR. McGILLIGAN'S FAILURE.

TEST CASE PROBABLE.

THE PROBLEM OF NATIONALITY.

By Our Special Correspondent.

LONDON, Monday.

I am informed to-night on excellent authority that the Imperial Conference will make no recommendation of any sort in respect of Privy Council appeals. The mountain has been in travail, but it has not produced even a ridiculous mouse. A completely preposterous situation has been created.

In order to make it clear, even at the risk of boring my readers, I shall have to recapitulate. The Imperial Conference of 1926 declared that it was no part of the policy of His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom to regulate the question of Privy Council appeals otherwise than in accordance with the wishes of the inhabitants of every individual Dominion. In other words, it said to the Dominions: "If you want Privy Council appeals, you can have them; if you do not want them, you can get rid of them when you choose." So far, so good. It so happened that the only Dominion that desired to take advantage of this concession was the Irish Free State, but, by general agreement, it was arranged that nothing should be done until the next Conference.

What happened in the meanwhile is notorious. Free State citizens have exercised their right to appeal, but have been "double crossed" by the Government, which has discovered that it always can make a Supreme Court decision final by a special Act of the Oireachtas. It may not be exactly cricket, but then cricket is a foreign game. At the present Conference Mr. McGilligan has tried very hard to secure some kind of formal declaration enabling the Free State finally to prevent any citizen from petitioning for leave to appeal, or, in short, enabling the Free State Government to expunge Article 66 from the Constitution, but he has failed.

The Sankey Committee decided that the matter was beyond its powers; so it handed it over to the heads of delegations, who now, I believe, have come to a like conclusion. At any rate, nothing will be done.

ANGLO-IRISH TREATY INVOLVED.

Article two of the Anglo-Irish Treaty reads as follows:—"Subject to the provisions hereinafter set out, the position of the Irish Free State in relation to the Imperial Parliament and Government and otherwise shall be that of the Dominion of Canada, and the law, practice and constitutional usage governing the relationship of the Crown, of the representative of the Crown and of the Imperial Parliament to the Dominion of Canada shall govern their relationship to the Irish Free State."

That seems to be clear enough. At the date when the Treaty became law—and still to-day, for that matter—the right of appeal to the Privy Council was part of the "law, practice and constitutional usage" of the Dominion of Canada. Therefore, by virtue of the Treaty, apart altogether from the Free State Constitution, that right is preserved to the citizen of Saorstat Eireann.

This is the problem with which the Imperial Conference found itself faced, and it has decided to do nothing about it. The position remains precisely what it was. The Free State citizen still has the right to appeal to the King in Council, but Mr. McGilligan has made it quite clear both to the Sankey Committee and to the heads of delegations that his Government will continue to resort to ex post facto legislation in order to thwart the petitions of appellants.

A TEST CASE.

What probably will happen is that the Free State Government will bring a test case one of these days, and will demand that Article 2 of the Treaty shall be interpreted by an outside tribunal. Bound by the optional clause of the general Act, the Free State Government, which refused to make any reservations when Mr. McGilligan appended his signature in Geneva last year, must take the matter to The Hague. Likewise, the British Government, which has expressly reserved inter-Commonwealth disputes from international arbitrament, must refuse to go to The Hague, and probably will suggest the new Empire Tribunal. In the meanwhile Article 2 of the Treaty remains, Article 66 of the Constitution remains, but any Free State citizen who decides to exercise his rights under either or both of them will have Messrs. Blythe and McGilligan to reckon with.

SOMETHING ATTEMPTED.

On the only constitutional matter that really means something the Imperial Conference is about to enter a complete admission of failure, but in other respects it has done, or, rather, is about to do, something. The following communique was issued this evening:—"The heads of delegations met this afternoon at No. 10 Downing street at 2.15 o'clock. Their final consideration of certain constitutional aspects of inter-imperial relations was continued and completed. Various reports from committees and subcommittees were received and dealt with."

So the constitutional aspects have been brought to an end, and, strange as it may seem, certain decisions have been taken. Of course until the plenary Conference approves of them nothing will be final, but one may suggest some of the lines on which agreement is likely to be reached.

One of the most important deals with the problem of nationality. The report of the Conference on the operation of Dominions legislation—the famous O.D.L. Report—established the fact that the various nations of the Commonwealth were faced with a position in which it was desirable that theory should be brought into line with practice. There were seven member States of the Commonwealth whose citizens had a kind of dual nationality. They were citizens of their individual States, some of which already had defined their own nationals, and at the same time they enjoyed a common status by virtue of the fact that they all were British subjects.

In 1914 the British Government passed an Act defining British citizenship, and this Act applied to the Dominions, and in some cases discrepancies were discovered. For instance, certain persons who automatically became Free State citizens in 1922 did not possess the necessary qualifications for British subjects as laid down in the Act of 1914. In order to regularise the position the Imperial Conference now will recommend that Articles 73 to 78 of the O.D.L. report shall be adopted generally.

Furthermore, it will recommend that if any changes are desired in the existing requirements of the common status of British subjects, whether they be Australians, Free Staters or merely Britons, such changes may be made only after consultation and agreement between all the members of the Commonwealth.

The Conference will recognise the right of every Dominion to define its own nationals, but it will recommend that the common status of all British subjects shall be maintained. For example, it would be highly undesirable that a foreigner could become naturalised in one Dominion more rapidly than in another or in Great Britain. What probably will happen is that the minimum requirements of the common status will be identical throughout the Commonwealth. In a word, we shall all be British subjects.

In regard to the nationality of married women also, the Conference will make certain recommendations. At present a British woman loses her nationality when she marries a foreigner, and there are cases in which she is unable to acquire her husband's nationality for some time. There is, therefore, a hiatus during which a married woman has no nationality. She is what the Germans term heimatlos, and is unable to get any kind of passport. This problem has been considered already at the Hague, and certain recommendations have been made, which are likely to be endorsed at the Imperial Conference.

What the new system will amount to, roughly, is this. If a British woman marries a foreigner she will retain her British nationality until she acquires that of her husband. Furthermore, if her husband should change his nationality during marriage, the wife will have the option of retaining her original status.

The women's associations were extremely anxious to obtain further concessions. For instance, they contended that a woman's nationality should not follow that of her husband in any circumstances without her consent, but the Imperial Conference has not yet become sufficiently feminist in its outlook to grant this demand, and for the present the women must be content with the recommendations formulated at the Hague.

The O.D.L. report will be approved by the Conference in all its essentials; the Colonial Laws Validity Act will be repealed as soon as the Canadian provinces make up their minds about it, and when Australia has had an opportunity to ratify the report. The rights of disallowance and reservation will go by the board. Nothing, however, will be done until resolutions of both Houses of all the Dominions' Parliaments reach London requesting the British Government to introduce the necessary legislation. It is hoped that these resolutions will be ready by July or August of next year, in which event the new legislation will take effect as from December 1st, 1931.

SUCCESSION TO THE THRONE.

The only other matter of importance, which also is contained in the O.D.L. report, is the question of the succession to the Throne and the Royal style and titles. The Conference will recommend that no change should be made in respect of either without the consent of all the members of the Commonwealth Put briefly, what this decision means is that Great Britain cannot declare a Republic in London without the consent of every Dominion, including the Irish Free State, and that the King will remain His Britannic Majesty. When Mr. Shaw wrote "Back to Methuselah" he seems to have been a prophet after all.

We may say farewell to constitutional problems. The net result of all the talk and fuss of the last six weeks is very trifling. The whole thing, one feels, might have been done by a couple of Foreign Office clerks, but the old Empire will muddle through somehow.

The next item on the agenda is the Graham reports. Will Messrs. Bennett and Scullin return to their Dominions bringing their sheaves back with them, or will they get their quota, Quien sabe? Canada may be offered a wheat quota, but I gather that it will not be what Mr. Bennett would like it to be. It almost certainly will be based on world prices. Now Russia is the country that will be the determining factor in wheat prices within a few years. The Bolsheviks are increasing their number of motor tractors rapidly—getting a fair proportion from Cork—and they hope to have a quarter of a million of these machines in the next three or four years. With a sufficient number of tractors, the Russians can increase their wheat output almost indefinitely. So poor Mr. Bennett may find that his quota will give him a very small advantage, if Canada's exporters are forced to accept Russian prices. However, we shall see

Mr. J. H. Thomas has told the world that some economic results will be achieved at the Conference, and he ought to know. Let us hope that they will be more imposing than the constitutional results. They could not be much less.

THE GLORIOUS DEAD.

snatch victory from the jaws of defeat, the name of a great Irish soldier stands out. I refer to Sir Hubert Gough. His part in the events of those days has been the subject of much controversy, but in France we have a surer perspective than seems to be that of some of the critics, and we like to think of your Irish soldier as the man who did his best to achieve an impossible task, and, even though by the superficial standards the result may be rated a failure, we feel that it was one of those failures that are sometimes more glorious than a dazzling success.

"There is little doubt that the toll that Gough and his fighting Fifth Army took of the Germans had its effect in bleeding them white, and breaking for ever the power of the German Army in offensive or even in defence."

THE LION OF ARGONNE.

General Gouraud, "the lion of the Argonne," who is now Military Governor of Paris, after commanding the French on Gallipoli, where he lost an arm, and taking a brilliant part in the final operations, said:—"I have before now spoken of the glory of the deathless Dublins in the Gallipoli campaign, but on this occasion I want to go further, and pay my tribute, both personally and on behalf of the French Army and people, to the men of Ireland who made the great sacrifice for the common cause.

"The French villagers who lived through those days with your Irish soldiers, and saw them fight stubbornly every inch of ground, have learned to know the merits of your men, and I know they are with me to-day in the tribute I pay in their name to your Irish heroes. The whole French nation hopes that the Irish people will never cease to honour the men who died so nobly on all the fronts, and we are with you in spirit to-day in paying tribute at your shrines in Ireland, just as we shall be present in the flesh to pay tribute to your heroes, along with our own, in the France we love, the France they gave their lives to save from German domination."

FIANNA FAIL PARTY.

THE EXPULSION OF A MEMBER.

Although Mr. Thomas Mullins, Fianna Fail member of the Dail for West Cork, has been expelled from the party, it is understood that he will continue to sit in the Dail, presumably as an independent member.

Mr. Mullins ceased to be a member of the Fianna Fail Party after the passing of the following resolution at a party meeting on October 28:—

"That Deputy Thomas Mullins be expelled from the party because of his neglect of his duties and unsatisfactory conduct as a public representative."

MINISTERS AT THE GUILDHALL.

LORD MAYOR'S BANQUET.

PREMIER ON IMPERIAL PROBLEMS.

The presence of the Dominion Prime Ministers gave unusual interest to the Lord Mayor's banquet last night in the Guildhall, London, and they received a particularly cordial greeting.

Mr. Arthur Henderson, in proposing the toast of Foreign Ambassadors and Ministers, said:—It would be of no interest if I were to detail to you all the conversations that have taken place between the Soviet Ambassador and myself — (laughter)—nor would it be of any advantage if I were to stand between you and the remaining speakers to reveal all that has passed in the conversations that have taken place between the French and Italian Governments on naval matters. (Laughter.) Moreover, I notice that, according to the Press, the days of our Government have been counted and numbered. Most of you would be interested were I to tell you exactly when the end will come. However, I do not propose to add to the gaiety of nations by entering on this particular, or revealing to you either diplomatic or Cabinet secrets. (Laughter and cheers.)

The Spanish Ambassador, in replying, said that on all sides rost the bitter wail of complaint. Let them not forget the constant lesson of the great Victorian age, of the silver lining to every cloud.

PREMIER AND EMPIRE.

The Lord Mayor proposed "His Majesty's Ministers."

The Prime Minister (Mr. Ramsay Macdonald), responding, said that the constitution of our Empire, the relations between the various parts, must change as time goes on, and it is proof of our signal success that round about us gather to-night not the heads of Colonies, not the heads of subordinate Dominions, but men, like ourselves, who demand the responsibility, and the recognition of that responsibility, of independence.

Turning to the Imperial Conference, he said: Among other objects discussed at the Conference, we have been considering what are the functions, or what may be the functions, of our Ambassadors in foreign States. We have been planning stability, based upon mutual confidence and trust. Much of our time has been taken up in devising ways of mutual helpfulness in the sphere of industry and markets. The markets are the goal, and my trouble has been to see to it that Mr. Bennett and Mr. Forbes do not run away with too much of the "swag." (Laughter.) The subject is beset with a very clearly fixed limit, but I am hopeful.

We have settled down to this business, not in propaganda phrases, but in the frame of mind of hard-headed business men, to see that inter-Imperial agreements are good for us, and that inter-Imperial agreements may be of mutual helpfulness, and may extend all over the Empire, and strengthen us in the struggle we have to engage in for the economic and spiritual existence of this great community of nations.

Referring to the Round-Table Conference, the Prime Minister said:—With the Indian representatives, and with their Princes, we shall be engaged in the same task of broadening liberty, so that we may live with them under the same Crown, they enjoying the freedom in self-government which is essential for national self-respect and contentment.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

Discussing foreign affairs, Mr. Macdonald said that while the world has been going through great upheavals His Majesty's Government has been doing everything it can, with a gentle, leading hand, to establish tranquillity where hitherto tranquillity had not been. . . . It has advanced itself a positive policy of peace and settlement, based on negotiation and confidence.

In a reference to Geneva, he said the old Adam is still rampant. This country, while perfectly prepared to lead the way, looks behind at the same time that it looks before it, and wants to know what other nations are following it, because it cannot allow itself to be isolated in the risks that it is taking to secure peace.

UNEMPLOYMENT.

Of the problem of unemployment, he said—It is not a local affair, or a Government affair; it is not a tariff policy. The causes that have brought about the present state of industrial distress are independent of Governments, independent of tariff policies. A vast improvement in our marketing, to bring producer and consumer together, must be undertaken, and the Dominions, by agreement with us which embodies an advantage to both, must join hands with us to lay economic foundations worthy of the spiritual inheritance which is ours in common. (Cheers.) It is a heavy task, and cannot be done by witches and wizards and jerry-builders. That must enlist the co-operation of the most practical intelligence and business experience of the nation. Its result must be studied, as well as its immediate appearances. His Majesty's Government makes that appeal to the whole nation.

Mr. Tom Shaw, Minister for War, also responded.

THE IMPERIAL PROBLEM.

The Lord Chancellor (Lord Sankey) responded to the toast of "The Lord High Chancellor, His Majesty's Judges, and the Bar of England." He referred to certain constitutional questions which have been engaging the attention of the Imperial Conference in the past few weeks. At the Conference in 1926, he said, the late Lord Balfour made his famous declaration, that the self-governing communities composing Great Britain and the Dominions are autonomous communities within the British Empire, equal in status, and in no way subordinate one to another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs, though united by a common allegiance to the Crown and freely associated as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations. There is no desire and no intention to alter a single word in it, or a single implication to be derived from it.

Our present problem has been to translate these general phrases into concrete practice and to harmonise equality of status with unity of Empire. In my view, we ought not to attempt to crystallise our relationship in too many formal documents. We are free and independent units, knit together by mutual co-operation and mutual desire to help one another; but while we claim freedom for ourselves, we must not forget to allow others to enjoy a similar freedom. Even if, therefore, there may be some of the Dominions who, as a result of the 1926 declaration, are of opinion that past methods want altering, we ought not to compel those who are content with such methods to accept a change.

It is too much the fashion to-day to regard our forefathers as fools. The more you study some matters the less likely you are to hold such an opinion. We must strive for unity of purpose within the Empire, but not necessarily for uniformity as the means by which unity is to be achieved. In the light of experience, future Conferences will be able to make the necessary adjustments. We should guard against the dangerous ambition of wishing to regulate and foresee everything; for the wants of society are so varied that it is impossible for the legislator to provide for every case and for every emergency.

EXCOMMUNICATION OF AUTHOR-PRIEST.

ALL HIS WORKS PLACED ON THE INDEX.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
VATICAN CITY, Monday.

The Osservatore Romano, the official Vatican organ, to-day dedicates three columns of its front page to the announcement of the excommunication of the French priest, Joseph Turmel, of Rheims, all of whose books have been put on the Index.

As long ago as 1892 Turmel was deprived of his professorial chair at the local university by the Archbishop of Rheims for stating that he did not believe in the presence of Christ in the Eucharist. After various admonitions and attempts to prove his culpability as the author of many atheist books, which Turmel always denied, it was eventually proved that he used twelve pseudonyms for the purpose of writing heretical treatises.

Two of his books have been published in Great Britain—one in London, "The Life of the Devil," by "Louis Coulange," and the other in Edinburgh, "The Latin Church in the Middle Ages," by "Andrée Lagarde."

THE AUSTRALIAN EXCHEQUER.

BIG REDUCTIONS IN TWO OVERDRAFTS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
SYDNEY, Monday.

The Federal Government's balance sheet for the last four months shows revenue £19,546,000 and expenditure £25,446,000—a deficiency of £5,900,000 as compared with £6,747,000 up to September 30th. The actual improvement is only £5,000, the balance of £842,000 consisting of receipts of interest on loans to the States and from the soldiers' settlements.

It is noteworthy that the London bank overdraft was reduced in October by £300,000 and the Australian bank overdraft by £451,000.

New South Wales revenue for the past four months amounts to £12,059,000, a decrease of £1,630,000 as compared with last year. Expenditure amounted to £17,365,000, a decrease of £746,000 compared with last year.

HUGE LOSS ON RAILWAYS.

The report of the Commonwealth Railway Commissioner shows an aggregate loss for the past five years on the Commonwealth State Railways of £31,488,000.

For the year ended June 30th the revenue was £45,853,000, working expenses £38,321,000, and interest £16,024,000.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
CANBERRA, Monday.

Mr. Lang, Premier of New South Wales, has arrived for the Loan Council meeting.

It was learned that he will tell the Council that New South Wales will withdraw from it and raise money independently.

AUSTRALIAN CRISIS.

GOVERNMENT STANDS FIRM.

Ordered by the Labour caucus—the party meeting of its supporters in Parliament—to suspend for twelve months the payment of debts falling due this year in Australia, the Federal Government have refused to obey, and have announced that they will proceed with the conversion plans already outlined by Mr. Lyons, who is acting as Federal Treasurer in Mr. Scullin's absence, remarks The Times to-day editorially. Mr. Fenton, the acting Prime Minister, in announcing this decision reiterated the declaration that "the Government, the Parliament and the people will never repudiate their just liabilities, either at home or abroad."

Developments in Canberra during the next few days will be followed with anxiety by all Australians and by all friends of Australia. There are some who think the crisis will result in a split in the Labour Party even more disastrous than that over the Conscription issue during the war, which for more than ten years reduced Labour to political impotence in the Commonwealth. The Cabinet—with a couple of dissentients, it is true—have taken a firm stand, and the militant majority in the party must either accept it or precipitate a party smash.

GOVERNMENT'S RESOLUTION.

Mr. Fenton has made it quite plain that the Government will not resign on any vote of the caucus. They can only be forced out of office by a vote on the floor of the House, where, as a matter of fact, the Moderates and the Opposition—who firmly support them on this issue—have a substantial majority over the extremists; but it is by no means certain that the quarrel will be pushed so far. Indeed, it is unlikely that the militants would have gone so far as they have if the Government had acted from the beginning with the firmness and the decision which they are now displaying. They postponed the production of their financial programme until after the New South Wales elections, for what to them seemed, no doubt, overwhelming reasons of political tactics, and when the result of those elections stimulated and emboldened the militants, they accepted amendments in that programme, which made it impossible for them to balance the Budget, and thus to honour their agreement with the State Premiers.

Their position was very difficult, especially in view of the authority which the caucus is accustomed to exercise over Labour Governments and Labour members. The caucus not merely elects the leader of the party. When the party is in power and the leader is called upon to form a Government, it is the caucus which chooses his colleagues for him, and his only privilege is to allot the different offices among them. The caucus also lays down the policy and programme of the party, and decides how Labour members must vote on particular issues. To vote against such a decision is an unforgivable offence, and—so rigid is the party discipline—is generally equivalent to political suicide.

MR. SCULLIN'S COURAGE.

Only those familiar with the traditions of Australian politics can really appreciate the courage which Mr. Scullin and his colleagues—especially Mr. Lyons—are showing in their own challenge to the authority of the caucus. They would not have taken the bold course upon which they have decided if they were not convinced that the financial crisis makes it a matter of personal honour for them to put principle before party, and the country before the caucus. In such a crisis the bold course is often the safe one. There seems some ground to hope that the caucus, when it meets on Thursday, may reconsider its decision of last week.

But, concludes The Times, however the caucus may vote, the Government have decided that the payment of the £27,000,000 falling due in December shall neither be repudiated nor postponed, but met out of the proceeds of a Conversion Loan to be floated on the Australian Market. It is a courageous decision, but the only one possible for an honest and patriotic Government. It remains now to make sure that the loan is a success. To help to make it a success is a duty that every Australian owes his country in the present crisis. That is the most effective way in which he can support the Government and repudiate the repudiationists.

MR. THOMAS AND THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

"FINDINGS NOT DISAPPOINTING."

Mr. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions, speaking at Derby Mayoral banquet last night, referred to the work of the Imperial Conference, and expressed his conviction that when the findings were announced in a few days they would not prove disappointing.

"Indeed, I am certain that there is not one of the overseas statesmen who has been engaged for seven weeks in battling with great problems who would not publicly proclaim that, so far from the Conference having failed, it has made one more step forward towards a great economic Commonwealth."

They had been trying to put into words a new definition of the British Constitution, the value of which, however, was that it was unwritten and had been moulded by time, custom, experience and usage.

Mr. Thomas also declared that the unemployment problem was due to the world having struck an unprecedented economic blizzard.

"No man in a responsible position will be influenced by panic advice to resort to a temporary panacea that would lead to further disaster."

From the standpoint alike of the investor, the capitalist, the business man and the worker, no country offered more security than Great Britain. He did not think that the nation generally realised the seriousness of the times through which the world was passing.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

CUNARD COMPANY'S AGREEMENT.

CASE FOR ENCOURAGING ATLANTIC TRAFFIC.

INSURANCE SCHEME APPROVED.

FROM OUR PARLIAMENTARY CORRESPONDENT.
WESTMINSTER, Monday.

In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. William Graham, President of the Board of Trade, moved a resolution authorising the Board of Trade to enter into an agreement with the Cunard Steamship Company, Ltd., relating to the insurance of the two large passenger vessels to be built in Great Britain. He said that there had been a considerable falling off in the passenger trade in the Atlantic, but they all hoped that with improved conditions traffic would increase. It was highly essential that the shipping industry in this country should be in a position to take a strong and leading part in the recovery when it came. Other countries had been spending large sums in subsidising shipping, and they had seen what the Bremen and the Europa had achieved as a result.

We ought to take our part in trans-Atlantic traffic, and in connection with the two large ships which the Cunard Company proposed to build, the proposition was a sound economic one. The Government were not giving a subvention, but were confining themselves to finding so much of the insurance as could not be covered by the ordinary market. Each vessel would cost from 4 to 4½ millions, and at the moment it was calculated that the Government would guarantee 2½ millions of the insurance.

The construction of the first of these two ships would be undertaken by John Brown and Company on the Clyde, and he understood that it would afford continuous employment for 3,000 men for at least three years, and would give indirect employment to 1,400 or 1,500 other men for from two to two and a half years.

SOUND ECONOMY.

Sir P. Cunliffe-Lister said he would agree that the use of very large and very fast ships for the Atlantic traffic was a sound economic proposition, and he had no hesitation in approving the resolution.

Mr. Wise suggested that the Government should take advantage of the opportunity provided by the assistance they were giving to make a bargain with the company to reduce the excessively high passenger rates on these mammoth liners, which were quite beyond the means of ordinary business men.

Sir F. Hall said that, although generally he was opposed to Government interference with private enterprise, they were, in this case, to be congratulated upon taking their courage in both hands and deciding to assist in maintaining the prestige of British shipping.

Sir R. Horne remarked that, as a result of the success of the Germans, we had not only lost the Blue Ribbon of the Atlantic, but had lost prestige and passenger traffic. He knew people who, for the first time in their lives, had travelled to America in ships which were not British. He supported the resolution.

Commander Kenworthy expressed the hope that no orders in connection with the building of the new ships would go to Belfast, as Northern Ireland had retained the Trade Facilities Act, by which they gained more orders than were given to shipbuilding firms on this side. That was the only good thing he knew about the Government of Northern Ireland.

Mr. D. D. Reid asked that full particulars of the agreement should be placed before the House. At present they knew very little.

The House agreed to the resolution.

A SCOTTISH LAND BILL.

The next business was the second reading of the Small Landholders and Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Bill, the object of which, as explained by Mr. W. Adamson, was to improve the conditions on which land was held for the purpose of agriculture, and to remove difficulties which had arisen in the administration of previous Acts. The bill, he said, was only a small part of the agricultural programme which the Government intended to carry through during the present session, and whilst it created no revolution it would secure to the small holder additional safeguards against dispossession and would encourage the provision of decent housing accommodation for a deserving, hard-working class.

Sir John Gilmour, a former Secretary for Scotland, said that he quite failed to understand why this bill had been introduced, but it seemed to him quite inocuous, and he did not propose to oppose the second reading.

Mr. Ian Macpherson described the bill as a miserable anæmic measure, which would not place a single additional man on the land. If this was the agricultural policy of the Government the sooner they gave way to better men the more he would be pleased.

The bill was read a second time, and the House adjourned.

COMMUNIST RIOTS IN GERMANY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Monday.

Street demonstrations by Communists to protest against the suppression of their newspaper, the Rote Fahne, lasted all day to-day.

The disturbances were most marked in Buelow square, where the Communist headquarters are situated. Revolver shots were fired at the police, who were also pelted with stones.

After great trouble the police succeeded in clearing Buelow square and the neighbouring streets. Several arrests were made, and a number of policemen received minor injuries.

THE FIFTH LANCERS.

DUBLIN REUNION.

The sixth annual dinner of the 5th Royal Irish Lancers' Old Comrades' Association (Ireland) was held in the Red Bank Restaurant, D'Olier street, Dublin, last night. The President, Brigadier-General R. C. Browne-Clayton, D.S.O., presided, and among those present were:—Major J. D. Barry, Colonel Curell, 8th Hussars; Major J. J. Tynan, D.S.O.; Mr. A. P. Connolly, Chairman, British Legion, Dublin; Mr. H. Reeves, Hon. Secretary, and Mr. A. J. Norris, Chairman of the Association.

The toasts of "The King," "The Royal Family," and "Fallen Comrades" having been duly honoured, Mr. Norris submitted the toast of "The officers of the regiment past and present."

Replying, Brigadier-General Brown Clayton referred to old days in the regiment, and said that it was a great pleasure for him to be there and meet old friends. He thought that a meeting such as that was a splendid means of bringing together former members of the regiment and renewing old friendships.

The health of the regiment was proposed by Major Tynan, who said that the 5th Lancers had always stood out as one of the finest and greatest regiments in the cavalry section of the British Army Services, and they had always upheld the reputation of their country. He thought that it was a great pity that the strength of the cavalry was being reduced, because he thought that the finest training in the British Army was given in the cavalry. It was a branch of training which produced the right men with the proper spirit.

Mr. H. Reeves proposed "Our Guests," coupled with the name of Colonel Curell.

Responding, Colonel Curell paid tribute to the efficiency of the cavalry, and added that, instead of modern mechanical devices surpassing the cavalry, the cavalry was using them to advantage.

An enjoyable musical programme was afterwards gone through, to which the following contributed:—Messrs. P. McGuinness, C. Robinson, J. Kane, W. H. Seddon and Major Tynan.

THE DISARMAMENT PROBLEM.

NAVAL CONVENTION AGREEMENT.

WIDELY DIVERGENT VIEWS ON CONSCRIPTION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
GENEVA, Monday.

The representatives of the five principal Naval Powers, as the result of the meeting which they held yesterday, have agreed upon the text for the draft Convention on Naval Disarmament embodying the principles of the Washington and London Naval Treaties.

The wording of the agreed text has not yet been made known, but it is understood that it is accompanied by certain reservations.

In the course of a protracted sitting this morning of the Preparatory Committee for the Disarmament Conference with reference to the limitation of the total period of military service on the basis of the Polish proposal,

THE JAPANESE VIEW.

Mr. Sato (Japan) declared that he was unable to accept the Polish amendment, adding that Japan's acceptance of Article One in its present form was already a concession. He did not think that it was practical to fix a uniform limit, since conditions and customs in conscription, as well as in regular armies, differed considerably in various countries.

Viscount Cecil said that he considered that the limitation of the period of service was important for the future of disarmament.

M. Litvinoff (Soviet Government) said that since the Committee had decided not to limit trained reserves, his delegation would refrain from voting on the Polish proposal.

Munir Bey (Turkey) stated that he was not in favour of the Polish proposal because of the possibility of its leading to an increase in the period of service.

At the close of the sitting Mr. Sato announced that his Government had agreed to Article Two of the draft Convention dealing with tables of effectives.

METHODIST CHURCH.

THE JUNIOR MINISTERS' CONVENTION.

The thirty-ninth annual Convention of the Junior Methodist ministers of Ireland received a hearty welcome in their third visit to Sligo last week. The previous visits were in 1897 and 1911. The present Superintendent of Sligo circuit, the Rev. John Linahan, was chairman on its first visit, while the Rev. H. Smith occupied the chair this year.

Every evening there was a public meeting, which grew in numbers as the days passed. There were vital subjects introduced by some of the members on "Christ and Life," "The Search for God," and "The Supreme Desire." On Thursday last the chairman gave an earnest address on the "Fact of Conversion." A prayer-meeting began every morning session, which was open to the public.

In the private sessions following papers were read on subjects, such as "The Contribution of the Church to the Cause of Universal Peace," "Our Obligations to the Foreign Field," "The Ethical Implications of the Gospel," "How Shall we Present Christianity to the Youth of To-day?" "Our Place and Purpose in Ireland To-day," and "Problems of Our Ministerial Life."

Conversations followed. The views expressed were optimistic and maintained the motto of the Convention: "Ireland for Christ." These sessions terminated in a solemn Service, when the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed.

The social side of the visit was enriched by the outstanding generosity of the Sligo people. Sectarianism was set aside, as members from all Churches joined in a very hearty welcome to the visitors, showing the abiding union that lies below the surface of external differences. This happy spirit found eloquent expression in speeches at the great social reception. The Sligo ladies' hockey team gave the Convention a very fine match, and was entertained to tea in the Methodist school room.

BURNING CAR MYSTERY.

REMAND ON MURDER CHARGE.

Alfred Arthur Rouse, of Buxted road, North Finchley, was charged at Northampton City Police Court yesterday with the murder of a certain man, whose name is unknown, and was remanded until November 18.

William E. H. Bailey, shoe operative, Hardingstone, identified Rouse as the man he saw at 1.50 a.m. on November 6th near a turning off the London road.

Superintendent Brumby said that when he charged Rouse with the wilful murder of some male person unknown, he replied, "I am innocent."

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSE WEAK.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)
NEW YORK, Monday.

Stocks were firm at the opening, and, with several commission houses predicting a substantial technical rally to-day, the market early advanced, many issues rising from 2 to 6 points. The upward turn, however, was disappointingly short-lived, and the bear movement was resumed. Weakness in Utilities and Rails soon spread throughout the list, in which losses ranging from 1 to 8 points were recorded. The day's business news failed to throw new light on the situation. A statement at the meeting of the board of directors of the Royal Dutch Petroleum Co. at Amsterdam that present conditions permit a profit margin for only the largest producing companies emphasised the troublesome conditions in the oil industry. A gain of 57,000 tons in the U.S. Steel Corporation's unfilled tonnage statement was regarded as encouraging, but steel mill operations in the Youngstown area were estimated to be a 50 per cent. capacity against 52 per cent. last week. Call money ruled at 2 per cent., with concessions again reported outside the market. In late dealings prominent issues received some support, but the closing was weak. New York Consolidated Gas, Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania Railroad, Columbia Carbon, National Biscuit, American Waterworks, Public Service of New Jersey, Liquid Carbonic, Atchison Topeka, North American and Macy Co. declined from 2 to 5 points, American Tobacco "B" lost 6 and Union Pacific fell 7, while Kennecott Copper, Worthington Pump, Vanadium Corporation and Eastman Kodak advanced from 1 to 2 points. Government Bonds steady; Railroad Bonds irregular. The day's sales totalled 4,418,000 shares.

Money on call closed steady at 2 per cent. bid and 2¼ per cent. asked. All business was done at 2 per cent. Sterling exchange steady. Silver unchanged at 36.

The Stock Exchange at Montreal has been closed to-day.

The Chicago Board of Trade and New Orleans Cotton Exchange will be closed to-morrow.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

A CROP OF OUTSIDERS.

G. RICHARDS WINS ON DUSKY SUE.

POOR PERFORMANCE OF TEA PARTY II.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
LEICESTER, Monday Night.

This is the season of the year when we see so many races won by unconsidered outsiders starting at long prices. There was a crop of them here this afternoon when the three placed horses in the first race all started at 20 to 1, and then Gordon Richards made matters worse by winning the Oadby Nursery on Lord Glanely's Dusky Sue, whose returned price was 33 to 1.

I do not know whether there are in these enlightened days any survivals of the genus "Mug," who imagine that a short cut to fortune lies in following consistently the mounts of fashionable jockeys. If there are, and Richards is their choice here, they would have lengthened the path to bankruptcy over Dusky Sue. This daughter of Grand Parade had only a second to her credit this season. That was in a field of three runners at Ayr, when she was smothered by Itsagift, who beat her in a canter by five lengths. She stayed on well, however, this afternoon to get up in the last few strides and beat Watercress by a neck.

SONG O' MY HEART UNPLACED.

Count John McCormack sent Son o' My Heart to run for this, and the winner of the Leopardstown Produce Stakes started favourite. He ran well under a big weight, but just missed a place.

The French filly, Tea Party II., who won the only race she had run for in England so easily at Newmarket, and has been backed for the Manchester November Handicap, started joint favourite with Gay Guy for the Atherstone Handicap, but she certainly did not make her chance at Manchester look any the brighter when she failed to reach the first three. She lay up second for a time, but then faded gradually away, and had no concern with the finish.

Galette, who was the pacemaker, also dropped out in the straight, and then Gay Guy came away inside the distance and won by two lengths from Pard, who seems to have developed a habit of running second on this course. Gay Guy belongs to the French owner, M. Michel Calmann, who owns an extensive book publishing business in Paris, and has had a few horses in the Manton stable for a number of years.

AN EASY WIN.

Manton had another winner when Budaiya won the last race of the day, the Melton Plate, for Mr. Somerville Tattersall. She is not the most reliable of fillies, but she established a long lead early on, and won by five lengths from Dick Bush.

The only good favourite who was successful in the course of the day was Sir Malcolm McAlpine's Story of Eden, who was a 9 to 4 chance, in the Quorn Handicap. H. Wragg rode one of his waiting races on him, and he came late on the scene to win easily by two lengths from Gate Crasher, Happy Note being a length away, third.

There were big fields for both the selling races, the first of which was won by George Poole with his French-bred filly, Velocity II., who beat Serafina by a length. There was no bid for the winner, who is quite a useful plater, and 125 guineas sufficed to secure Hireling, a gelding by Diligence, who won the November Selling Nursery in a good finish by a head from François.

SELECTIONS.

The racing here to-morrow should be rather better than it has been this afternoon. In the Leicestershire Handicap PARADINE seems wonderfully well handicapped, and he should win.

In the Apethorpe Nursery I like the chance of PHILIPPOS. The Harborough Handicap Plate should be won by PORTIA'S PLEA.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Objection to Yes or No.

We are informed that an objection has been lodged to Yes or No, the winner of the Killiney Handicap at Leopardstown on Saturday, by the owner of Prince Pat, who finished second, on the ground that the trainer does not hold a trainer's licence.

Timber's Jockey.

Fred. Butters's Manchester November Handicap charge, Timber, will be ridden in that race by Wilford at two or three pounds overweight.

Teacup for Abroad.

Irish Horses Sold.

Mr. J. J. Parkinson has sold his well-bred two-year-old colt, Invader, and he left Ireland yesterday for Mr. J. Russell's place at Devizes. Mr. Parkinson has also despatched a good-looking filly foal by Captivation out of Lough Carra to Mr. J. de Rothschild's place at Birmingham.

PHŒNIX PARK CLUB RACES 1931.

Owners of yearlings who intend entering them for the series of two-year-old races to be run at the Phœnix Park Club meetings next season should note that to-morrow (Wednesday) is the last day for doing so. For the ten races, which include the Phœnix Plate of 1,500 sovs., and are of the aggregate value of £3,400, a new yearling can be entered for the moderate fee of £4 5s.

LEOPARDSTOWN CLUB
DECEMBER MEETING, 1930.
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, DECEMBER 26th and 27th.

PORTIA'S PLEA'S CHANCE FANCIED.

Runners were plentiful at Leicester yesterday, and a similar state of affairs will, it is likely, prevail to-day. Most of those left in the Leicestershire Handicap will turn out, although the Whatcombe stable is not likely to send Le Phare to carry top weight, and Six Wheeler will not be asked for another effort so soon after Saturday's race. Osiris does not appeal after his recent performances, and Fuzzy Wuzzy will probably find the distance a little too much, but I give her a better chance than Merton Abbey, who won at Liverpool on Friday. Rhum will have to be taken on trust, and in this case the market may be the best guide. Sunny Trace is not reliable, but Rock Forrard is a much-improved mare, and has won her last two races in good style. I expect her to go close, but do not intend to oppose Paradine, who seems to have got in very leniently. The Manton horse meets Rock Forrard on 19lb. better terms than at Birmingham in September, and seems certain to reverse the form with only 7st. 8lb. in the saddle.

The Harborough Handicap is one of the most open events on the card. Tommy Atkins has got plenty to do, but he went well in a gallop on Saturday. Welsh Dame and Lucky Break will run well, despite their penalties, but I prefer Eastridge and Glenarch, who are at the foot of the handicap. Noranda is a recent winner, and Queen's Orb can be fancied on some of her running. For the winner, however, I shall take Portia's Plea, who, with 7st. 10lb., may not find the company much better-class than that she has tackled successfully in each of her three races this season.

There is a good tip for Phillippos in the Apethorpe Nursery, and the Northern youngster is not likely to lack supporters, a remark which also applies to Hell's Bells. Dutch Mystery and Sweet Clare have chances, but I shall take sides with Conqueror, who ran well in Golden Dew's race at Newbury.

ECLIPSE.

FAMOUS GENTLEMAN RIDER DEAD.

Mr. Charles Thompson, who died at Rugby on Saturday, is to be buried at sea in his racing colours, blue and white, bird's eye, white belt. The burial will take place somewhere in the Irish Sea.

Mr. Thompson was formerly the champion gentleman jockey, and was one of the most fearless riders the Turf has ever known. He started to ride almost as soon as he could walk, and was only seven years of age when he broke a leg whilst endeavouring to follow hounds on a cart-horse. He won a race in Germany after falling and breaking two ribs. In a race at Kempton Park he broke a leg, but, though in great agony, he continued to ride and finished the course.

Although 78 years of age, he was until quite recently a regular follower of the Pytchley, Warwickshire, Quorn and Whaddon Chase Hunts. He was champion jockey under National Hunt Rules in 1890, beating all the professionals as well as the amateurs. He won 45 races out of 184 mounts. The following year he was second with 46 winners, which did not include several winners in Germany. He won the National Hunt Steeplechase on Nap in 1889, the most coveted race after the Grand National for an amateur rider to win.

Mr. Thompson was also a noted athlete. He was a well-known long distance runner, and once swam from Dover to Folkestone. He had a most adventurous career, and among his occupations were ranching in Texas and gold-mining in California. It was on his return to England that he took up riding in races. Mr. Thompson was born in London and was educated at King's College and in Paris.

LADIES' HOCKEY.

NOTES ON SATURDAY'S GAMES.

The principal match of Saturday last was played at Foxrock, when Maids of the Mountain met Pembroke Wanderers. For the last two seasons Wanderers have gone down by an odd goal to Maids in the Senior Cup—last year in the semi-final and the previous season in the final. Consequently, their meeting in a League fixture was expected to produce a keen struggle. Certainly, Saturday's game came up to expectations, and, after very even play, resulted in a 3-2 win for Pembroke Wanderers. Neither side was at full strength. Maids fielded subs. at right wing and inside left, while Wanderers were without their usual right wing.

Maids turned over at the interval with a 2-1 lead, but during the second half Miss Starkie put Wanderers ahead with two good shots. Miss Moore had scored twice for Maids, and Miss Barry had netted the first goal for Wanderers. The teams were very evenly matched, and the Wanderers' win was really due to the more thrusting play of their forwards, among whom Miss Starkie and Miss Barry showed up to greatest advantage. Miss Moore was most prominent of the Maids' front line; in fact she was rather the best forward on the field.

There was little to choose between the opposing half lines, all doing extremely well in defence and attack. If anyone was outstanding it was Miss Huet, Maids' centre half, whose almost uncanny accuracy in tackling and fielding saved her side time after time. Miss V. Mahony (Maids) and Miss Alice Dowling (Wanderers) were the best of the fulls, whose play was so safe that the goalkeepers were rarely troubled.

Muckross scored a 3-1 win over Old College at Rathmines, the half-time score having been 1-all. Miss Harrington scored the opening goal for Muckross, but Miss Grey brought College level before the interval. Muckross were much the stronger side in the second half, and in the last ten minutes of play Miss O'Rourke and Miss Harrington added further goals. The Muckross goalie got little to do, as the backs, Misses O'Neill and O'Gorman, were always very sound. The halves all showed up well, Miss O'Riordan being, perhaps, most prominent. Of the forwards, Misses Harrington and Muldoon played best. Miss Johnston, in the College goal, played a brilliant game, saving goals from all angles. Miss Strahan (right half) was easily outstanding in the back division, although Miss Morton (left half) played well until she got a nasty knock on the knee. Miss Grey (left inner) played a really fine game, and was the only forward seen to any advantage.

Newcomes were too good for a weak Trefoil side at Blackrock, and won easily by 5 goals to nil. Trefoil fielded four subs. in the forward line, and played one short all through the match. Newcomes possess a number of promising players, among whom Misses Sheridan (centre forward), Harris (inside right), and Coulson (centre half) were prominent. Misses Sheridan (3) and Harris accounted for four of the scores against Trefoil.

Miss D. Mooney was in scoring form at Gilford road, where she accounted for all four goals scored by Optimists against Monkstown. The Optimists' defence was too good for the opposing forwards, who never succeeded in penetrating.

Dublin University had an easy win over Optimists II. (4-0) in a club game at Gilford road. Misses McKay (2) and Thompson (2) scored for Trinity.

A GOOD DAY'S SPORT.

There was a big field out with the Kildare at Celbridge on Saturday. The first fox was found in Castletown. Hounds hunted him around the wood for some time before he broke on the top side, and after swinging left-handed was run to ground in a ditch after a nice twenty-five minutes. From Griffin Rath hounds hunted a fox over the Celbridge-Lady Chapel road, pointing for Cullen's. Going through Cullen's gorse, the fox led over the Castletown road, but at the end of thirty minutes scent fizzled out near the Obelisk. Found again in Taghadoe, and the pack hunted through Bryanstown "Sticks" over the Lady Chapel road, and marked to ground in a ditch when pointing for Windgates. Almost immediately a fox was viewed running for Taghadoe. Hitting off the line hounds ran through Bryanstown "Sticks," and again into Taghadoe. After running round the covert two or three times the fox broke again, and the hunt was carried through "The Sticks" over the Lady Chapel road up to a deep drain, where hounds threw up. In all probability the fox was smothered in the water, and carried away. This hunt lasted one hour.

TIPPERARY HOUNDS.

OPENING MEET.

The opening meet of the Tipperary Foxhounds was held at the ancient town of Fethard yesterday, and in glorious weather a large field enjoyed some good sport, starting with a run from Rocklow. In the absence of the Master, Sir Thomas Ainsworth, Major F. Wise hunted the hounds. Amongst those out were:—Senator John Bagwell and Miss Bagwell, Major, Mrs., and Miss Murdock, Major Morel (of Wales), who has returned to hunt in South Tipperary; Misses Lysaght, Miss Corby, Mr. M. M'Carthy, M.H.; Mr. H. Shannon and Mrs. Shannon, Mrs. Watson, Mr. Shrennell, Major and Mrs. Perry, Mrs. Masters, Miss Springfield, Miss P. White, Misses Quinlan, Miss Armitage, Dr. and Mrs. Byrne, Captain and Mrs. Barton, Mr. C. J. Carroll and Mrs. Carroll, Misses Cleeve, Colonel Cobden, Mr., Mrs., and Miss Croome, Mr. W. P. Hanly, Major Hutchinson, Mrs. Lysaght, Mr. Maloney, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. David O'Brien, Mr., Mrs., and Miss O'Neill, Mrs. Malcolmson, Mr. Malcolmnson, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Dr. Stokes, Mr. Le Terriere and many others.

THE SCARTEEN HUNT (THE BLACK AND TANS).

On Tuesday, November 4th, these hounds met at Derk. Derk covert and the hill failed to hold, and a fox up a tree was not disturbed. Woodville, the next draw, where Mr. Fitz McMahon has always a good supply of foxes, held 2½ brace. Finding at once, hounds quickly pushed a brace into the open on the south side of the covert, and settling on one, they carried on by the house and across the lawn over the road, and to ground the other side of Barna village. Returning to the covert, a brace left, which at first divided. The pack, however, settling finally on to one, went on over Mr. Slattery's meadows to Ballinaclagh, where the fox crossed the road, and, being viewed recrossing the road, he went back by Barna to Woodville, where he got to ground in a rabbit burrow just ahead of hounds. Again the covert held, and the fox went on for the road, but, turning right-handed, carried on past the new covert at Cross, but not entering. He turned left over the Ballyneety-Pallas road and up Mount Catherine Hill, where, being headed, he crossed the road again, and was marked to ground near the railway.

On Saturday, November 8th, the meet was at the Cross of the Tree. The first draw was Major-General Sir G. M. Franks' covert, which held 1½ brace. An old fox broke one end of the covert, but the hounds sticking to a cub forced him out and ran him to ground in a bank. Being bolted, he returned to the covert, was forced out, and going on over the lawn and across the road to Scarteen was marked to ground in a rabbit burrow. The next draw, Ballyhoulihan, held a stout old fox that went away by the river to Bartoose, when he crossed, and over the road to Emly. Here he turned left and went on through Ballyhone and Ballneveen to Kilfrush, where he got to ground in some breeding earth; distance, four miles without a check over a big bank and ditch country The going was very heavy and hounds ran very fast.

Cromwell, the next draw, held a brace and a half. One went on to Lodge, and, turning to the left, went to Oldtown bog through Mr. Walshe's farm at Garrynacara, where he again turned left, and went on over the road and back to Cromwell covert, where he was marked to ground after a hunt of an hour.

BRAY HARRIERS.

On Saturday, 8th inst., these hounds kept their appointment at Rathnew, where a big "field" turned out. After giving a little "law" to late-comers to this distant trysting place the Master made a move to Miss Baird's well preserved pastures, where we are always received with a warm welcome. No sooner were hounds in the first field than a hare got up, and she proved to be one of the right sort, and made a big détour of the rising ground, at a very fast pace, scent being really good. After going some eight fields wire marred our progress, and hounds, unattended, hunted puss for some time, when she took a left-hand turn which enabled the field to get on terms again. A fresh hare then got up, dividing the pack, but the Master soon had matters righted, and we went along at a merry pace over some formidable banks, when wire again interfered, and we lost in a turnip field close by. Later on we put up several hares which gave us plenty of "lepping" until 4 o'clock, when the Master gave the word for home.

LANSDOWNE FAIL AT EDINBURGH.

STRONG FINISH BY THE UNIVERSITY.

Lansdowne concluded their Scottish tour with a match against the Edinburgh students, in which, after holding their own in the first half, they fell away considerably in the second half, and were well beaten. The weather was extremely cold, and the pitch was soft after heavy rain, which ceased just before the start.

Lansdowne started strongly, and Arigho, five minutes after the start, was given a fine pass from the base of the scrum, and running strongly, he scored at the corner. The kick was too far for M'Enery to convert. The Scots retaliated promptly, and Logan, giving a clever dummy, dodged several of the Dublin defence until he passed to Baker, who was pulled down right on the line. The Scottish forwards were controlling the game, and after a good three-quarter movement Barker had simply to step across the line to equalise the scores. Skene failed with the easy kick. The students kept up the pressure, and Barker, kicking ahead, followed up to catch the ball and run over for a fine try. Griffith brought out the extra points. Lansdowne came again, and Davy had two attempts to drop goals from free kicks. Edinburgh, however, had the better of the exchanges to the interval, but all the good play of the forwards and of Logan was wasted by the poor back play, and no further scoring took place up to the interval, when Edinburgh University led by 1 goal 1 try (8 points) to 1 try (3 points).

The Dublin team had the best of the opening exchanges of the second half, and the splendid rushing by their forwards looked likely to bring success, but Logan effected a timely save with Skene beaten. A free kick gave the 'Varsity a respite, but it proved only temporary, and the Irishmen returned, for M'Enery to fail at a free kick in a fairly easy position. A fine kick to touch by Logan took the students past midfield, and in a loose scrum the ball came out to Barker, who tried a spectacular drop. It was a long try, but the ball just carried the required length to cross the bar and count. A couple of minutes later the University went further ahead through Logan, who was the best back afield. He shook off several attempted tackles, and fell over at the corner, too far out for Griffith to convert. There was only one team in it, and before the end Barker made the running for Anderson to score at the posts, Griffith converting. The Dublin men were well beaten in the closing stages. Result:—

Teams:—

Edinburgh University—J. L. Skene; F. I. Anderson, A. J. Kotze, G. A. Liston, C. M. Wells; C. C. Barker, W. R. Logan; A. J. Ritch, M. B. Griffith, E. A. Jack, F. W. Paul, R. Graham, J. Lockner, T. B. L. Muir, A. W. Haig.

Lansdowne—J. T. L. Moran; E. Lightfoot, N. H. Lambert, M. Crowe, J. Arigho; E. Davy, T. A. O'Reilly; J. M'Enery, M. T. Dunne, M. E. Bardon, V. J. Pike, J. M'Meaney, F. Conroy, J. C. Powell, A. Higgins.

Referee—Mr. A. B. Ross (Heriots).

OXFORD BEATEN BY EDINBURGH ACADEMICALS.

G. P. S. McPherson was in great form for the Edinburgh Academicals in yesterday's match at Oxford, where the Dark Blues suffered defeat by three goals (15 points) to nil. Much the better side outside the scrummage, the Academicals did all their scoring during the opening half, when they outplayed their opponents very considerably. Dodds went over twice, and Dacker added another try, while Turcan was successful with all the goal kicks. Although the Oxford pack put up a good resistance, the backs never overcame their faults in handling and general tactics, the play of the halves being especially weak. In fact, it is not too much to say that Oxford never looked like scoring. Result:—

Oxford University—Nil.

THE FRENCH CRISIS.

A MOVE TO WIN REBEL MEMBERS OVER.

PARIS, Monday.

Emphasising that its function is to maintain the unity of sport, and to prevent it from being discredited by unjust attacks and self-interested motives, the French Rugby Federation, having refused to accept the resignation of the twelve clubs which are trying to break away, has decided to try and win the members of these clubs to its own point of view. This will be done by the presentation to the club members of a truthful statement of the case, so that these members will, it is hoped, vote against their own clubs when the statutory general meetings are held. If the Federation is successful the rebels, it is thought, will be more incensed than ever, and the situation will probably become more acute.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY TOUR.

The following have been selected to represent Dublin University R.F.C. on the English tour. The team leaves for Cambridge this evening, and will play a match against Cambridge University on Thursday. On Saturday they will be opposed to London-Irish in London:—

P. J. Mullaney, N. Tindal, H. R. Davies, R. McNeilly, M. Dee, M. Cussen, J. F. McNeice, J. W. Stokes, T. B. Hannin, H. Michael (captain), D. L. Graham, W. J. Hall, H. V. Tighe, R. C. Sutton, St. J. S. Pike, J. Anderson, G. T. Keays, N. Anderson, and T. J. M. Gregg.

WANDERERS F.C.

The following will represent the 1st XV. against Clontarf, at Clontarf, on Saturday, at 2.45:—D. Kennedy; J. E. Grealy, J. C. Hewat, F. W. Williamson, J. H. Laing; P. Weir, P. F. Murray; J. D. Clinch, C. R. Graves, L. Halligan, H. J. Hilton, W. McCormack, M. McQuaid, N. Potterton, B. Williams.

CARNERA-PAOLINO BOUT FIXED UP.

PARIS, Monday.

A few words over the trans-Atlantic telephone to-day enabled Jeff Dickson to secure Paolino definitely for a fight with Carnera at Barcelona on November 23rd. Mr. Dickson was speaking to Lew Brix, Paolino's manager. Beside him stood the giant woodcutter from the Basque country and an interpreter, who gave Paolino's version of the affair.

Paolino assured Brix that it was all right, and that he must fight Carnera some time during November. Brix capitulated ultimately, and Dickson, accompanied by Paolino, goes to Barcelona shortly to fix up the fight, which has captured both Spanish and French interest and will be [illegible] at least £80,000. Dickson expects Paolino to arrive here before November 23rd.

CRICKET.

LEYLAND BOWLS FINELY.

CAPE TOWN, Monday.

Western Province could not produce a bowler who was able to cause the M.C.C. batsmen any trouble, and after Wyatt and Hammond had put on 158 for the second wicket, and had each made a century, Chapman declared the first innings closed at 412 for seven wickets, which gave the M.C.C. a lead of 299. In the 75 minutes left Western Province lost three wickets for 44, so that they require 255 from their seven remaining wickets to save an innings defeat.

Wyatt, who made 70 of the 153 scored for the loss of Sandham's wicket on Saturday, went on to-day, in partnership with Hammond, to complete a colourless century in three hours twenty minutes. Goulden and Allin, the bowlers, were easily handled by both Wyatt and Hammond, except that Hammond gave a chance at 20 to point. The 200 went up in three hours, and the introduction of Bell, with a new ball, failed to stem the steady tide of runs. Hammond reached his 50 in 90 minutes, his powerful driving keeping the fieldsmen well occupied and delighting the crowd.

Wyatt was ultimately out at 295, having played an eminently correct, but uninteresting, innings of just over four hours. He was caught by Conyngham off Coen's bowling. He hit eleven 4's. Hammond relapsed into a period of singles, and so unenterprising was he that he took only five minutes less than Wyatt to reach his century. He scored his 100 out of 221, and had then hit only six 4's. In the over after he had hit his hundredth run he was caught by Morgan at mid-off, the third wicket falling at 363. His second 50 comprised 40 singles, but he made many good hits which were blocked by the fieldsmen. Leyland was out for a "duck" at 364, but, in company with Turnbull, Hendren completed his 50 in 85 minutes. The fourth hundred had not long been hoisted when Turnbull was beaten by an off-break and bowled for 19, being fifth out at 407. He hit a 6 and a 4. Chapman, who was out for a single against the schoolboys, was bowled to-day by Bell for the same score at 408. Hendren and Tate come together, and the early dismissal of Tate at 412 provided a convenient point for Chapman to declare. Hendren, at the declaration, had made 58 not out in an hour and a half and had hit three 4's.

Western Province began their second innings as if they meant to knock off the arrears quickly. Coen and Martin, scoring easily off Tate and Voce, made 36 in half an hour, but at that point Coen was l.b.w. to Leyland. This was the first of three quick wickets by Leyland, who might have brought about a much more serious collapse had the close of play not intervened. He got the wicket of Myles with a beautifully pitched off-break at 42, and two runs later he bowled Bell. Score:—

SOUTH AUSTRALIA FACING DEFEAT.

At Sydney South Australia, with only two wickets in hand, require 258 to avert an innings defeat by New South Wales in the Sheffield Shield match. The New South Wales innings closed for 396, the total at the close of play on Saturday having been 317 for 5. Allsopp (52 not out) made 93. Nitschke made a big effort for South Australia, and at the close of play was 124 not out, but the others, apart from Pritchard (30) and Lee (36), did little. Present scores:—

New South Wales—228 and 396 (Bradman 121, Kippax 104).

OLD HANTS PLAYER DEAD.

A link with early Hampshire cricket was broken yesterday with the sudden death, following a seizure, of W. Light, professional to the Devon County club. Light, who was born in March, 1880, played for Hampshire when that County competed in Minor Counties cricket. In the year of his first appearance for Hampshire he headed the county's bowling averages with 36 wickets at a cost of 12.5 runs apiece. Going to Exeter when the Devon County ground was opened in that city, about 23 years ago, Light threw in his lot with Devon. So recently as the 1923 season he was the most successful Devon bowler, when he secured 49 wickets.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

FORBIDDEN TO PLAY.

FREE STATE F.A. BANS AMATEURS

FROM TAKING PART IN INTERNATIONAL.

The Emergency Committee of the Free State F.A. met last night to consider the right of the Irish F.A. to select certain players to take part in the Amateur International match against England on Saturday next, and passed the following resolutions:—

"That the Emergency Committee of the Football Association of the Irish Free State has learned with astonishment—through the medium of the Press—of the action of the Irish Football Association, Ltd., in selecting players born and playing within the area under the jurisdiction of the Football Association of the Irish Free State to play in the match between England and Northern Ireland at Belfast on Saturday, 15th November, 1930, misrepresented as an Amateur International match: 'Ireland' versus England;

"That this Committee regards such action as a gross act of discourtesy and arrogance to the Football Association of the Irish Free State, and also contrary to the terms of the agreement reached at the Liverpool Conference in October, 1923, which recognised the authority of this Association to be complete and independent within its own area;

"That this Committee forbids any player or players who are at present registered and playing under our jurisdiction, and who were born within the area now known as the Irish Free State, from playing in this or any other match arranged and controlled by the Irish Football Association, Ltd.;

"That copies of this resolution be sent to the Minister for External Affairs, the Federation Internation le de Football Association, the International Board, the Football Associations of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland; the Bohemian Football Club, the Press, and the players who have been selected for the match in question."

SEQUEL TO SUNDAY'S MATCH AT BRAY.

GUARDS ESCORT REFEREE TO DUBLIN.

Unseemly demonstrations were made against the referee after the match between Waterford Celtic and Bray Unknowns on Sunday last. He was escorted to the pavilion by police and officials at the conclusion of the game, and after half-an-hour was further escorted to the railway station, the party being followed by hostile crowds.

Several nasty rushes were made at the referee, but his police guard prevented any encounter. Two Guards accompanied him on the train to Dublin.

GOLF.

REQUEST TO R. AND A. CLUB.

With a view to avoiding clashing the dates of the important fixtures a conference was called by the Joint Advisory Committee at the Golfers' Club, London, yesterday. The four Unions governing men and women's golf, the Ladies' Golf Union, promoters of the principal tournaments, the Royal and Ancient Club, and the Professional Golfers' Association were invited to attend, but the two last-mentioned bodies sent apologies for their absence.

It was agreed that the Joint Advisory Committee, which is a "clearing house" for the season's fixture list, could not do its work until the dates of the British Open and Amateur Championships had been decided, and a resolution was framed requesting the Royal and Ancient Club to fix permanent dates for these events.

The draft of a proposed agreement between the promoters of the leading events and the Joint Advisory Committee, which was approved, set out that the J.A.C. would be responsible for the making of a golfing calendar each year and publishing at intervals a list of events, the dates of the Amateur Open and Ladies' Championships being excluded. If the information at its disposal discloses a prospective clashing of dates likely to affect players or the public the Joint Advisory Committee will at once take steps to adjust the difficulty. The date, or dates, in question shall be allotted to the organisations which first applied for them or previously established a statutory date.

The following among other provisional fixtures for 1931 were announced:—

April 21, etc.—English "Close" Amateur Championship, at Hunstanton.
May 11, etc.—Southport Professional Tournament.
June 8, etc.—LADIES' OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP, at Portmarnock.
June 8, etc.—French Open Championship (venue to be arranged)
June 23, etc.—Scottish Ladies' Championship, at Gullane.
June 26 and 27—Ryder Cup, at Columbus, Ohio.
July 2, etc.—American Professional Championship, at Toledo, Ohio.
August 10—IRISH LADIES' TAILTEANN (MEDAL) CHAMPIONSHIP, at Woodbrook, Bray.
September 3, etc.—Welsh Amateur "Close" Championship, at Aberdovey
September 5—IRELAND v. SCOTLAND, at Newcastle, Co. Down.
September 9—£1,000 Qualifying (Southern Section), at Pinner Hill.
September 16—£1,000 Tournament, at Longniddry.
September 22, etc.—£1,000 Finals, at Royal Mid-Surrey.

IRISH RAINFALL.

The Irish Rainfall Association's report for October, 1930, issued from Ballinamona, Cashel, County Tipperary, on November 8th, is as follows:—

One of the wettest Octobers on record in Ireland. Although the rain was not, as a rule, exceptionally heavy, it was very continuous, and many stations had hardly a day without it. Sunshine was deficient, but the month was mild on the whole. Some storms were recorded, generally in the middle of the month, and some very heavy showers, but usually drizzly rain was the more prevalent. Lunar halo was seen at Delgany, Co. Wicklow, on the 5th and 6th, and aurora borealis was visible on the 17th as far south as Cashel. Shade temperatures rose to 65 degrees in Dublin, and fell to 31 degrees at Banbridge. There were many heavy daily falls of rain, including, on the 22nd, 1.75 inches at Leenane and 1.61 inches at Inagh, and on the 7th, 1.53 inches at Fofanny. Falls between 1 and 1½ inches were numerous. Totals for the month:—

IRISH TOURIST TRAFFIC.

RICH HARVEST IN NEAR FUTURE.

THE GRAND PRIX RACES.

Mr. Charles H. Murphy, a secretary of the Automobile Association, speaking at the meeting of the Dublin Rotary Club, in Clery's Resturant, yesterday, said that probably there was no subject that could be of more interest to them all than the Irish Tourist traffic. The day, he said, is not far distant when the amount of money that is garnered-in by this country from tourists will equal many millions. Those who were not able to speak of the attractions of Ireland, and who roamed abroad on holiday, ought to be ashamed of themselves. To no section of the community should it be less necessary to emphasise the attractions of Ireland than to those who travel by motor car. Questions of import duties, travelling permits and customs facilities have caused the motorist of the Free State to realise that the attractions of their own land are free to them without any of the irritating formalities which have to be observed when one takes a motor car across the border. Even to the motorist of the Irish Free State it is still necessary to say—"See Ireland First."

THREE ADJUNCTS.

There were three adjuncts to the making of touring successful—viz., weather, roads and rail and hotels. On the question of roads he could not too strongly emphasise that the roads of Ireland are now approaching a standard of excellence that entitles them to be ranked with the roads of the leading European countries. In the laying of concrete roads Irish surveyors have been more successful than their colleagues in other countries. There were few or no complaints about the roads either in the Free State or Northern Ireland. Many extern surveyors had been to Ireland on visits of inspection to ascertain how the absence of "wavines" has been provided.

In this connection the speaker referred to the remarkable speed attained on Thursday last on a section of concrete road on the outskirts of Cork. An English motor-cycle manufacturer had built a motor which was to be the fastest machine in the world, with the object of regaining for Great Britain the world's motor-cycle speed record of which Germany had deprived her a year ago. A trial on public roads would not be tolerated in England, and no owner of a private estate with a three miles drive offered to give the necessary facilities. Although the Cork road has borne the heavy tourist and local traffic for three years its condition to-day is as good as when it was first laid. A speed of 150 miles per hour was attained for a flying kilometre. The fact that we have in Ireland a road on which such speed is possible must be regarded as a matter of national satisfaction. Nor should we fail to acknowledge the thanks which are due to our enlightened legislators, who by an Act of the Dáil, have made the holding of such trials in Ireland a possibility, nor to acknowledge the thanks that are due to the public authorities, such as the Cork County Council, who closed the road for the purpose of these trials.

It depends on us, said the speaker, whether or not the International Grand Prix race shall be run again, and we should all see to it that it is run again, as it has become an international event of first-class importance. Financially, for the last two years it was a failure, but one might term it a glorious failure.

BETTER HOTELS NEEDED.

Referring to Irish hotels, Mr. Murphy said that a great deal still remained to be done to bring some of the hotels up to the standard which is necessary, and which exists in other countries. He would impress on hotel-keepers two points—first, the desirability of scrupulous cleanliness, and secondly, of good, plain cooking. The proprietors of several so-called hotels in the country have not the faintest idea of what a hotel is. In connection with the motor traffic generally it is an interesting fact that statistics show an increase of the traffic at the rate of 50 per cent. on each preceding year for the past four years. The value of the tourist traffic is well recognised in other countries, and should be recognised in Ireland.

VALUE OF THE GRAND PRIX.

A general discussion followed, in which tribute was paid to the work of the Tourist Association, and to the value of the Grand Prix races as an advertising medium for Ireland as a tourist resort.

Mr. Summerfield said that, although there was a loss on the last two years on the Irish Grand Prix, the money was well spent, as it brought big crowds of tourists into the country. He hoped that the Grand Prix races would be continued from year to year in Dublin.

The President (Mr. G. J. T. Clampett) conveyed the thanks of the Club to Mr. Murphy.

The Consuls representing Venezuela, Argentina, Guatemala, Bolivia, and Chile, were present as guests of the Club, as well as several Dublin citizens.

Most of the members signed a petition which was presented by Mr. D. Barrett, as President of the Society for the Prevention of the Exports of Old Horses.

MOB DESTROY BRIDAL COACH.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

HUELVA, Monday.

The good folk of Cumbros de San Bartolome took exception to the wedding of a young girl to an elderly widower, and mobbed the bridal couple. So menacing became the attitude of the demonstrators that a force of police was rushed up.

With the assistance of the police the couple managed to get to the church and to struggle through the ceremony, but on their way back they were met with a volley of stones. The carriage in which they were driving was attacked and destroyed, and only with difficulty were bride and bridegroom escorted out of the village to safety.

Several persons were injured in the disorders, and a number of arrests were made.

AIR AND RAIL FREIGHTS.

SYSTEM TO COMMENCE SOON.

Imperial Airways announce that it is hoped to introduce early in the new year the combined rail and air freight system, whereby urgent parcels from more than one hundred railway stations throughout Great Britain will be accepted for despatch by air to foreign destinations.

WAITERS STRIKE AT A BANQUET.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CORDOVA, Monday.

All the waiters engaged at a banquet in honour of Senor Cruz Conde, the manager of the Spanish-American Exhibition, struck to-day, and the meal had to be served by a scratch staff. The strikers, who were joined by many workmen, created a noisy disturbance in the streets. The feature of the banquet was a speech by Senor Cruz Conde in praise of the late Dictator, General Primo de Rivera.

As the result of an accident to a seaplane at Barcelona, the naval officer who was piloting the 'plane and a mechanic were killed.—(Reuter).

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN IRREGULAR.

ALLOTMENT OF CREDIT BONDS.

Interest yesterday centred in the allotment of the second series of the Agricultural Credit Corporation State Guaranteed Mortgage Bonds, issued at 101. In the absence of an official statement, it is estimated that the allotments were on the following lines:—Small applicants in full, medium about 75 per cent., and large about 24 per cent. Dealings in the fully paid scrip took place at 101⅝, ⅜, ¾, and in the partly paid at ¼, ⅜ premium. The first instalment is due on December 2. The first series of these Bonds rose ½ to 101¾.

Free State Funds were firm, with the exception of the First Loan, which fell ⅛ to 102⅞. The Third Loan is still a popular purchase at a rising price. The high level of Bank Stock brought out sellers and the price gave way three points, with a weak close. The same remark applies to Guinness units, which had a chequered day, and sold down to 107s. 1½d.

The only movement of importance in Rails was a fall of 5 points in Great Northern Pref. to 40.

Among the big industrials, Unilevers was the weakest spot, followed in the Oil section by a drop of nearly 3s. in Shells on the oil war in the States. Courtaulds, Dunlops, Tobaccos and Chemicals, where they varied, showed no movement beyond the turn of the market. Local things like Civil Service Building, Brooks Thomas and Dockrell Prefs., Goulding Debs. and Todd Burns Debs. were firm.

LONDON EASIER.

CHINESE STOCKS FIRM.

Decidedly quieter conditions prevailed in practically every department in the London Stock markets yesterday, fresh business being of an extremely scanty character, whilst the accumulation of orders over the week-end proved to be of exceedingly small dimensions. This paucity of interest, coupled with the unfavourable exchange movements and the fact that the majority of orders received were of a selling nature, depressed values somewhat sharply, the list of price movements at the close presenting a very one-sided appearance, and many of the losses sustained being of a substantial character, whilst in only a few instances did the final values show an advance. There was not a great deal going on in the Gilt-edged market, and although quotations in this department were usually well held, the few movements returned were adverse to holders. Foreign Government Stocks also attracted but scanty attention, and, apart from Brazilians and Chinese issues, the latter especially registering some appreciable improvements, quotations showed little material alteration. A firm tone characterised Home Rails at the commencement, but later quotations fell away again and the initial improvements were lost, the final values being much the same as at the week-end. Apart from San Paulo Ord., which jumped 3 points to 165, Colonial and Foreign Rails displayed an easier front. "Canpacs" went off sharply, losing 6 points to 170½, and the split shares 1½ points to ¼, while Central Argentines and the Buenos Ayres issues all went back. American Rails were exceptionally heavy, with losses ranging up to 9 points. The Industrial sections generally were flat, the Internationals all going substantially lower, following the less favourable advices from New York over the week-end, while there was a further sharp reaction in the street last night.

In other directions, Oil shares provided an outstanding weak feature; for, after opening in dull fashion, heavy selling was encountered from the Continent, and values were scaled down further throughout the list, many of the changes resulting from the day's business being of wide dimensions. Royal Dutch were the heaviest sufferers, a loss of 1 1/16 being finally recorded, while Burmah and Leaseholds each dropped 7/32, and Apex closed 1s. 4½d. down.

INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

GENERAL TONE DULL.

INTERNATIONALS WEAKEN.

The chief sufferers among the trans-Atlantic counters were Radio Corporations. In the "street" the price dipped to 14⅝ at one time, eventually finishing with a net loss of 2¾ at 15. Hydro-Electrics weakened to 26½, while Nickels came back from 18¼ to 17⅝, and Brazilian Traction Common from 27⅛ to 26⅝.

Columbia "Graphs" were finally no better than 2 5/16 after being 2 11/32, and "Gramos" (H.M.V.) receded to 2 7/32.

Cables and Wireless stocks continued to Droop, the Preference closing around 73½, the "A" Ordinary at 23½ and the "B" at 13. Canadian Marconis dipped to 10s.

Electricals gave a mixed display. Atlas Ordinary gave way further to 23s. Of the equipments Callenders found supporters, but Associateds and General Electrics weakened. Coal and Engineering descriptions were harder in places.

Apart from Benskins and Courage, movements among Breweries were towards lower levels. Distillers gave way 1s. to 61s. 6d., probably as a result of the decline in profits shown by Dunvilles. A reaction of 1s. to 107s. occurred in Guinness, with Hoare Ordinary and Watney Deferreds also on offer. Dealings commenced in Frak Myatt new Debentures which changed hands up to 2¼ prem. and closed around 1⅞ prem.

The Tobacco leaders generally lost ground, "Bats" receding to 5 1/16, Carreras "A" to 5, and "Imps" to 4 27/32.

Canadian Celanese Common hardened to 2⅜, but other rayon issues ruled on the dull side. Courtaulds dwindled to 2¼, American Celanese Common to 3¼, British Celanese Ordinary to 9s. 9d., and British Enka to 4s. 6d.

Textiles showed little alteration. Bradford Dyers, Bleachers, J. and P. Coats, Sewing Cottons and Calico Printers were maintained, but Fine Spinners and Patons and Baldwins were on offer.

Unilevers were offered on Continental account, and, with support lacking on this side, lost 5/32 to 2⅛, while Unilever N.V. shed ⅛ to 2⅛ also. The New Ords. left off no better than 26s. 6d., 2s. 3d. lower on the day. Waring Ords. were levelled to 6s., and the Pref. reacted slightly to 12s. 6d.

Banking movements proved generally favourable to holders, but Insurance issues were irregular. Among Shipping issues, P. and O. Def. received support, and regained 6d. to 41s. 6d.

There was a decline of ⅛ in Hudson's Bays to 2 1/16. Town Investments continued to attract attention, and were dealt in up to 61s. 3d. Dunlops and Imperial Chemicals both lost Friday's small improvement at 11s. 10½d. and 20s. 9d., respectively.

United Molasses trended downwards, and were finally 1s. lower at 20s. 9d. In common with other Internationals, Kreuger and Toll were levelled to 24, and Swedish Match eased fractionally to 13¾.

OIL SHARES HEAVY.

Dealings in Oil shares yesterday were of a much more animated character than for some time past, but the course of the market was all in favour of the "bears." Right from the start a heavy tone prevailed. This was attributable to the nature of advices received over the week-end from New York, where a sharp decline occurred in quotations for oil shares, following the announcement on Friday last that the American Oil Export Association had cancelled all its export price schedules. It is feared that this may lead to a renewal of the price war between American companies and the Royal Dutch group in fields outside the United States. Prices of the leading issues and several of the more speculative descriptions were lowered at the commencement of business, and continued on the down grade for the better part of the day, although it has to be admitted that sentiment played a larger part than actual sales during the early hours. Towards the close a slightly harder tendency developed, but when dealings finished a long list of declines was recorded, the losses in some cases being of substantial amount.

RUBBER SHARES STEADY.

In accordance with anticipations, London stocks of rubber showed a decline of 2,321 tons yesterday, and, as a consequence of this further reduction—last week's figures having shown a reduction of over 4,000 tons—rather firmer conditions were apparent in the raw material market. Spot and November, after opening at 4 7/16d., improved to 4½d. per lb., while January to March was quoted 4 7/16d. per lb. There was no material increase in the volume of trading in the share market, and, while the general tone was firm, actual price movements were few and of little consequence.

DEALINGS IN LONDON MARKET.

The following dealings among active Stocks and Shares were "marked" in London yesterday:—Consols—58¼, 7/16, ⅜, ⅛, 5/16, 8, ½, 3/16, 1/16. 5 p.c. LONDON "STREET" MARKET.

Adverse reports from Wall street led to a good deal of offering of the leading trans-Atlantic favourites at the opening of the "street" market last evening, and prices were generally marked lower. Later, however, quieter conditions developed, but values showed little recovery. Outstanding were Radios, which fell to 14⅞, as compared with their close of the "House" level of 16⅜. Brazilian Tractions dropped to 26⅝, Hydros to 26¼, and Nickels to 17⅜, the latter, however, subsequently rallying to 17⅞ bid. Canadian Pacifics were no better than 42¼, and U.S. Steels changed hands at 144. Oil shares also came sellers from the other side, but, apart from Royal Dutch, which eased to 25⅞, price movements were small.

LONDON MINING MARKET IDLE.

KAFFIR SHARES INCLINED TO DROOP.

Dealings were on a very limited scale in the Mining market yesterday, and even the favourites received less attention than for some time past. Kaffirs were not helped by the publication of a record Rand output for the past month. The Cape was not impressed and little, if any, business was transacted on behalf of that centre; while Paris was more inclined to sell the International counters than to buy them. As a result the price movements recorded were, with one exception, against holders. Rhodesians were very dull at the opening, on the almost entire absence of demand, and Chartered, which were sold from Paris, declined heavily. A rally set in later, but it still left these shares and several others something on the wrong side on balance. Tanks hardened the turn, and Gaika were a better market, but the gold shares generally were neglected. Thanks mainly to the nature of Paris advices Diamonds became weak, and De Beers Defd., which were on sale from Paris, marked a sharp drop, the Pref. and Consolidated Diamonds, particularly the Ord. of the latter, were also weak. The price of tin was finally 7s. 6d. down at £112 per ton, but the Share market presented quite a cheerful appearance. This was due to the fact that inquiries were received from the East for several of the Malayan shares, and, as floating supplies were limited, prices advanced. Although the price of copper rose £1 7s. 6d. to £45 per ton, the Share market was unaltered. Paris was inclined to offer Tintos, but there was a modest demand here, and the price left off unaltered. In other directions, while Burma eased the turn Santa Gertrudis were inquired for and moved up. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

AGRICULTURAL CREDIT BONDS.

In connection with the recent issue of £250,000 5 per cent. State-guaranteed Mortgage Bonds (offered for public subscription on Wednesday, November 5, at £101 per cent.), the allotment letters and letters of regret were posted on Saturday, November 8. The issue was heavily over-subscribed. The amount of applications considered for allotment was approximately £700,000. This does not include applications which were received after the closing of the list. Applications ranged in size from £50 upwards, the largest single application being for £100,000. The smaller applicants received allotment in full, but no allotments were made in respect of very small applications. The general allotment was made on the basis of securing the maximum distribution for the bonds while grading allotments in accordance with size of applications. The feature of the issue was a large response in the shape of medium-size applications, ranging from £1,000 to £5,000. A substantial amount of applications was received from Great Britain and Northern Ireland. Dealings in the bonds commenced in the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday (November 10). The fully-paid bonds closed at a premium of ¾ over the issue price.

COMPENSATION STOCK.

The amount of Compensation Stock now outstanding is £202,850, and this will be paid off as it falls due for redemption under the terms of issue.

UNILEVER INTERIMS.

The directors of Unilever, Ltd., and Unilever N.V. (formerly Margarine Union Ltd., and N.V. Margarine Unie) have declared interim dividends of 4 per cent., less tax, on the Ordinary shares (which rank pari passu) in respect of the year to December 31, 1930. In the case of the former company warrants will be posted on November 15, while payments on the latter company's shares will be made on and after November 17. Interims have been at this rate for the past two years, and have been followed by finals of 6 per cent., making 10 per cent., less tax. The capital ranking for the present payment, however, is considerably larger. In January, 1930, 6,000,000 Unilever Ltd., Ordinary shares were issued with 1,100,000 Preference shares to Ordinary shareholders of Lever Bros., in exchange for that company's Ordinary shares, while a further 2,000,000 Unilever, Ltd., Ordinary shares were issued at £3 in May last. At the same time Ordinary shareholders in both companies received as bonus one Ordinary share for every sixteen held. In connection with these last two issues it was stated that while the bonus shares would be entitled to full 1930 dividends, the 2,000,000 new shares would be entitled to one-half of such dividend, to be paid at the time of the final dividend.

DENNIS BROS. PAY LESS.

The well-known firm of motor engineers, Dennis Bros., Ltd., announce a balance dividend for the year to September 30 last of 2s. 2d. per share, making, with the interim of 8d., a total of 2s. 10d. for the year, equal to 283⅓ per cent. on the 1s. shares, the issued amount of which is £75,123 15s. For the previous year the full distribution was equal to 350 per cent. On this occasion the transfer to the reserve is again £75,000, and the carry-forward is substantially the same as before. Originally the capital was in £1 shares, which were reduced to 10s. each by a return of capital, the 10s. shares in turn being reduced similarly to 3s. shares, which were then sub-divided into 1s. shares. The company has a remarkably strong financial position, the reserve in the last balance sheet having amounted to £575,000, while cash was held to the amount of £207,553, and the investments figured for £161,118, apart from the share holding of White and Poppe, valued at over £100,000. The 1s. shares yesterday closed at about 39s. 3d., and, allowing for the balance dividend in the price, the indicated yield from the reduced dividend is approximately 7 7/16 per cent.

ALLIED STORES.

On inquiry yesterday afternoon at the offices of the International Tea Company's Stores, Ltd., the Financial News was informed that "there is still nothing to report concerning the negotiations in respect of the Allied Stores merger."

RHODESIA BORDER MINING.

A petition for the winding-up of the Rhodesia Border Mining Corporation, Ltd., has been presented. The company was incorporated on July 22 under the laws of Southern Rhodesia with a capital of £750,000, divided into 1,500,000 shares of 10s. each.

MARGARINE SALES.

Following discussion of the so-called "Margarine Agreement," concluded as a result of agreements between the Denofa Company and the Lilleborg Fabriker Company, on the one hand, and Unilever, Ltd., on the other hand, the Norwegian Government has decided to submit a bill to the Storting altering the present trust controlling system, to the effect that the Government should be entitled to grant a general anticipatory consent to agreements of this character. The question arose as follows. The agreement stipulates that the affiliated factories will have to sell their margarine through a common selling office, and that the total production will be distributed between the partners according to certain basic quotas. Unilever, Ltd., afterwards demanded that the trust controlling committee should give a general anticipatory consent to every agreement regarding the partners buying each other's quota, and regarding common production within the framework of the agreement. The committee, at the end of last month, refused to give its consent, and consequently some action was necessary if the concessions were not to fall through.

SPILLERS NOTES.

The directors of Spillers are prepared, with the trustees' approval, to receive tenders of the 5½ per cent. Ten-year Sinking Fund Notes for cancellation. Tenders, which should be exclusive of interest payable on 1st December next, should reach the Secretary's office, 40 St. Mary Axe, London, E.C.3, not later than 15th November. The amount of Notes outstanding at January last was £408,150 out of £1,000,000 originally issued.

ASSAM RAILWAYS.

A special meeting of Assam Railways and Trading Company was held yesterday to consider a resolution that the borrowing powers be increased from £1,000,000 to £2,000,000. This is for the purpose of carrying through arrangements for paying off existing Debenture Stocks, following which the borrowing powers will again be limited to £1,000,000.

A NEW MOTOR SPIRIT.

A new motor spirit—"'Regent'—the Empire Spirit"—was placed on the market yesterday (November 10th). The new spirit, which is being distributed by Trinidad Leaseholds, Ltd., is a British product, being refined in Trinidad from the produce of the rich oil lands of that island. It will be in two grades: Regent Super, to be sold at 1s. 2½d. per gallon, and Regent Commercial, at 1s. 1d. per gallon, and has, we understand, been specially refined and blended to meet the requirements of the British motoring community.

SWEDISH EXPORT TRADE.

Hambros' Bank, Stockholm, correspondent states that:—Practically all staple goods showed a decrease in export for September compared with September, 1929, pulp, paper and butter, however, suffering comparatively little. There was an increase in exports of electric machinery, steam turbines, pork, cardboard and certain other goods. On the import side an increase was noted only for dry goods, machinery, electric and non-electric, mineral oils and rubber, with a decrease for other important articles, but not so heavy for coal and motor lorries.

CANADIAN WHEAT POOL.

Further "cuts" of the initial payments of the wheat pool on this year's grain crop are announced at Winnipeg. The advance of 55 cents a bushel that has hitherto obtained on No. 1 Northern wheat at Fort William is reduced to 50, the payment on flax is reduced from a dollar to 75 cents, and on rye from 30 to 25 cents. This reduction in the initial payments to growers on delivery to the pool elevators is the third consecutive "cut" since the marketing season opened, and is due to the continued weakness of export prices on the local exchange.

THE MONEY MARKET.

MORE GOLD FOR FRANCE.

Owing to the absence of Treasury Bill maturities, coupled with the usual window-dressing operations on the part of one of the banks, money was in limited supply yesterday. Short loans commanded from 2 to 2½ per cent., while the usual charge for renewals was 2 per cent. for either a day or a week.

In the Discount market rates kept firm owing to weakness of sterling and the continued gold efflux. Most houses quoted 2 5/16 per cent. as the minimum for fine three months' bank bills, and the "hot" Treasuries were also dealt in around that figure.

Silver was unchanged for spot at 16 11/16d. per oz., but was 1/16d. easier for forward delivery at 16 7/16d. per oz. Gold rose ½d. to 85s. 1½d. per oz. fine, owing to the further fall in the French exchange.

At the Bank of England £38 in bar gold was bought and £500,000 in sovereigns received from South Africa, while £325,185 in bar gold was sold to France and £35,000 in sovereigns exported.

In the Foreign Exchange market yesterday the New York rate opened a trifle lower at 4.85 11/16, but was finally unchanged at 4.85 11/16, while Canadian dollars appreciated 1/16c. to 4.85 3/16. Among the Continental currencies, a feature was provided by violent fluctuations in the franc, which, after opening 5¼c. dearer at 123.54½, closed 4¼c. cheaper on the day at 123.64½. Swiss francs were also cheaper to the extent of ½c. at 25.03¼. Reichsmarks finished at 20.38¼, as compared with 20.38½. Pesetas were called 0.28 better at 42.49½. In the Scandinavian section, Swedish and Norwegian kronor both weakened ½ ore to 18.11½ and 18.16 respectively. Argentine dollars eased 1/16d. to 38 11/16d., but the Brazilian milreis was steady at 4 15/16d. Montevideo hardened ⅛d. to 39⅞d.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

WALPOLE BROS.—5 per cent. on Ordinary Shares for six months ended August 31; £4,229 forward. The shares are privately held.

DENNIS BROTHERS (GUILDFORD).—The directors of Dennis Brothers, Ltd., propose to recommend to the shareholders at the general meeting on the 1st December a final dividend of 2/2 per share, less tax, making, with the interim dividend of 8d. per share, a total of 2/10 for the year. The sum of £75,000 (same) has been added to reserve, and the carry forward is substantially the same. For the corresponding period last year a final dividend of 2/10 per share, less tax, was paid.

DUFFIELD IRON CORPORATION.—In a statement issued to shareholders in regard to certain mechanical defects in the company's plant it is mentioned that these troubles have been obviated. A test of the retort for iron production resulted in a recovery up to 81.46 per cent. as metallic iron of the total iron contained in the ore. By modifications now proceeding the company expect to increase the recovery to above 90 per cent., which is the limit contained in the production cost estimates.

INDIA GENERAL NAVIGATION AND RAILWAY CO.—Interim dividend of 2 per cent. on Ordinary and 2½ per cent. on Preference, both free of tax. (Last year 2½ per cent. on Ordinary, free of tax.)

JOHN I. THORNEYCROFT AND CO.—The report for the year ended 31st July, 1930, states that the available balance of the profit, after deduction of Debenture interest and interim dividends, is £142,383, which the directors recommend shall be dealt with as follows—To the payment of final dividend of 3 per cent. on the Cumulative Preference Shares, making, with the interim dividend already paid, 6 per cent. for the year, £6,000; to the payment of a final dividend of 5¼ per cent. on the Participating Preferred Ordinary Shares, making, with the interim dividend already paid, 9 per cent. for the year, £13,125; to the payment of a dividend of 13 per cent. on the Ordinary Shares, £39,000; to transfer to reserve account, £20,000; to contribution to the benevolent fund £5,000, leaving a balance to be carried forward of £59,258.

LANGKAPOERA SUMATRA RUBBER.—Final dividend of 5 per cent., less tax, on Preference on account of the year ended 30th June, 1930, making 10 per cent. for the year. (Last year 4 per cent. on Ordinary, making 8 per cent. for the year.)

LONDON AND COLONIAL INVESTMENT.—A final dividend of 2½ per cent. actual on Preferred Stock and a dividend of 4½ per cent. actual on Deferred Stock for half-year ended September 30, 1930, less tax, making 7 per cent. for year.

MADEN AND IRELAND.—The directors of Maden and Ireland, shoe and slipper manufacturers, who report an increase in profits for the year ended 30th September last from £2,765 to £14,185, have decided to pay the dividend on the 7½ per cent. Preference shares, which was postponed in March, in addition to the dividend for the second half of the year. Although profits of the parent company improved, it was found necessary to provide £9,070 for the loss incurred by the subsidiary (compared with £4,935 in the previous year). After crediting £9,794 brought in from 1928-29 there is a balance of £4,573 to carry forward. Paid-up capital of the company, which was made public in 1927, is £245,000, of which £175,000 is in Cumulative Preference shares of £1. No dividend has been paid on the Ordinary (1/-) shares since 24 5-6ths for the initial 18 months to 30th September, 1928.

NIPPON YUSEN KAISHA.—The Board of Directors of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha Steamship Company has decided to pass the dividend this year, for the first time in the history of the company. The Nippon Yusen Kaisha Company controls 94 ships of 605,823 gross tonnage, being the leading Japanese shipping company.

NARAGUTA (NIGERIA) TIN.—The report of Naraguta (Nigeria) Tin Mines for the year ended March 31st last states that the profit amounted to £6,103, which, added to the amount brought forward from last account of £28,325, gives a total of £34,428, and after writing off the balance of abonnement renewal account, £891, there is a credit balance to carry to the next account of £33,537. It is proposed to transfer the balances standing to the credit of capital, "reserve and share premium account, aggregating £139,610, to a reserve for investments, interests and losses in subsidiary companies," in order to make provision for a specific contingent loss in Naraguta Acquisitions, Ltd. (in liquidation), and to create, for prudential reasons, a general reserve in respect to the company's interests in its Korot, Karama, and Durumi subsidiaries, which are accordingly brought into the balance sheet at a net amount of £196,046. The directors state that, whilst the company's share interests in its subsidiaries figure in the balance sheet in excess of current market prices, the shareholders are reminded that current quotations in tin shares generally reflect the prevailing deep depression in the tin industry, and can only be considered as nominal. For the previous year there was a profit of £10,582, and the last dividend was an interim of 5 per cent. for 1926-27. Output of tin concentrates for the year was 389 tons, compared with 351½ tons for the previous year, the average price realised being £117 0/2 per ton, compared with £138 10/5 for 1928-29 and £156 19/4 for 1927-28.

RHODESIA RAILWAYS TRUST.—Interim dividend of 5 per cent. (same), free of tax.

SCOTTISH TEA AND LANDS COMPANY OF CEYLON.—Final dividend of 11 per cent. actual, less tax, in respect of year to 31st August last, making, with interim dividend of 5 per cent. paid 1st May, 16 per cent. for year.

STUTTAFORD AND CO.—Further dividend on the Ordinary Shares of 5½ per cent., making a total of 10 per cent. for the year, against 12 per cent.

TINSLEY PARK COLLIERY.—A final dividend of 4 per cent. actual, less tax, on Ordinary, making 9 per cent., against 10 per cent., including bonus of 2½ per cent.

UNILEVER.—A Hague telegram states that the Board of Directors of Unilever, Ltd., yesterday declared an interim dividend of 4 per cent. upon the Ordinary Shares, payable on November 17th. (This is the same as last year, being 9.6d. per share.)

FOOD AND PRODUCE MARKETS.

Birkenhead—Cattle dull trade, good demand for Lambs. Merklands Wharf—Good quality, steady demand. Manchester—Pigs moderate demand. Birmingham—Pigs dearer. Wakefield—Cattle sharper demand. London—Slow demand. Rubber steady. Tin easier. Wheat firmer.

CATTLE.

LONDON (METROPOLITAN).—Entries of fat beasts were on a slightly larger scale compared with the corresponding market day last week. A slow demand prevailed, and prices were occasionally the turn in buyers' favour. Shorthorns 5/6 to 5/10, Herefords 5/10 to 6/2. Sheep were more numerous than last week, an increase of 30 being penned. Trade made quiet progress, and rates occasionally 4d. per stone lower. Home and Midland counties wethers 8/- to 8/8, Kent ewes 4/8 to 5/2, while lambs marke a decline of 2d. to 4d. per stone at 8/8 to 9/6 as to quality, all per stone of 8lb. to sink the offal. Total supplies: 268 beasts, 871 sheep and lambs.

BIRKENHEAD—A very dull trade prevailed for the cattle on offer to-day, only choice classes maintaining recent rates, while other sorts were difficult to move. A poor demand was experienced for lambs, recent quotations being very hard to obtain. On offer—597 Irish cattle, and 1,300 lambs.

WAKEFIELD.—Numbers: 176 cattle and 624 sheep met a sharper demand. Best English beef 9½d. per lb., secondarys 8½d.; fat cows and bulls 6d. to 7d., Irish 9d. Small hogg sheep 1/2 per lb., sheep 1/1, large 1/-, ewes 6d. to 8d., tups 5d., lambs 1/2 to 1/2½.

HULL.—Best beef 10/6 per stone; second class 10/-; small young cows 8/- to 9/-, rough cows 7/-. Strong sheep 13d., ewes 6d. to 8d.; large pork 9/6, medium 10/-, small 11/6.

MERKLANDS WHARF—Numbers of Irish fat cattle forward at Merklands to-day slightly smaller. Good quality beasts met steady demand, but scarce. Other classes no dearer. Best bullocks and heifers from 44/- to 48/-, secondary 36/- upwards. Bulls again met fair trade, ranging up to 42/- per cwt. Bulls and cows totalled 74, bullocks 1,250, lairage 1,385.

MANCHESTER PIG—Shipments from Ireland to this country week ended October 26th totalled 9,771, against 8,696 the previous week, and 8,123 the corresponding period last year. Spot supply and demand for small pigs of moderate character Cutters quoted 15/- to 16/-, sizeable baconers 12/6 to 13/-, sows 10/- per score, estimated dressed carcase weight.

BIRMINGHAM PIG.—Small supply, and on the short side. A good demand operating, and values firm. Bacons 6d. dearer. Quotations:—Sizeable bacons 13/-, cutters 14/- to 16/-, according to weight and quality, and sows 10/6 per score, dead-weight.

LIVERPOOL.—WHEAT—With lower American and Argentine markets and liberal world's shipments for the past week, forward deliveries of wheat here gave way sharply during early trading, and, although a moderate recovery took place later on, prices again moved downwards, and, aided by weak afternoon cables, final rates were the worst, and marked a heavy depreciation on the day; c.i.f. parcels of wheat 6d. to 9d. lower, with business confined to No. 2 Manitoba, arrived, at 27/3, with Rosario Santa Fe, 62lb., November, quoted 26/- per quarter; c.i.f. parcels of maize weak at fully 9d. decline for River Plate, January-February being quoted at 16/6, against 17/4½ per quarter paid on Saturday. Wheat on the spot dull and lower. MAIZE—Spot parcels quiet at 3/10½ to 3/11 per cental for River Plate. FLOUR quiet and favouring buyers. Graded wheat futures, after giving way 1d. to 1½d. per cental during the early trading, recovered ½d., but again declined under pressure to sell, the market eventually closing easy at 1½d. to 2d. under Saturday.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON—There is again a fair demand for Continental, chiefly Danish, but, with expected increased arrivals of the latter, in view of the recent heavy killings in Denmark, sellers offer more freely at the official quotations, while Irish rules quietly steady, with limited offerings, and American also in small compass, though no quotable change made in values of any description. HAMS still sparingly offered, especially short cut, which are raised 1/- for all averages, prices now ranging from 94/- to 99/- per cwt. Shoulders still scarce and nominal. LONDON METALS MARKET.

TIN EASIER.

TIN—The standard market presented generally quiet features, with slight irregularity in attendance. Eastern advices were unaltered, but here prices were officially 2/6 cash and 5/- forward lower on balance. Standard cash quoted £112 to £112 2/6, three months £113 5/- to £113 7/6; settlement price £112. Sales amounted to 450 tons. Cash at £112. £112 2/6 and £112; three months £113, £113 10/- and £113 7/6; English ingots quoted £113 10/- to £114 10/-. In the East 275 tons sold over the week-end on the basis of £117 10/- c.i.f. terms. COPPER—Market firmer and a good demand was reservedly met. Cash on balance ruled 20/- and forward 21/3 per ton up. Standard cash (also three months) quoted at £44 8/9 to £44 10/-; settlement price £44 10/-. 700 tons changed hands; three months at £44, £44 10/- and £44 7/6; electros £45 5/- to £46 5/-, wire bars £46 5/-. LEAD quiet, but generally steady, as sellers refrained from pressing. 150 tons sold; good soft foreign pig January (also February) at £15 12/6; settlement price £15 10/-. English quoted £17. SPELTER quiet and barely steady, offerings being in excess of demand. 200 tons sold; January at £15 2/6, February £15 5/-; settlement price £14 12/6. ALUMINIUM, QUICKSILVER and TIN PLATES unaltered. Second session—Tin dull. 100 tons sold. Cash quoted £112, three months sold £113 5/-. Copper firm. 300 tons sold. Cash quoted £45, three months sold £44 10/- to £45. Lead (also spelter) unchanged.

AUSTRALIAN WOOL SALES.

On the first day of a two-day sale at Melbourne the offerings amounted to 9,460 bales. The selection was average to good, and included Riverina clips. The hardening of prices at other centres was fully confirmed. Competition was very keen, especially for the better class merinos and cross-breds. The Continent, Japan, Yorkshire and America were the chief buyers. The top price obtained was 13½d.

SYDNEY, Monday.

At the opening sale of the third series, at which an aggregate of 168,000 bales are being offered, 9,290 bales of the 10,487 offered were sold. Private sales totalled 1,837 bales. There was a good selection. The market was firm and equal to the closing rates at the last series for the bulk, and in sellers' favour for spinners' wools. Competition was very firm from all sections, chiefly France, Japan, Germany and Yorkshire. The United States competed for suitable lines. Faulty wools were still irregular and difficult to sell. The average price in the final week of the last series was 7.8d. At to-day's sale greasy merino realised up to 19¾d.—a record for the season—marked Richardson Bereen, from the Barraba district; comebacks 10¼d., and crossbreds 9½d.

IRISH FAIRS.

ATHY (COUNTY KILDARE), November 5th.—Average-sized cattle fair, the approximate numbers on offer being: Store cattle 750, fat cattle 90, springers and milch cows 120, and calves 100. Some 120 lambs and 150 fat sheep were also shown. The cattle offered were composed chiefly of shorthorn stock. Good attendance of buyers. All classes of stores with quality and condition were in fair demand; inferior sorts were hard to cash. About 65 per cent. of the exhibits changed hands. Prime fat cattle were in good request, but secondary sorts were neglected. Choice springers and milch cows were in demand. Fat lambs were in demand. Prime fat sheep sold readily to local victuallers at steady rates, but aged ewes sold slowly. Range of prices per head:—Calves, under 6 months, £2 to £4 10/-. Store cattle: 6 to 12 months, £5 to £10; 1 to 2 years, £8 to £15; 2 to 3 years, £12 to £18; 3 years and over, £14 to £20. Fat cattle: 2 to 3 years, £16 to £21; cows and bulls, £13 to £20. Springers (cows and heifers), £15 to £26. Milch cows (down calved), £14 to £25. Lambs (under 12 months): Long wools, downs and cross-breds, 30/- to 42/-. Fat sheep: 2 years and over, long wools, downs and cross-breds, 35/- to 52/6.

EDGEWORTHSTOWN (COUNTY LONGFORD), November 5th.—Average-sized cattle fair, the approximate numbers on offer being:—Store cattle 1,024, fat cattle 82, springers and milch cows 21, calves 18. Some 250 lambs and 16 fat sheep were also offered. The cattle fair was composed of shorthorn, Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford crosses. Moderate attendance of buyers, but store cattle suitable for export met a dragging demand at lower prices. Young stores were readily cashed at slightly reduced values. Fat cattle were in moderate request at recent rates. Springers and milch cows changed hands at high figures. Fat lambs met an improved trade; thin lots were hard to cash. The majority of the fat sheep offered were cleared. Range of prices per head:—Calves, under 6 months, £2 10/- to £4 10/-. Store cattle: 6 to 12 months, £6 to £10; 1 to 2 years, £9 10/- to £13 15/-; 2 to 3 years, £13 10/- to £17 10/-; 3 years and over, £16 to £21. Fat cattle: 3 years and over, £20 to £23 10/-. Springers (cows and heifers), £17 10/- to £26. Milch cows (down calved), £15 to £23 10/-. Lambs (under 12 months): Long wools, downs and cross-breds, 30/- to 42/6. Fat sheep: 2 years and over, long wools, 55/- to 65/-.

Nathaniel Ashton (27), rag hawker, charged at Liverpool Assizes yesterday with the murder of Mrs. Annie McGranaghan (24), in a caravan in Warrington, was found guilty of manslaughter and was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude.

VEGETABLES AND FRUIT.

SOUTH COUNTY DUBLIN SHOW.

At the Autumn Show of the South County Dublin Horticultural Society, held in the People's Park, Dun Laoghaire, on Saturday last, there was a splendid display of apples, pears and chrysanthemums, but the quantity and quality of the apples was the most striking feature. CATTLE-DRIVING ON PUBLIC ROADS.

NEED FOR REVISION OF BY-LAWS.

The recent accident at Swords, when Thomas Caulfield, a cattle drover, of 18 Upper Dominick street, Dublin, was knocked down by a 'bus in North street, Swords, and killed, was recalled at Swords District Court, before District Justice Reddin, when Thomas Waddock, Upper Clanbrassil street, Dublin, and John McCormack, Rush House, Rush, were charged with the manslaughter of Thomas Caulfield.

"I should like to remark," he said, "that the point of this street where the collision occurred, from the evidence of a great number of witnesses, would not appear to be sufficiently lit. Secondly, I should like to remark that the County Council by-laws governing the driving of cattle on the public roads are almost a quarter of a century old. They were made when motor traffic, in the sense we know it, was unknown and are obsolete in present conditions. It is not the first time I have had to make some comment on this fact; I now comment again and recommend the revision of these by-laws, so that they may be brought up-to-date and have some relation to modern traffic conditions. Had the unfortunate man had a lamp he might not have been killed."

FUR SALES.

At the continuation of the fur auctions furs in Sections VIII. and XII. were offered and the tone continued generally easy, with offerings in many cases unsold. Firmness only appeared in the case of Russian badger, which gained 10 per cent. compared with the April sales. According to Messrs. Blatspiel Stamp and Heacock, Ltd.. Persian lamb rose 7½ per cent., and lamb sold well. In the case of squirrel, Siberian black and dark tails were unchanged, also fitch, pony, grizzly bear, wild cat, mole and nutria. Declines included 25 per cent in full silver fox, 20 per cent. in average silver fox, also kolinsky and Russian wolf, 10 per cent. in marmot, 5 to 10 per cent. in Siberian squirrel brown and red tails, while silver fox black slight silver and quarter silver were unchanged to 10 per cent. lower.

THE SUGAR-BEET INDUSTRY.

The position of the sugar-beet industry in the Irish Free State is the subject of an instructive article by "J. J. C." in the Catholic Bulletin for November. The writer holds that the beet crop has been a successful venture for the sowers even with the reduced price in 1929-'30. On the industrial side, it is pointed out, the beet factory is a most prosperous concern. The writer, however, refers to the heavy cost of subsidy of the industry, and remarks that it would be "cheaper for the country as a whole to buy sugar abroad and spill it in the streets for our people to take it for the picking-up than to produce sugar in Carlow as it is produced."

THE OLD AND THE NEW.

Mr. F. Kenny, the retiring Master, chatting with Major Waller, who succeeds him, at a meet of the Galway Blazers.

LATE LIEUT.-COLONEL HELY HUTCHINSON'S PROPERTY.

There was a very large and representative attendance at the clearance sale held for the executors of the late Lieutenant-Colonel C. R. Hely Hutchinson, of Lissen Hall, Swords, Co. Dublin, at Seapoint Farmyard yesterday. Messrs. Craigie Bros., Dublin, were the auctioneers, and got through a heavy day's programme with expedition. The first lot to come into the ring was the five-year-old thoroughbred mare, Telephassa by Courageous, dam by Lemberg, and covered by Jackdaw of Rheims. Her yearling colt was sold at Ballsbridge last August for 130 guineas, and she, herself, became the property of Mr. A. Craigie, Dublin, for 50 guineas. Four good farm horses of Clydesdale type, met with spirited bidding and changed hands at 32 to 46 guineas. The eight-year-old mare, Blossom, was sold to Mr. Delaney for 42 guineas; the six-year-old, Molly, to Mr. Kelly for 32 guineas; the five-year-old mare, Florrie, to Mr. Kelly Tighe, Coolock, for 32 guineas, and a four-year-old gelding, trained to all work except carting, to Mr. G. O'Neill, Raheny, for 46 guineas. A pony, 13 hands, that has been hunted and driven by children, was sold for nine guineas to Captain Bellingham, Baily, Co. Dublin.

CATTLE.

There was a useful lot of pedigree shorthorn cattle on offer and these were sold as follow:—

	Gns.

Registered dairy cow with milk record of 1,310 gallons (Captain Bellingham) ...	27½
Cow in calf (Mr. Dickie)	24

Other cows brought 16½ and 18 guineas.

A number of forward conditioned horned bullocks met with a brisk inquiry and changed hands at prices ranging from £17 10/- to £23, which was the top price for stores. Some polly bullocks brought up to £19 5/-. Heifers that have been running with shorthorn bull since June last brought from £14 to £16 each, the buyers including Mr. David Barry and Messrs. Hughes Bros.

A choice lot of Aberdeen Angus bullock calves from Miss Hely Hutchinson realised £9 10/- each, and a similar lot of heifers calves £9. For a fat cow, the property of Miss Hely Hutchinson, £19 10/- was the price obtained.

Crops, carriages, harness, farming implements, etc., also came under the hammer and realised satisfactory prices.

REMEMBRANCE SUNDAY.

DUNDRUM.—Remembrance Sunday was observed in Dundrum, Co. Dublin, by a parade of ex-Service men to ten o'clock Mass, which was celebrated by the Rev. Fr. Larkin, C.C. After Mass the procession reformed, and, headed by the standard-bearer, returned to the Fountain, where it was joined by the Protestant members. The whole party then proceeded to Churchtown Cemetery to lay wreaths in memory of the ex-Service men who are interred there. The two minutes' silence was observed, and, after the Last Post was sounded, the procession proceeded to Taney Parish Church. Here, also, a wreath was laid on the War Memorial, and the two minutes' silence was observed. The Last Post was sounded and the procession left the church and again returned to the Fountain, where the dismiss was given.

LONGFORD.—Longford ex-Service men paraded at the Market Square, wearing their decorations. The parade, headed by the Irish National Foresters' Band, marched through the town. A large number of people wore the poppy. The War Memorial on the Market Square was decorated for the occasion.

WEXFORD.—Wexford ex-Service men, wearing their medals and decorations, and accompanied by the pipers' band of the Major Willie Redmond Branch of the British Legion, attended at 11 o'clock Mass on Sunday in the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

NAVAN.—Ex-Service men from Navan and surrounding district, Dunsany, Trim and Athboy, headed by the C.Y.M.S. brass band, marched through the streets of the town to Services in the two churches. After Divine Service the men assembled again on the Fair Green, and, headed by the band and the officers, marched around the town, re-assembling in front of the Legion Hall, where they were dismissed. On the Square the two minutes' silence was observed. The following officers took part in the march:—General Hammond, D.S.O.; Majors O'Hare, W. Sharp and Meagher; Captain Cullen, Dr. Ross, and the Rev. Mr. Hipwell, Army chaplain.

NENAGH.—Nenagh ex-Service men assembled at the ex-Service men's club, wearing their medals and decorations, and headed by their fife and drum band marched to 11 o'clock to St. Mary's of the Rosary, where Solemn Requiem High Mass was offered up for the repose of the souls of all the men of the district who fell in the Great War. The men were under the command of General Koe. A Memorial Service was also held in St. Mary's church by the Rev. Chancellor M'Dowell (Rector). After the Services the men returned to the grounds of the ex-Service men's club, where wreaths were placed by General Koe and others on the Fallen Memorial Cross. The two minutes' silence was observed and the Last Post sounded, after which the "dismiss" was given. Flanders poppies were worn by all taking part in the parade.

KELLS.—The ex-Service men of Kells (Co. Meath), wearing their medals and poppies, paraded outside the Legion headquarters, under the command of Vice-Admiral A. W. Craig-Waller, C.B. Headed by the Kells Brass and Reed Band, the men, under the command of Admiral Waller, marched around the town. At St. Columbkille's Church the 11.30 o'clock Mass was celebrated for the repose of the souls of the men of Kells and district who were killed in the Great War. The Rev. P. Doyle, C.C., was celebrant of the Mass.

The death is announced in Lahore of Sir Moti Sagar, ex-Vice-Chancellor of Delhi University.—(Reuter).

FALSE PRETENCES CHARGE.

COURT STORY OF PRIZE-WINNING TICKETS.

In the Swords District Court yesterday, four new charges were preferred against John Liston, of Parnell street, Dublin, who had been remanded from Dunshaughlin District Court on charges of obtaining various sums of money by false pretences from a number of people in the Counties Meath and Dublin.

At yesterday's hearing Guard Delaney deposed to having charged the accused man with attempting to obtain money by false pretences from Mrs. Wade, Balrothery; Mrs. O'Neill, Clonswords; Mrs. Teeling, St. Margaret's and Mrs. Crawley, Knocksedan. When charged, witness said, the accused man said "That is correct."

Mrs. Mary G. Wade, Balrothery, deposed that on October 11 she was in M'Cormack's shop in Balbriggan about 3 p.m. when the accused man came in, and asked Mrs. M'Cormack if Mrs. Wade (witness) had been in—that he had some important business with her. He told her it was rather pleasant business; that she had fallen in for some money in connection with a sweepstake ticket she had purchased. She said that there must be some mistake, that she had not purchased any sweep ticket. He seemed convinced that she was the person, and said that it was important that everything should be fixed up by 4 o'clock, and asked her could she get home in ten minutes, that the "head man" was waiting up at the house. She got home about 3.20 p.m., but found nobody waiting for her. After about ten minutes the defendant came up on a bicycle, and producing papers told her that she had won £67 10s. in the Lusk Bazaar, and that she was to pay a registration fee of £2 before he could give an advance of £10. He also mentioned something about her becoming a shareholder in the Avoca Operatic Company.

Witness did not give the £2, and he said that he would go up the road to the "head man," and that then, perhaps, it would not be necessary for her to pay the £2.

Mrs. Mary O'Neill, Clonswords, Ballyboughal, deposed that on October 8 last the accused man called to her house between 2 and 3 p.m., and told her that she was lucky, and that she was falling in for money. He told her she had won £60 in the Lusk Bazaar, and asked her for her tickets. She could not find them in the house. He then said that she would have to give him £2 before she could get the money. He asked her to sign papers, but she would not. She saw a ticket of the Lusk Bazaar with him. She did not pay him the £2. The defendant said that he would be back again, but he did not come back.

Mrs. Elizabeth Crawley, Knocksedan, Swords, deposed that on October 8, about 4.30 o'clock, the accused man called to her house, and asked her was she holder of a ticket for Lusk Bazaar. She said "No." He then said: "Swords, I mean," and asked her she got a prize. She said "No." and he told her she had won a prize of £40. She asked him who was the seller of the ticket, and he said that the seller's name got blotted off, but she was to become a shareholder in his company by depositing £2. He also said that he would give her a ticket in the Hospitals' Sweep, where she would have a chance of winning £1,400.

Mrs. Annie Teeling, Mount Ambrose, St. Margarets, also gave evidence.

The Inspector said that completed the State case against the accused as far as that area was concerned, and he asked to have him returned for trial in custody on these charges.

Justice Reddin—Is it the close of the State case?—I understand he is wanted in the city in connection with other charges.

TRANSFER ORDER.

Detective-Officer Connor said that if the Justice granted a transfer order to the City District Court it was witness's intention to have him charged there.

Asked if he had anything to say, the defendant said that he had been a month in custody on remand, and wondered if he could get bail.

The Justice said that the question of bail did not arise in connection with the present application, which was for a transfer for the completion of the case, and when it was completed he could make the application for bail.

The transfer order was granted.

THE HON. DIANA SKEFFINGTON.

FUNERAL AT ANTRIM.

The funeral of the Hon. Diana Skeffington, the twenty-one-year-old daughter of Viscount Massereene and Ferrard, who died in London on Thursday, took place yesterday afternoon to Antrim Castle grounds.

Early yesterday morning, the coffin, draped with the colours of the Massereene family, was placed in the parish church at Antrim, where it reposed until the public Service at three o'clock in the afternoon.

The chief mourners present were:—Lord and Lady Massereene, Lady Ainsworth (aunt), Captain J. Pollock and Mrs. Pollock (uncle and aunt), and Captain Grant. Sir James Ainsworth (uncle) was unable to be present owing to a serious illness.

Amongst the general mourners were:—Sir Thomas Dixon, H.M.L.; Captain the Right Hon. Herbert Dixon, D.L., M.P.; Senator Leslie, M.A.; Captain Lecky, High Sheriff of Antrim, and Mrs. Lecky; General H. G. and Mrs. Young, Mrs. D'Arcy, Colonel and Mrs. Pakenham, and members of the Antrim Castle staff and tenantry on the estate.

The Most Rev. Dr. D'Arcy delivered the address at the funeral Service, and at the conclusion the organist, by special request of Lord and Lady Massereene, played Beethoven's Funeral March. The coffin was then borne to a spot in the castle grounds, known as "The Pontier," and there placed in the grave. Girl Guides lined the route of the procession.

LAW STUDENTS' DEBATING SOCIETY.

At the meeting of the Law Students' Debating Society last night the motion was "That the abolition of the High Court Circuit is to be deplored." Mr. Joseph Mooney, B.L., Judge Advocate General, was in the chair.

The following members spoke:—The Auditor, Mr. J. M. Dillon, Messrs. Wellwood, Donovan, Nugent, T. J. A. Donovan, K. E. L. Deale, Greene and Dudley Edwards. The motion was carried by the casting vote of the chairman.

RADIO WONDERS.

STATION THAT TALKS TO EMPIRE'S OUTPOSTS.

A large party of members of the Imperial Conference and of the Committee of Experts on Imperial Communications attached to the Conference visited the Rugby Radio Station yesterday, and listened to England talking to the far corners of the world.

The party included Sir Henry Bunbury, Comptroller and Accountant-General of the Post Office; Brigadier-General Williamson, Director of Postal Services, and the Assistant Secretary in Charge of Wireless Services, Mr. F. W. Phillips.

At the last moment the Dominions Premiers were unable to make the journey owing to other engagements.

Mr. G. A. Struthers, the engineer-in-charge at Rugby, and other officials told the visitors of the wonders of the great wireless station. Mr. Struthers explained that all telephone talks to America, Australia and other places from Britain, and also from the Continent, are transmitted from the twelve giant 820 feet high masts and aerials at Rugby, the tops of which are often lost in the clouds. Messages are sent to ships in any part of the world, and the time signals sent out are gauged to a hundredth part of a second. Services to Canada, South America, Japan, and other places will be started at an early date, and the visitors saw new masts and transmitters being erected to cope with these developments.

They also saw the most powerful radio transmitter in the world which has an output equivalent to a broadcast transmitter of one thousand kilowatts. "Eventually we hope to be in contact with every colony," said Mr. Struthers, discussing Rugby's developments.

"We are putting up two masts for Canada, and, as soon as they are completed, the Japanese ones will be started."

TALKS WITH AUSTRALIA.

Some of the party talked to Sydney, Australia, where it was two o'clock in the morning of Tuesday, and the newspapers were busy producing the morning editions.

"If I had a twin brother in Sydney now," one of the visitors observed, "I should be a day younger than my twin owing to the difference in time, and, therefore, I suppose he would be entitled to keep any inheritance to himself."

Mr. C. G. Brown, a member of the Committee of Communications, gave a message of good wishes to the director of the city post office in Sydney, and Mr. Mark Dyer reminded Australia of the days when he found it difficult to believe that a telephone was really carrying a voice from a hundred yards away. In those days he was suspicious that it was some sort of conjuring trick.

Sir Norman Leslie, Secretary of the Imperial Communications' Advisory Committee, recalled that he paid a visit to the station four years ago. "Remarkable developments have taken place since then," he said, looking round. "It is a great achievement of the Post Office engineers."

Mr. J. Collyer, Postmaster-General of Southern Rhodesia, thought that the wonderful achievements of Rugby augured well for the future, and Colonel E. A. Sturman, ex-Postmaster-General of South Africa, said that the new aerial, which would shortly work to South Africa, should be a great asset in the future.

Mr. M. B. Esson, of New Zealand, pointed out that even Rugby was only a stage in the infancy of wireless. The visitors looked at, but did not ascend, the giant masts, which are six times the height of the Nelson Column, London.

FOREIGNERS' DANGER IN CHINA.

MAY BE RESCUED BY AEROPLANE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Monday.

The American Consul at Hankow has reported to the State Department that two British, four Germans and six Americans have been endeavouring for several weeks to leave Kwangchot, in Honan, which is very dangerous on account of the Communists there, but that the road from that point is unsafe.

The Consul has transmitted a request to General Ho Ying-ching asking that an effort should be made to rescue the foreigners by aeroplane, and that, failing that, a military escort should be provided.

SOLICITORS' APPRENTICES' DEBATING SOCIETY.

A meeting of the Solicitors' Apprentices' Debating Society was held at 45 Kildare street, last night, for impromptu debate. Mr. T. J. Fullerton, solicitor, was in the chair. The following members spoke:—Messrs. T. J. Bernardi, C. J. Holohan, C. Flynn, T. A. Buckley, D. Kearns, P. O'Brien, J. F. Murtagh, M. Black, G. Keegan, T. J. Hegarty, E. P. Condon, J. B. Sullivan, P. O'Leary; Miss A. M. Reid, S. Murphy, R. Callaghan, N. Reid, B.A., LL.B.

A vote of thanks to the chairman was proposed by Mr. E. Keegan and seconded by Mr. C. Flynn.

DUBLIN SKETCHING CLUB.

In our notice of the exhibition of the above club the name of Mr. Dermod O'Brien inadvertently appeared as President. The President of the Dublin Sketching Club is Mr. A. Colles.

The name of Mr. Geoffrey L. Kennedy, President of the Dublin Stock Exchange, was inadvertently omitted from the list of those who attended the Remembrance Day Service in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, on Sunday. Mr. Kennedy attended as representative of the members of the Stock Exchange.

COURSING IN DUNGANNON.

ALLEGED CRUELTY TO HARES.

SUMMONSES DISMISSED.

The opposition to hare coursing in enclosed spaces had a sequel at Dungannon Petty Sessions yesterday, when the police authorities summoned thirty-three members of the recently-formed Dungannon Coursing Club for alleged cruelty to hares at their meeting, held at Eskragh, near Dungannon, on October 15 last.

Mr. Simms, Crown Solicitor for Tyrone, said that the prosecutions were brought under the Protection of Animals Act, 1911.

Sergeant Goulding, Cookstown, said that he was on duty at the escape. The hounds followed one hare into the escape, and turned it twelve to thirteen times before killing it. Between the escape hedge and the feeding paddock there was a gate, behind which a boy stood. His duty was to shut the gate when the hare had passed through, but by an error of judgment he closed the gate when he saw the hare being closely pursued by the dogs, and the hare was killed against the gate.

THE ESCAPES.

Mr. McSparran, who defended, said that the hares were purchased from a man named Boyd, of Cloughmills, Co. Antrim, who supplied hares to a large number of coursing meetings all over Ireland. The hares had been delivered fourteen days before the Dungannon meeting, and had been put through the course twice daily to acclimatise them and give them a thorough knowledge of the escapes. The defendants maintained that the hares made direct for the escapes.

Robert Whitney, Inspector of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said that he had inspected the escapes before the meeting started. He expressed the opinion that the escapes should have been so constructed that the dogs would be unable to get through, and he told the official, who accompanied him over the course, that there was nothing to prevent dogs getting through the escape. The hares put through the chute were of a poor, weak class, and were not fit for coursing, and witness would not have accepted them for coursing. Eight of the hares coursed were found to be so infirm when slipped that the dogs were not liberated. The bulk of the hares were killed thirty yards from the escape on the water-logged portion of the course. The hares were terrified while in the chute, and, when liberated, ran to the side fence, where they had to be urged on by the shouting and whistling of men placed along the side fence. An official of the club, Mr. Charleton Irwin, told him that the hares were not on the course a full fortnight. They had not a chance on the strange ground, and witness often saw rabbits running better.

THE WATERLOO CUP.

To the Chairman—He was at the Armagh coursing meeting, where they had good hares, and a much smaller number was killed.

Mr. McSparran—Were you ever at the Waterloo Cup?—No. Do you not know that there are a greater number of men shouting all round the course there than at Dungannon, and hundreds of men urging the hare on?

Chairman—I was at the Waterloo Cup, Mr. McSparran, and you are all wrong.

Mr. McSparran (warmly)—I will not take any interruption from you.

The Chairman—I will not allow you to make misstatements in this Court.

In further cross-examination, witness stated that the slipper gave a fair slip on each occasion. The bulk of the hares travelled about two-thirds of the course, or, roughly, about 200 yards.

Mr. McSparran—Would it surprise you to know that at the Waterloo Cup 50 per cent. of the finals ended in a kill?—I do not know.

Mr. McSparran said that the case narrowed itself to the question of whether coursing, as carried out by the Dungannon Club, was legal. Coursing had been practised for hundreds of years, and that was the first prosecution brought.

Mr. McSparran contended that the hares had a reasonable chance of escape, as they had gone 70 to 100 yards before the dogs were slipped, leaving the hares 200 yards to run to the escape. He held that there was insufficient evidence to indicate cruelty, and asked for a ruling.

MAGISTRATES DIVIDED.

The magistrates, after a twenty minutes' absence, were equally divided, and the chairman announced that they would hear the defence as to the construction and suitability of the escapes.

Patrick Murray, Steward of the Irish Coursing Club, said that the escapes at Dungannon were quite suitable, and the Club erred in making the escapes too large. Witness was satisfied that everything was carried out in a proper manner, and the hares were allowed a much longer distance than was usual before the dogs were slipped.

If the hares were not in good running order, why did you not stop the meeting?—It is up to the Dungannon people to stop their meeting, and the Dungannon Club is responsible for all that takes place. I received no complaint from the district inspector or the Society's inspector, and, as Steward of the meeting, I did not consider anything amiss. I had not power to stop the meeting, but if anything had been wrong I would have reported it to the Irish Coursing Club.

By seven votes to three, the magistrates dismissed the cases. The decision was received with applause.

COUNTY DUBLIN HEALTH BOARD.

THE LIGHTING OF RUSH.

Mr. H. M. Dardis (Chairman) presided at a meeting of the Dublin County Board of Health in the offices, Parnell square, last night.

A letter was read from the Department of Local Government and Public Health in connection with the area of charge for the lighting of Rush, and the Chairman said that he had received a letter from the local Improvements Committee asking him to do what he could to get the Electricity Supply Board to light the street lamps in Rush. He added that the lamps had been there since June, but no light had been supplied.

Mr. Belton asked if it was right that, although Rush had no light, a demand had been made for payment for light for the past six months from the Electricity Supply Board.

Chairman—Quite right.

The Secretary was instructed to write to the Supply Board.

A memorial was received from residents on the road running from Doneycarney to Puckstown requesting that the road, which it is intended to widen and reconstruct, be named Collins avenue.

Having dealt with about 120 items on an agenda containing 176 items, the Board adjourned at 10.15 p.m. until Tuesday, 18th.

Mr. Charles B. Williams, joint manager of the recently formed Premier Theatrical Production Company, Ltd., and formerly general manager to Mr. C. B. Cochran, collapsed and died yesterday while discussing the production of a play at a film company's offices in Great Newport street, London. He was between fifty and sixty years of age.
